Aldrich Yields Suddenly and Accepts Clapp Amendment Removing Exemption.

FINAL VOTE SEEMS DELAYED

Committee's Other Measures Sustained —Bailey Income Tax Lost, 47 to 28—Fight on Customs Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—More talk developed in the open Senate to-day than had been expected, and it looks to-night as if Friday may find the bill still hung up this side of its final passage. While the great body of the measure was adopted this morning without a roll call, and many reserved paragraphs were adopted with little delay, important paragraphs, like those relating to tobacco, sugar, oil, and zinc, are still to be disposed of. If Senator La Follette can get some desired information in time he will make a prolonged attack on the whole bill, and Mr. La Follette's speeches of this sort generally last all day.

Bitter and protracted opposition on both sides of the Chamber to certain phases of the corporation tax brought Mr. Aldrich at last to material concessions, one of which, if it remains in the bill through the changes wrought by the conference, will mean practically the most important victory won by the insurgents in the Senate. The concession was nothing less than the acceptance of Mr. Clapp's amendment making holding companies liable for taxation on dividends they receive from the stock of other corporations in their possession.

At the outset Mr. Aldrich bitterly denounced the proposed amendment as double taxation, and as an entirely unwarranted singling out of institutions for hostile action. Several Republicans took issue with him on the subject, and suddenly he changed front and accepted the amendment, which was then agreed to without delay. Mr. Aldrich's shift of position seemed to come without even a consultation with the other members of the committee who were on the floor with him, and is taken as a sign of the arbitrary power vested in him by his supporters. The volte-face came so quickly that Senators of all factions were dumbfounded.

To-night differences of opinion are as wide as ever as to the significance of the surrender, and even on the floor Mr. Aldrich was openly taunted with intending to shut off debate by the concession and then quietly to drop the obnoxious amendment in conference. Mr. Aldrich replied with heated and sweeping assurances that such was not his intention. He admitted that the amendment like many others did not meet with his approval, but he assured the Senate that, as a manager on the part of the Senate, he would feel in honor bound to defend all Senate provisions in conference, whether agreeable to him or not.

Say Aldrich Feared Vote.

That ended the matter on the floor, but in hotel lobbies to-night the question is still regarded as an open one. Some Senators say that the opposition to the exemption of holding corporations—in regard to which Mr. Clapp made a spirited attack on Mr. Aldrich and the President a few days ago—was so strong at the last that Mr. Aldrich feared to let the amendment come to a vote. It is known that during the discussion a count of noses was in progress, but the exact result was not given out nor the positive assurance that the poll was directed by Mr. Aldrich.

Except on this point the committee was everywhere sustained. The customs court provision after a bitter fight was passed, Senator Bailey's motion substituting the income tax for the corporation measure was quickly defeated by a vote of 28 to 47, and all other amendments to the corporation tax met the same fate. The amendments were generally in the form of exemptions of certain corporations or of corporations with less than a certain capital stock, and the votes against them were always decisive.

In a few cases changes were made, but only with the assent of the committee. Senator Bulkeley thus obtained a reduction of the duty on cheap watch dials, and the committee also permitted a provision for the free admission of machines used for the spreading of tar and oil on streets and roads.

The debate in regard to the proposed customs court brought on the sharpest colloquy of the day. Senator Clapp, whose "insurgency" has been getting more and more personal as Senator Aldrich's victories have continued with unabated regularity, openly intimated that some support for the measure had been purchased by Senator Aldrich's concession providing that the court should sit in many seaport cities other than New York. Though Mr. Clapp called no names, Senator Bailey was on his feet in a moment with a heated disclaimer of any trading. He admitted that he had secured the inclusion of Galveston, Texas, in the list, but said he did so simply because he thought the South Gulf Coast should have a sitting of the court. He said at first that the original draft of the measure, when the Democrats were allowed to see it, made Baltimore the most southern city for the sessions of the court, though on second thought he modified this statement and admitted that New Orleans was already provided for.

Clapp Charges Log Rolling.

"If the Senator will look on the map and see the locations of the cities provided for in this court provision," said Mr. Clapp, interrupting Senator Dolliver's expression of wonder at the support the customs court was receiving, "I think he will see where the support comes from."

"I am trying to cover up rather than expose that suspicion," replied Mr. Dolliver, smiling.

Mr. Bailey then made his defense, but Mr. Clapp, contrary to the ordinarily suave custom of the Senate, refused to retract the implied charge in his remarks.

"Ordinarily," said Mr. Clapp, "I would not throw such a suspicion on members of the Senate, but when I see a measure like this I cannot doubt but that the Senator from Rhode Island has had to take measures to reconcile to it the different parts of the country."

"Well," said Mr. Bailey, speaking slowly, "I would advise the Senator as a friend to find some other objection, for this one is positively not true."

Both Senator Aldrich and Senator Lodge came to Mr. Bailey's defense with the statement that the location of the court cities was entirely with a view to the convenience of litigants. It was absurd, they said, to imagine that great cities would care whether or not the court met within their limits. Later Mr. Bailey made a brief speech for the court, and six Democrats followed his lead in voting for

DRAG BRITISH FLAG IN MUD.

American Tourists in Canada Tied the Emblem to Axles of Their Tallyho.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, July 7.—A big delegation of Aldermen, Controllers, ministers, and Orangemen angered by an episode on the streets yesterday asked Mayor Oliver to order the police to stop any further insults to the British flag by American tourists visiting here. As the result an order was issued to-day practically giving the police power to arrest foreign tourists who insist on flaunting their country's flag, especially if the act implies derision of the Canadian emblem.

The civic action resulted from a tallyho drive yesterday by about twenty-five American tourists staying at the King Edward Hotel here. Two British flags were tied to the axles, the cloth dragging through the mud. A score of American Stars and Stripes were flown from the high seats, and the tourists constantly pointed down at the tattered and dirty Union Jack.

The occupants drove up the main streets, and even to the Parliament Buildings, where jeers from bystanders greeted the exhibition. Montalieu Nesbitt, a prominent lawyer here, put his wrath into action and after chasing the tallyho with others appealed to the police for the arrest of the occupants. This was refused, the police asserting that the buyer of a flag could use it as he pleased. The travelers returned quickly to their hotel and could not be found later.

The Evening News refers editorially to the Americans' action as "impudent and impertinent," and The Evening Star calls it a "triumph of bad manners." Prominent Americans visiting here denounce through newspaper interviews the action of their countrymen.

BARS OUR ANTHEM.

Canadian Hotel Proprietor Makes Orchestra Change Melody.

Special to The New York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 7.—"The Star Spangled Banner" can no longer be heard in the dining room of the Clifton House, on the Canadian side, the most fashionable hotel along the Niagara frontier. George R. Major, the proprietor, has placed a ban on the American air because a member of the American Whist Congress, that concluded its annual convention at that place, to-day twitted him when he refused to rise and join the Americans in singing the chorus.

When he did rise, Mrs. Major, who sat at the table with her husband, leaned over and said something to her husband. He walked over to the leader of the orchestra. When the musicians concluded the first chorus they struck up a melody of airs, concluding with "The Maple Leaf," Canada's national anthem.

In explanation of his order, Mr. Major declared that he saw no reason why he should rise out of respect to "The Star Spangled Banner" as it was not America's National anthem, and he did not propose having it played in the dining room and disturb the guests while they were at their meals, as they would always rise when it was being played.

POLICEMAN'S BRAVE RESCUE.

Reaches Over Car Fender and Throws Child Out of Danger—Himself Hurt.

Policeman Williams of the Hamilton Avenue Station, Brooklyn, was riding on the front seat of an open crosstown trolley car as it sped down Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, late yesterday afternoon. As the car neared Clinton Street a little boy 2 years old toddled out into the street and stood upon the car tracks looking in the opposite direction, heedless of his danger.

The car was traveling rapidly and Williams realized instantly that it could not be stopped in time to save the child. While the motorman tugged at his brake the policeman climbed down on the running board and then swung himself out on to the fender. Standing there, he waited until the car, still moving swiftly, was about to hit the child. Then he leaned far over, caught the child by its clothing, and tossed it to one side out of the path of the car.

The effort threw the policeman off his balance, however, but by a lurch of his body Williams managed to fall clear of the car. He lay where he fell, however, and the crowd which ran to his assistance, including the passengers of the car, which had stopped by this time, learned that in falling he had sprained his left ankle so badly that he could not stand.

Williams was taken home in an ambulance. An ambulance surgeon examined the child Williams had saved and found him unhurt. His thankful mother said the boy's name was Robert Bucettaff of 107 Atlantic Avenue.

ROOSEVELT KILLS MORE GAME

Shoots Lion in Chest While It Is in Full Charge.

NAIVASHA, British East Africa, July 7.—The Roosevelt expedition is having good hunting and all the members of the party are well. This information was brought into Naivasha to-day by courier from the Sotik district.

Mr. Roosevelt has killed a splendidly-maned lion, one lioness, and four rhinoceroses. He brought down the lion while the beast was in full charge, the bullet penetrating the middle of the chest. Kermit Roosevelt has secured one big bull eland, one lioness, and two rhinoceroses. In addition both hunters have been successful in bringing down a large variety of other game.

The party is coming in to the farm of Capt. Richard Atterborough, on the south shore of Naivasha Lake, where Col. Roosevelt and his son will make use of a launch in hippopotamus hunting.

Plan of Administration Would Give Her Practical Sovereignty in Manchurian Towns.

OUR PROTEST HOLDS IT UP

State Department Objects to American Residents Being Removed from the Authority of United States Consuls.

PEKING, July 7.—The Russo-Chinese treaty, against the ratification of which the Government of the United States had made formal protest through Mr. Fletcher, its Chargé d'Affaires here, is an extraordinary document. Under the guise of an apparently simple arrangement for the settlement of the vexatious questions constantly arising in the administration of municipal affairs along the line of the Russian portion of the Chinese Eastern Railway, it confers a power upon Russia practically tantamount to sovereignty in those municipalities. The protest of the American Government, however, has served to prevent ratification for the present.

On its face the treaty aims simply to provide new municipal regulations for the administration of the settlements along the line of that part of the railway which is still controlled by Russia. The nominal head of the railway is a Chinese official, who maintains his residence here, but the real power in the system is Russian.

The treaty stipulates that all the important railway towns shall be administered by municipal councils, the members of which shall be chosen at general elections, in which all the inhabitants of the respective municipalities, without regard to nationality, shall be eligible, on certain property qualifications, to vote. Any voter is also eligible to membership in the Council. The franchise qualification is ownership of a certain amount of real estate or the payment of specified amounts of real estate rentals or taxes.

Powers of the Council.

Each Municipal Council is to elect its own President from among its members, also an Executive Board composed of three of its members, to whom are to be added one member appointed by the Chinese Taotai of the municipality and one appointed by the Russian Director of the Chinese Eastern Railway. The President of the Council is to be ex officio Chairman of the Executive Board. This board is charged with the execution of the ordinances of the Council.

The Council is to have power to legislate upon all questions concerning the municipality, except that in cases where institutions are established by restricted interests they are to be supported entirely by such interests. Thus, an American school would depend entirely for its support upon Americans and would be controlled entirely by them. So with the churches, clubs, and hospitals established by the different nationalities.

All ordinances of a Council, to be valid, must be approved by the Chinese Taotai and the Russian Director of the Railway, who thus receive a joint veto power. When so approved ordinances are to be binding upon all inhabitants of the municipality. If not approved by both the Taotai and the Russian Director an ordinance is to be returned to the Council for revision. If passed again by a three-fourths vote it becomes effective, but there is an exception to this provision which practically makes every ordinance subject to Russian approval. It is provided that "measures concerning public interest and municipal finance," when passed by a Council over the veto of the Taotai and the Russian Director, must be submitted to the Chinese President of the railway here in Peking and to the Russian chief administrator of the railway at St. Petersburg. If not approved by both of these officials it is not to go into effect.

Basis of Protest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The objection of this Government to the Russo-Chinese treaty for the administration of the railway towns is that it excludes the United States from any voice in the formation or execution of the municipal regulations, while it proposes to bind Americans resident in any such town to be controlled by such regulations or ordinances. It is understood that this is also the chief ground of protest on the part of Great Britain, France, and Austria.

While theoretically the nationals of other countries than China and Russia resident in such towns would have an opportunity to participate through the election of the Council in their own government, in point of fact the treaty provisions confer such power upon the Russians as to render the Municipal Government practically that of the Russian Railway Director and the Chinese Taotai, which if past experience is a reliable guide, is tantamount to giving entire control to Russia. Chinese officials brought into such relations with Russians heretofore have never exhibited the degree of independence that would be necessary to protect the nationals of other countries.

The treaty is regarded at the State Department as a violation of the open-door principle to which Russia has formally adhered. This Government holds that the status of the railway settlements is the same for practical administrative purposes as that of the treaty ports. Under the extra-territoriality provisions of the treaty with China, Americans resident in the treaty ports are subject governmentally to the jurisdiction of the United States Consular officers.

The protest of this Government against ratification of the treaty with Russia demands, first, that United States Consular officers shall be consulted as to any municipal regulations or ordinances to be issued; and, second, that such measures shall not become binding upon Americans until the

DEAD WOMAN'S CHECK TO FURNACE TENDER

Referee Says, However, That Mrs. Howard's $10,000 Paper Is Fraudulent.

CHECK WRITING HER HOBBY

Many of Them Found Among Her Effects After Her Death, According to Witnesses.

A remarkable story was told yesterday in a referee's report filed in the County Clerk's office by ex-Justice Ernest Hall in an action brought by Thomas A'Hearn against Henrietta H. Watson and Mary A. Watson, as administratrices of the goods and chattels of Ann R. Howard, a wealthy woman, who died on March 15, 1908, at the age of 80.

A'Hearn was in her employ at the time of her death, and subsequently produced a check for $10.000 which he said the aged woman had given him for past services. The defendants protested the check, and Surrogate Cohalan appointed Mr. Hall to try the case. In his report, Referee Hall finds that the transaction as described by A'Hearn never took place, and recommends judgment in favor of the defendants.

After stating the cause of action Mr. Hall says:

"A'Hearn is a man about 40, and previous to his employment by Mrs. Howard had been receiving $40 a month as wages, presumably without board and lodging. About seven years before the death of Mrs. Howard he was employed by her as a servant or houseman at $20 a month and his board and lodging. His duties consisted of caring for the furnace, cleaning windows, going errands, and such other matters pertaining to his position.

"At the time of his employment the family of Mrs. Howard consisted of A'Hearn, a cook named Susan McGovern, and a man named Parsons, who seemed to have been a kind of secretary and general manager of Mrs. Howard's business affairs, looking after her property and collecting rents. Parsons died in 1907, and no one was employed to take his place.

"After his death, and perhaps before, A'Hearn had been in the habit of writing checks on the bank which were signed by Mrs. Howard, and going to the bank with her to draw the money from time to time, and at one time, hereinafter referred to, he drew a check for $1,500 which was signed by Mrs. Howard and went to the bank and drew the money on it, which he gave to her.

"There seems to be no question that A'Hearn performed his services to the satisfaction of Mrs. Howard, and that she was desirous of retaining him in her employ. He was a man of hasty temper and somewhat profane, but there is no evidence that he was ever under the influence of liquor or that he ever used unseemly language in her presence.

"After a year A'Hearn became dissatisfied with his wages and threatened to leave. Mrs. Howard promised that she would pay him all at once and would give him more than he was getting to remain with her. This was repeated on several occasions. But A'Hearn remained with her until she died. Mrs. Howard was an old lady of about 80 years at her death. She was large and stout, weighing more than 200 pounds, and during the last year of her life she was suffering from incipient paresis, and had frequent lapses of memory.

"During the last year of her life Mary A. Watson, her grandniece, lived with her, and for the last three months of her life she was under the constant care of a trained nurse. She had a habit of signing many checks in blank and leaving them about at different places in her house to which other people had access, sometimes partly filling them in with dates and amounts. A large number of such checks were produced, bearing her signature, which had been discovered after her death.

"A'Hearn says that on Jan. 3, 1908, he filled out and drew a check to his own order on the Chemical National Bank, where she kept her account, and that she signed it and told Susan McGovern, the cook, in A'Hearn's presence that she was going to give it to the plaintiff 'for past services rendered; special services rendered,' and that he was not to get the money until after her death. It will be noticed that there is no mention of the amount of the check, and that the only testimony of that intention or promise on the part of Mrs. Howard regarding any payment to him was that she would pay him more than she was paying him 'all at once.'

"There is no direct evidence to contradict the testimony of plaintiff or his witnesses, but there is a great amount of circumstantial evidence, which, in my opinion, is irresistible, and convinces me that the transaction as related by plaintiff and his witnesses never took place. I am convinced from all the evidence that Mrs. Howard never instructed A'Hearn to fill out this check to his own order, and never knew or appreciated the fact that such a check had been drawn. I am of opinion that Mrs. Howard did compensate A'Hearn liberally for his services in addition to the payment of his regular wages.

"On Feb. 28, 1908, just two weeks before Mrs. Howard's death, a check was drawn by A'Hearn on the Chemical National Bank to bearer for $1,500, and was signed by Mrs. Howard. A'Hearn went to the bank and drew the money and took it to Mrs. Howard, who placed it in the pocket of her petticoat. It is sufficiently proven that no part of the money was used by her in the payment of bills, and yet when she died she had not one cent of money on her person, or in the pocket of her petticoat. I think it altogether probable that Mrs. Howard gave that money, or some part of it, to A'Hearn in recognition of his services, and this is somewhat corroborated by the fact that immediately after her death, when the pocket of her petticoat was examined in the presence of A'Hearn and no money was found, he looked confused and turned pale."

In conclusion, Referee Hall says: "From the evidence in the case, I am of opinion that the claim of the plaintiff is not sustained by the evidence, and should be dismissed."

PRESBYTERY ORDAINS DISSENTING THEOLOG

One of Three Union Graduates Admitted Over a Minority Protest.

PASTORS QUIT THE SERVICE

Decline to be Present for the Ordination and Will Appeal to the Synod.

George A. Fitch, one of the three young graduates of the Union Theological School, whose progressive views on points of doctrine caused a schism in the Presbytery when it met to examine them for ordination on June 14, was ordained last night in the chapel of the old First Presbyterian Church, at Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street.

This came about, however, only after a second meeting of the Presbytery, with seventeen members present, wherein seven of those members registered a strong protest, and were excused from attending the ordination. The Rev. John Fox announced to the meeting that he had prepared a formal protest to forward to the synod, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Gregory informed reporters that he regarded the step as an entering wedge of liberalism and against the Scriptures.

Mr. Fitch will sail on the Cedric on Saturday for England. Thence he will go to Shanghai, China, the land of his birth, to join his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. George F. Fitch, there to take up his work. Meantime Dr. Fox's protest, with the names of Dr. Gregory and six others at least attached, will go to the Synod, and it will take up the matter at the next meeting.

The trouble over these young men began as far back as April, when they were first examined. The point on which sharp issue came was on that of resurrection of the body. They said they could not take it, even in the case of Jesus Christ, as a corporate resurrection. They accepted the theory of resurrection in a spiritual sense only.

On the question of original sin, too, they would not accept the Presbyterian doctrine. They rejected the story of Adam and Eve and the apple, and their theories of the divine birth of Christ were not consistent with the Presbyterian creed.

At the April meeting some of the clergymen were moved to tears. Action was suspended. Another meeting was held on June 14, a meeting that drew out much hot argument and high feeling, yet at the end all were admitted to ordination—Mr. Fitch by a vote of 38 to 15. Last night was set for the service for him. The seventeen members gathered at 8 o'clock and at once went into executive session.

Dr. Fox immediately arose and made a formal protest, stating why he could not approve the admission of the candidate. In the course of it he spoke of his protest to the Synod. After him speeches in the same strain were made by Dr. George Lewis Shearer and Dr. J. J. Thompson. Dr. Elliott also spoke. He said that he was a liberal, but still held fast to the Bible.

On the other side were the Rev. Dr. Jesse M. Forbes, Clerk of the Presbytery; the Rev. Dr. Francis Brown, President of the Union Seminary; the Rev. Dr. Alexander, Moderator, and the Rev. Dr. William D. Wildey, the young pastor of the Good Will Chapel on the east side.

The first ballot stood 7 to 10 for Mr. Fitch's admission. Instantly one of the dissenters rose and asked permission from the Moderator that he and his adherents should be permitted to absent themselves from the ordination on the ground of conscience. The permission was granted.

At the end of the meeting, and before the ordination service, the Rev. Dr. Daniel S. Gregory, one of those opposed to ordination, said to reporters:

"I have examined students at Yale and Princeton, and don't believe in any kindergarten examinations. But these young men are hazy on certain questions. Until they are decided on them they are not ready to preach.

"The liberal element says they give a liberal interpretation to the miracles. I say they have denied the miracles. They deny both facts and doctrines of the Scripture. They said they did not doubt the virgin birth, but they won't accept it. I regard this ordination as the entering wedge of liberalism. I voted against it.

"I am managing editor of the Century Dictionary, and therefore comprehend words. The confession of faith lays down certain doctrines, and these men make direct contradictions of them. It rests with the Presbytery to decide which was true. The trouble is preachers nowadays forget they need any theology but that in 'The Bonnie Briar Bush.'

"The points at question were irreconcilable, and in so far as they have indorsed these men's denials, they threw aside the Bible. To my mind, the first two questions of the ordination service require perjury. I took the view that if we accepted the men we forced them into perjury."

In the service Dr. Alexander read these questions:

"Do you believe the Scriptures of Old and New Testament are the inspired Word of God and the only infallible rule for faith and practice?"

The candidate answered: "I do."

"Do you receive and adopt sincerely the confession of faith of the Church as containing the system of doctrine as taught in the Holy Scriptures?"

"Do you promise to uphold the discipline and doctrines of the Presbyterian Church?"

To these and all other questions the candidate answered affirmatively.

The Rev. Dr. Brown then preached a sermon in which he made no direct reference to the question of faith except in the sense of faithfulness to his calling, and after hands had been laid on the young man and he was made a pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Gregory has put his views on the question into writing and had them printed. He says:

> The three candidates denied practically all that is essential in the Presbyterian system.
> The entering wedge for dissension in Presbyterianism was in the astonishing proposal that the Presbytery should recognize as consistent, indeed, as identical, these contradictory views.
> They have explicitly or implicitly denied: The infallibility of Scriptural rule for faith and practice; the essential deity of the Lord Jesus Christ and His consequent Headship over the church; the virgin birth of the Lord and the immaculate conception, and the resurrection of the Lord from the grave.

The other two candidates who, with Mr. Fitch, refused to accept the doctrines of the Presbytery are Archibald Black, brother of the Rev. Hugh Black, and John Steen. Their ordination has not taken place, and its date is uncertain. The synod may take up the matter before their turn comes.

CUBA TALKS OF WAR WITH US.

Buys Guns Abroad, Insuring Ammunition Supply in That Case.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, July 7.—I learn the real reason for the award by the Cuban Government of the contract for rifles and field guns to a German firm was the consideration that, in case of war with the United States, Cuba would be unable to obtain ammunition that would fit the guns if they were purchased in America.

This question was thoroughly discussed before the decision was made to award the contract without public bids, which would have given American firms an opportunity to secure the contract.

The National Lottery bill was signed by President Gomez to-night.

WANTED TO SEE MRS. TAFT.

Stranger Causes Excitement by His Action at the President's Cottage.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, July 7.—Much excitement was caused here this afternoon when a stranger called at the President's cottage and insisted on seeing Mrs. Taft. He said he was a distant relative of the President. He gave his name as Torrey.

An envelope which he carried was delivered, and he went away, saying that he would call later when the President was at home.

$5,000 MACKAY HORSE KILLED.

Blood Animal, Tormented by Flies, Rears, and, Falling, Breaks Its Back.

A standard-bred stallion, for which Clarence H. Mackay of Roslyn, L. I., paid $5,000 a short time ago, had to be shot yesterday after the animal had broken its back while shaking off a fly.

The horse, attached to a high cart, was driven to the Roslyn Post Office, and a boy held him while the driver, one of the coachmen employed on the Mackay place, went into the office for the mail. A fly settled on the stallion's back, and he commenced to plunge and rear in his efforts to shake off his tormentor.

Rearing high in the air, the animal fell over backward, striking heavily. Dr. N. D. Grohan, a veterinary surgeon, said he had broken his back and neck, and ended the animal's misery with a bullet.

PRISON FOR PUCCINI'S WIFE.

Punished for Falsely Accusing Girl, Who Committed Suicide.

ROME, July 7.—Signora Puccini, wife of Giacomo Puccini, the composer, was sentenced to-day to five months' imprisonment and a fine of $120 in addition to costs and damages, the latter to be fixed by a separate court.

Some months ago Signora Puccini accused her husband and a maid in her employ of having improper relations. The girl protested her innocence, and later committed suicide. An autopsy proved that the charges against the girl were baseless.

The accusations of the wife, however, resulted in a separation, and soon after the mother of the girl instituted suit against Signora Puccini.

PARK ELK AUCTIONED OFF.

One Flat Dweller Gets Two and Says His Boy Can Play with Them.

Apparently without any idea as to what they were going to do with the animals a dozen or more Brooklynites bought twenty elk at the Prospect Park Zoo yesterday. The elk were sold to reduce the park herd, which had grown too large.

The bids for the animals were astonishingly low, the highest price offered being $3.50 and the lowest $1.50. Appropriately enough, as it seemed, the elk were auctioned off by William H. Smith, himself an Elk, being a member of Brooklyn Lodge.

One man who bought two elk lives in a small flat in the Bedford district. Asked what he was going to do with the animals he replied:

"Blessed if I know! Teddy bears are out of fashion, so I guess I'll give them to my little boy to play with."

THAW LIKES HIS QUARTERS.

White Plains Jail Better Than Matteawan Asylum, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, July 7.—To be near her son, Harry K. Thaw, during the trial before Supreme Court Judge Mills to determine whether he is now sane, Mrs. William Thaw has engaged a suite at the Carlton Arms Hotel here. She will probably stay there with her daughter, the former Countess of Yarmouth; her son, J. C. Thaw, and his wife.

Mrs. Thaw will keep a touring car to carry her son's witnesses from the station to the Court House, and from there to the hotel. Thaw is now occupying a room in the hospital section of the White Plains Jail, and says his surroundings are far different from those at Matteawan Asylum. There, he says, he was surrounded by lunatics, forced to go to bed at 8 o'clock, and if he failed to obey his clothes were taken from him.

Three alienists, it is reported, will testify that Thaw is now sane.

WILL PROVIDES FOR SUICIDE.

Woman Wanted Friends to Sing If She were Denied Religious Service.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 7.—A copy of the will of Anna Barnard, née Santruzeck, who died in Paris, has been filed in the Suffolk County probate office. The will is in French, and the copy is accompanied by a typewritten translation in English. She left her husband certain bonds, tapestries, and furnishings. She makes various gifts to Miss Mary W. Barnard, a niece, and she remembers Miss Sarah L. Barnard of Mattapoisett. She leaves 15,000 francs for the care of her tomb in the cemetery at Passy. The will contains this provision:

"Should my life become so intolerable that I be obliged to commit suicide, and in which case I shall not have the right to a religious service, I beg my friend, Mme. Nevada Palmer, instead of singing at the church, to sing with her daughter, Mlle. Mignon Palmer, at my house, either the 'Mors et Vita' of Gourard or the 'Ave Maria' of Faure."

She gives 1,000 francs each to her niece's maid, cook, and coachman. She leaves 5,000 francs to the Boston Children's Aid Society in memory of Mrs. Susan Livingston Barnard.

PROF. JAMES BETS 'TWAS DR. HODGSON

Reports Inability to Prove Spirit Messages Were Real, but Will Take the Risk.

IT'S A NAKED WORLD BEYOND

"R. H." Says That Certainly They Live in Houses, but as for Clothing, Oh, No!—Lapses in Spook Talk.

Prof. William James of Harvard has written a long report on the alleged communications of the spirit of the late Dr. Richard Hodgson, who died on Dec. 20, 1905, to many persons, through Mrs. Piper, the medium. The report takes up more than a hundred pages of the number of the "Proceedings of the American Society for Psychical Research," about to be issued, and contains extensive verbatim records of the communications. One of the longer records is that of a "conversation" carried on between Prof. James himself and what is believed by Dr. James H. Hyslop, Secretary of the society, and others, to be the spirit of Dr. Hodgson.

Prof. James is loath to commit himself to a positive belief in this so-called spirit communication. He says: "But if asked whether the will to communicate be Hodgson's or be some mere spirit-counterfeit of Hodgson, I remain uncertain and await more facts, facts which may not point clearly to a conclusion for fifty or a hundred years."

Varying Wills in Contact.

Earlier in his chapter on conclusions drawn from the records, however, he says:

"But it is possible to complicate the hypothesis. Extraneous 'wills to communicate' may contribute to the results as well as a 'will to personate,' and the two kinds of will may be destined in entity, though capable of helping each other out. The will to communicate, in our present instance, would be, on the prima facie view of it, the will of Hodgson's surviving spirit; and a natural way of representing the process would be to suppose the spirit to have found that by pressing, so to speak, against 'the light,' it can make fragmentary gleams and flashes of what it wishes to say mix with the rubbish of the trance-talk on this side.

"The two wills might thus strike up a sort of partnership and stir each other up. It might even be that the 'will to personate' would be inert unless it were aroused to activity by the other will. We might imagine the relation to be analogous to that of two physical bodies, from neither of which, when alone, mechanical, thermal, or electrical effects can proceed; but if the other body be present, and show a difference of 'potential,' action starts up and goes on apace.

"Conceptions such as these seem to connect in schematic form the various elements in the case. Its essential factors are done justice to, and, by changing the relative amounts in which the rubbish-making and the truth-telling will contribute to the resultant, we can draw up a table in which every type of manifestation, from silly planchet-writing up to Rector's best utterances, finds its proper place.

"Personally I must say that, although I have to confess that no crucial proof of the presence of the 'will to communicate' seems to me yielded by the Hodgson control taken alone, and in the sittings to which I have had access, yet the total effect in the way of dramatic probability of the whole mass of similar phenomena on my mind is to make me believe that a 'will to communicate' is in some shape there. I cannot demonstrate it, but practically I am inclined to 'go in' for it, to bet on it, and take the risks."

Talk with Spook Land.

Here are some selections from the Richard Hodgson control's utterances from one of two voice sittings which Prof. James had himself. The words in parentheses are either the remarks by Prof. James or Mrs. James, as indicated. Those without parentheses are the so-called utterances of Dr. Hodgson:

> Well, well, well, well! Well, well, well, well, that is . . . here I am. Good morning, good morning, Alice.
>
> (By Mrs. J.: Good morning, Mr. Hodgson.)
>
> I am right here. Well, well, well! I am delighted.
>
> (By Prof. J.: Hurrah! R. H.! Give us your hand!)
> Hurrah, William! God bless you. How are you?
>
> (By Prof. J.: First rate.)
>
> Well, I am delighted to see you. Well, have you solved those problems yet?
>
> (By Prof. J.: Which problems do you refer to?)
>
> Did you get my messages?
>
> (By Prof. J.: I got some messages about your going to converture.)
>
> Did you hear about that argument that I had? You asked me what I had been doing all those years, and what it amounted to?
>
> (By Prof. J.: Yes.)
> Well, it has amounted to this—that I have learned by experience that there is more truth than error in what I have been studying.
>
> (By Prof. J.: Good.)
> I am so delighted to see you to-day that words fail me.

Following this rather tedious conversation there was a long series of questions and answers in the endeavor to get evidential material as to Dr. Hodgson's identity. Here is another sample:

> (By Prof. J.: Why can't you tell me more about the other life?)
>
> That is part of my work. I intend to give you a better idea of this life than has ever been given.
>
> (By Prof. J.: I hope so.)
> It is not a vague fantasey, but a reality.
>
> (By Prof. J.: Hodgson, do you live as we do, as men do?)
>
> What does she say?
>
> (By Prof. J.: Do you live as men do?)
> (By Mrs. J.: Do you wear clothing and live in houses?)
>
> Oh! yes, houses, but not clothing. No, that is absurd.
>
> (By Prof. J.: The clothing, or the statement made about it?)
>
> Just wait a moment. I am going to get out.
> (By Prof. J.: You will come back again?)
>
> Yes.

When "R. H." did come back, however, he at once began to talk of something else.

Here is an incident which Prof. James admits startled him:

> By Prof. J.: Do you recall any incidents about your playing with the children up in the Adirondacks at the Putnam Camp?
>
> Do you remember—what is that name—Elizabeth Putnam? She came in and I was sitting in a chair before the fire, reading, crept up behind me, put her hands over my eyes, and said "Who is it?" And do you remember what my answer was?
>
> By Prof. J.: Let me see if you remember it as I do.
>
> I said: "Well, it feels like Elizabeth Putnam, but it sounds like—"
>
> By Prof. J.: I know who you mean.

Prof. James then gives this explanation:

"R. H. quite startled me here because what he said reminded me of an incident which I well remembered. One day at breakfast Martha Putnam (as I recall the fact) had climbed on Hodgson's back, sitting on his shoulders, and clasped her hands over his eyes, saying: 'Who am I?' To which R. H., laughing, had responded: 'It sounds like Martha, but it feels like Henry Bowditch'—the said Henry Bowditch weighing nearly 200 pounds. I find that no one but myself of those who probably were present remembers this incident."

A moment later in the conversation, "R. H." gave the name Bowditch further to identify the incident.

Troops March with Americans Under American Commander at Champlain Tercentenary.

ROOT PRAISES PIONEERS

President Makes Three Speeches, After One of Which Cardinal Gibbons Jokes About His Weight.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 7.—New York State's share in the tercentenary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain reached its climax to-day. To-morrow the scenes of pageantry, the parades, the speechmaking, the interchange of compliments among the representatives of the three nations of France, Great Britain, and the United States, which shared in the history-making of the Champlain country, will all be transferred across the lake to Vermont, and Burlington will have its fling.

Gov. Hughes of New York and Gov. Prouty of Vermont, in their speech-making tours to-day, indulged in a good deal of pleasantry as to the rivalry between the two States whose boundaries skirt the lake. Whereupon Ambassador Jusserand, at the Plattsburg Barracks this afternoon, was led to declare amid an outburst of laughter:

"Gentlemen, Champlain discovered both sides of the lake at the same time. He looked on one side and then the other. He saw New York and he saw Vermont, and he liked them both."

Taft Makes Three Speeches.

President Taft, Ambassadors Jusserand of France and Bryce of Great Britain, with Govs. Hughes and Prouty, again to-day occupied the centre of the celebration stage. Each made three speeches, the last at the dinner at the Hotel Champlain to-night. Senator Root arrived to-day, and made the historical oration of the celebration at the ceremonies at Plattsburg barracks. Postmaster General Rodolphe Lemieux of Canada also spoke at the barracks, and with Senator Root and the others, again to-night at the banquet.

Mr. Lemieux and Ambassador Jusserand each took President Taft for a subject, and in their remarks gave him equal prominence with Champlain. Mr. Jusserand declared that there should be a filial feeling between Champlain and the President, for each knew what it was to plant a flag in a far-away land.

"The spirit and all that was best in Champlain," declared Mr. Jusserand, "lives again in President Taft. And there is a people in a distant archipelago who know it and feel it, and who for centuries will bless his name."

Canada had a large share in to-day's celebration. On the American military reservation at Plattsburg barracks this afternoon the President and the other guests saw a parade of American and Canadian troops. A regiment of Highlanders in scarlet coats, furry hats and plaids, and another regiment of the Governor General's Foot Guards in uniform of almost equal brilliancy, all fully armed and with bands playing British and Scotch marches and melodies took part. Two regiments and a squadron of cavalry from the United States forces and a regiment of the New York State National Guard—all in the modest blue of the American Army—formed the contrast for the vivid lines of color which the foreigners presented.

The five regiments first were drawn up in regimental front across the wide spreading parade ground of the barracks opposite the President's reviewing stand. Through a coincidence the proceedings had been delayed until the sounding of assembly barely preceded the time of "retreat," "retreat" the setting of the sun.

While all of the troops, Canadian and American alike, stood at attention the squad of buglers began the familiar notes of the evening call. When the last of the martial tones had died away the band of the Fifth Infantry crashed into "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the big post flag began to drop slowly from its lofty staff. The President and those about him stood facing the flag with lifted hats.

Next came the review, and in company front the five regiments and the squadron of cavalry marched by, their bands playing National airs, their officers and men saluting the President. The Fifth Infantry, the Twenty-fourth Infantry, and a squadron of the Fifteenth Cavalry represented the regular army of the United States, the Second New York represented the Militia and the Governor General's Foot Guards from Ottawa, and the Fifth Royal Highlanders, from Ottawa, represented Canada.

At the Plattsburg barracks ceremonies Gov. Hughes spoke first, and was followed in turn by Gov. Prouty, Ambassador Jusserand, Ambassador Bryce, Postmaster General Lemieux, Senator Root, and President Taft. Mr. Jusserand delivered a part of his address in Canadian vernacular French.

Mr. Bryce again to-day dwelt upon the peace of the nations.

Postmaster General Lemiuex made many references to the President. He declared that he felt very much at home, for he recognized in Mr. Taft a neighbor from Murray Bay, in the Province of Quebec. Amid great applause he declared that if, after eight, or possibly twelve, years in the White House the President should have been worn thin and frail all that was necessary was to send him back to Murray Bay, and he would be returned after a few months "as stout, as hearty, and as hardy a specimen of humanity as he appears before us to-day."

Senator Root's Oration.

Senator Root, who followed, said that conditions in the seventeenth century had made it "inevitable that the struggle for American control should ultimately become a single contest between France and Great Britain."

"Of all the peoples of Europe," he went on, "only the French and the English possessed the power, the energy, the adventurous courage, the opportunity, and the occasion for expansion across the Atlantic. The field and the prize were for them, and for them alone."

A little later in his speech he paid his tribute to French explorers.

President Taft, when his turn came, first paid a tribute to Secretary Root.

"I wish to congratulate you," the President said, "on having listened to such a great address which Senator Root has given us here in his discriminating historic sense and with the eloquence of words I am sure we shall be glad to read over and over again. I did not know that we were indebted so much to the Iroquois for the result that we are here and that we are speaking English instead of French. He has traced with the master hand of the man who knows peoples and constitutional law the development of that strength that came from popular force in the colonies and that lined the Atlantic and that backed Wolfe in the fight which he had with Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham.

Groping for a Subject.

"I congratulate you that you had a fresh orator to-day in Senator Root. The rest of us have been speaking from morning to dewy eve, and when we arise the first thing we think of and grop for is a subject. My friend the Governor was fortunate enough to see the mountains of Vermont, and he dwelt on them. My friend, the French Ambassador, could not get to his place without going around me, so he dwelt on me. And, while I value deep in my heart the compliment that he paid, I must attribute it to circumstance rather than design.

"And so, too, with my friend, the Postmaster General from Canada. He could not get around me, either, and so he had me for a subject. Well, there is a good deal in being a subject. He spoke of Murray Bay and my knowledge of Canada. I am delighted to say that for sixteen years I have spent most of my Summers in Canada, and I have learned that north of us is a great and rising people, a people bound to be prosperous, bound to be great, and whose prosperity and greatness I know that Americans are great enough not to be jealous of, but to welcome.

"And now, my friends, we have all got to make speeches to-night. The subject which Gov. Hughes has to-night is 'New York.' That is large enough, but I have to speak about the United States, and therefore I ask you to excuse me from delaying you further except to congratulate you, as I do most heartily, on the success of these celebrations and memorials that bring out such good neighborhood feeling, that bring out such pride in our ancestry, that fill us with a knowledge of history and that hold high before us the ideals which it is right for nations and people to feel."

Daniel L. Cady read a poem, "Champlain and Lake Champlain," whose last lines are:

Sweet were these waters, tasted by Champlain,
And healthful, sweet, and clear they must remain;
Fair were these shores in virgin beauty then,
But fairer now, set with the homes of men;
And fairer, happier shall they be when Trade
Again resumes the way from which she strayed;
When lofty ships and lines of barges long
Shall bring, with costly bales, the sailor's song;
The Caughnawauga's dream may yet be true—
A port here rise more rich than Rome e'er knew.
And if it be that Glory is the sun
Of those gone hence—of those whose day is done—
What floods of light must fill the Elysian ways,
Wherein the great Explorer's spirit strays!

After the exercises the party returned by special train to Bluff Point and the Hotel Champlain.

The Dinner at Night.

At the dinner to-night in the Hotel Champlain, Bluff Point, President Taft, speaking to the toast "The United States," declared that the United States constituted the most conservative Nation in the world.

"For," he said, "we have had the longest experience in self-government."

The President declared his policy as to the Federal Government, saying that, while he believed an enlargement of central authority might be necessary, he had an abiding faith in the Constitution and in the indestructible union of indestructible States.

"The foreign affairs of the United States," he continued, "are committed to the Central Government, but the State of New York and the State of Vermont have in this instance taken a step which will prove and is proving most important in our foreign relations. They have strengthened the bond that exists between the United States and Great Britain, the United States and France, and the United States and Canada."

The President expressed the thanks of the American people to Canada for having sent her troops to take part in the Champlain celebration, and pointed out the spirit of amity which made possible the spectacle to-day of the troops of two great nations marching in parade under one commander—Col. Calvin Cowles of the Fifth Infantry. The President also congratulated the State of New York for the generous way in which it had provided for the celebration, and the manner in which the elaborate and intricate programme had been carried out.

The other speakers at the dinner and their subjects were:

Ambassador Jusserand, "The French Republic"; Ambassador Bryce, "Britain and the British Empire"; Postmaster General Lemieux, "The Dominion of Canada"; Sir Lomer Gouion, "The Province of Quebec"; Gov. Prouty, "The State of Vermont," and Gov. Hughes, "The State of New York."

The diners did not sit down until 10 o'clock. This is the menu:

Taft Talks to Catholics.

Before the exercises of the afternoon President Taft and Gov. Hughes, quite early in the day, motored to Cliff Haven from Bluff Point to speak to a large gathering at the Catholic Summer School of America, where Cardinal Gibbons presided.

The President's welcome at the Catholic Summer School was a hearty one, and the edifice was packed to the doors. He looked down from the platform on a sea of faces and waving flags. At the President's right on the platform was his Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, while on his left was Gov. Hughes, by whom he was presented. Others on the platform were Bishop Collins of Kingston, West Indies; Bishop Colton of Buffalo, Bishop MacSherry of Capetown, South Africa, and Dr. McMahon, President of the Summer School, who introduced the Governor.

"I would be without that which makes a man," said the President when he arose to speak, "if I did not appreciate to the full the kindly words of your distinguished Governor, and if I did not congratulate the State of New York on having a Governor who represents the highest ideals."

The President spoke in terms of eulogy of the four or five Augustinian monks who had in the beginning under Legospi converted the Philippines to Christianity.

"I think," he went on, "we are reaching a point in this country where we are very much more tolerant of everything and everybody than in the past, and where we are giving justice where justice ought to be given. We are no longer cherishing these narrow prejudices that come from denomination bigotry, and we are able to recognize in the past these great heroes in religion and Christian faith and appreciate the virtues that they exhibited, and follow the examples that they have set for us.

Religious Tolerance.

"Religious tolerance is rather a modern invention. Those of us of Puritan ancestry have been apt to think that we were the inventors of religious tolerance. Well, as a matter of fact, what we were in favor of, if I can speak for Puritan ancestry, was in having a right to worship God as we pleased, and have everybody else worship God in the same way. But we have worked that out now, and there has been a great change, I am sure, and his Eminence the Cardinal will agree with me, even in the last twenty-five years. I have had a personal evidence of it in some of the work that we had to do in the Philippines.

"Fifty years ago if it had been proposed to send a representative of the Government to the Vatican to negotiate and settle matters arising in a country like the Philippines between the Government and the Roman Catholic Church it would have given rise to the severest condemnation and criticism on the part of those who would have feared some diplomatic connection between the Government and the Vatican contrary to our traditions, but within the last ten years that has been done, with the full concurrence of all religious denominations, believing that the way to do things is to do them directly, and when a matter is to be settled that it should be settled with the head of the Church, who has authority to act. And so it fell to my lot, and in that respect just by good luck, I came to be an exception, which will perhaps stand for many years as the sole exception, of being a representative of the United States at the Vatican. There I had the great pleasure of meeting that distinguished statesman and Pontiff, Leo XIII.

"I am gratified to say now that every question between the Church and State in the Philippine Islands, which were so closely united that it seemed almost impossible to make a separation of the two, as it had to be made under our Constitution, has been settled fairly and justly to both sides, and no bad taste or injustice exists on either side with respect to those questions."

Cardinal Gibbons's Joke.

Cardinal Gibbons addressed the gathering briefly when the President had concluded. He indorsed what the President had said about religious liberty as true, and expressed a profound sense of gratitude for the presence of the President and Governor.

He said that after the week of speechmaking the President's avoirdupois "will not be quite so much as it is now."

GOV. PROUTY'S DRIVER HELD.

Chauffeur of Vermont Executive Is Charged with Manslaughter.

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 7.—Gov. Prouty's chauffeur, William Henry Benwaie, was arrested to-day on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death last night of Hector Mongeon of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec. Mongeon, who came here to attend the tercentenary festivities, was run down and killed last night by an automobile alleged to have been driven by Benwaie.

Gov. Prouty was on the opposite side of Lake Champlain at the time, and the police say that Benwaie was using the machine without the knowledge of his employer.

ASYLUM INMATE A SUICIDE.

Isaac Lazarus, Retired Merchant, Leaps from Second Story Window.

Isaac Lazarus, a retired merchant, whose home was at 165 West 140th Street, and who for the last year had been an inmate of the Rivercrest Sanitarium, at Astoria, L. I., eluded two attendants, and, running to an open window on the second floor of the sanitarium yesterday afternoon, jumped out. He struck upon his head on the stone pavement, and was killed instantly.

Mr. Lazaraus was 72 years old. His son, Joseph, lives at the 140th Street address, but declined last night to give any information about his father. He would not tell why he had been committed to the sanitarium, only saying that he had been there about a year.

In the dead man's pocket was found a mileage book of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, issued to him in Denver on June 3 last year. The son took charge of his father's body.

HAND BURNED SAVING CHILD.

Robert E. Harper's Daughter Accidentally Set Fire to Her Dress.

LYNBROOK, L. I., July 7.—Robert E. Harper of the insurance firm of Wolff, Harper & Ulser, 97 Broadway, Brooklyn, is suffering from a severe injury to his hand, the result of saving the life of his ten-year-old daughter, Gertrude, yesterday.

The little girl was exploding firecrackers, which she had put in the front of her blouse for safe keeping. She had a stick of punk in her hand, and she reached into her blouse for a firecracker with the business end of the stick turned inward. One of the crackers exploded and in an instant she was a mass of flames.

Her father tore out the front of her waist with one wrench and his hand was terribly burned.

PRAGER ESTATE TO CHARITY.

One-third of It Goes to Hebrew Institutions—Rest to Relatives.

The will, filed yesterday, of Israel L. Prager, who died at 53 East Ninety-sixth Street on June 28, divides his estate into three parts, one share to be subdivided into eight parts, of which the Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews is to receive two, the Benevolent and Orphan Asylum one, the Mount Sinai Hospital one, the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids one, the German Hospital one, the United Hebrew Charities one, and the Lebanon Hospital one. The second share is divided between his nephews, William L. and Arthur Prager.

The third share of the estate is divided between other relatives. The value of the whole is set forth as "more than $10,000."

CITY BREVITIES.

Another hearing on the South Brooklyn breakwater plan will take place before Col. S. W. Roessler, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., at the Army Building in Whitehall Street this morning.

Judgment by default for $18,305, money advanced, was entered yesterday against the Golden Rod Mining Company in favor of E. & H. Levy, (corporation.) Emanuel Levy is President of the company, which was organized in West Virginia with capital stock of $100,000 about ten years ago.

The Republican Club of the First Assembly District indorsed George S. Husch, a resident of the district, last night as the next candidate for leader of the district whom the club will support in the coming primaries. Husch was defeated last year by William J. Rose.

John C. Mayforth, an Assistant Deputy Sheriff removed by Sheriff Foley in April last, applied to Supreme Court Justice Erlanger yesterday for a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel his reinstatement, contending that the civil service regulations protected him. Decision was reserved.

The American Flint Glass Workers' Union, which is holding its annual convention in this city, refused yesterday a request of the National Liberal Immigration League for co-operation in its efforts to have immigrants sent from congested centres to places where there was a demand for labor. The refusal was based on the ground that the organization might be lending itself to schemes by which immigrants would be sent to act as strike breakers.

THREE SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

The simplest way of considering our service is for a business executive to ask himself one or more of the following questions:

(1) What class of information in my business would I like to get that I am not getting?

(2) What problem in my business is giving me the most trouble to solve?

(3) In what department of my business are conditions or results least satisfactory?

Having answered these questions, let him give us an opportunity of discussing with him the points that are troubling him. He can very quickly decide for himself the value of our suggestions—with no cost or obligation.

OWN OUR EMBASSIES, LONDON DINNER PLEA

Disadvantages of Privately Owned Homes Emphasized by Americans at Unique Banquet.

LITTLE USE TO TRAVELERS

F. T. Martin Says They Naturally Become Social Battlegrounds—Gompers and E. C. Jones Criticise System.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 7.—Both in point of numbers and in representative character the gathering at the complimentary banquet given to-night by the American Embassy Association recently founded in New York was a great success. About 400 guests attended the dinner served in London's biggest banqueting hall at the Hotel Cecil.

After the usual loyal toasts E. Clarence Jones, President of the association, explained its purposes in a very able address. His many telling points were warmly applauded by the audience, especially those which emphasized the importance to the American Government of "owning a residence in every country to which it sends an Ambassador, so that our citizens may point with pride to a place to which they may go, feeling they have a citizen's rights therein, an embassy building that will favorably compare with those of other nations."

There were cheers when the President of the association added: "We believe that no representative of our Government abroad should be called upon to make expenditures from his private fortune, or that it should be necessary for him to have one in order to be enabled to accept the appointment and to maintain the dignity of our Government abroad."

Frederick Townsend Martin followed with an eloquent speech, in which he raised the question whether the present Ambassadorial system serves in the best possible way the interests of traveling Americans. He deprecated any suggestion of a personal attack on the present holders of Ambassadorial posts, whose duties were anything but a path of roses, and pointed out that it was too much to demand that an Ambassador, in his privately leased palace should receive casual American visitors spontaneously, as if he were really the servant of the Nation living in a Government home.

Under the present system there was discontent among traveling Americans. The embassies had become courts of social inquiry, in which the Ambassador was Lord High Justice against his will. The embassies had developed into modish battlefields on which social Austerlitzes and Waterloos were determined.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, contributed telling arguments to the discussion following, and in which several speakers took part. He spoke of seeing foreign Ambassadors in Washington in their own embassies.

"When I arrived in London," he said, "and repaired to our embassy offices in Victoria Street I own that though I am not given to pomp or ostentation I felt that I was entering an office that might have been fit for a second-class lawyer. Appearances have their influences. I would not have a baronial mansion for the American Embassy, but I would have a building that would impress the beholder with the dignity and strength of our country.

"As an American citizen, proud of the history of our country and expectant of its glory in the future, I am glad to associate myself with this movement."

UPROAR IN ITALIAN CHAMBER.

Deputy Hints at Impeachment and Minister Rushes at Him.

ROME, July 7.—Tumultuous scenes took place in the Chamber of Deputies to-night, and a personal encounter between Deputy Callaini and Signor Schanzer, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, was prevented only by the intervention of other Deputies. Inkstands and books were thrown promiscuously, until the sitting was suspended.

The disturbance occurred during the discussion of the subvention which the Government proposes to give to the Italian Lloyd Steamship Company for twenty-five years for the transportation of mail. Strong opposition to the scheme has developed in the last few weeks, and the bill has been attacked as detrimental to the interests of the State.

When a vote was about to be taken Signor Callaini said he regretted having approved the condemnation of Nuncio Nasi "for stealing bric-à-brac," while some of the present Ministers and Senators were open to impeachment. Signor Schanzer, at whom the remark was directed, rushed at the speaker, but was restrained.

Signor Schanzer was the object of a demonstration of sympathy, even from the opposition members, for what they termed an unjustified insult. When Signor Callaini left the Chamber a crowd of several hundred persons applauded and cheered him vigorously.

THE ETHELWOLD RELEASED.

Washington Instructs Collector Loeb That Suspected Vessel Cannot Be Held

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Investigation by Government authorities into the character of the cargo of the British steamer Ethelwold has convinced them that the vessel cannot lawfully be detained longer at the Port of New York, and to-day Collector Loeb was authorized by Acting Secretary McHarg of the Department of Commerce and Labor, to issue to her necessary clearance papers on application.

The Ethelwold was held on suspicion that she was a filibuster operating in the interests of a revolutionary party in Haiti. No evidence of the filibustering operations complained of by the Haitian Minister was discovered.

No warrant in law was disclosed for the detention of the vessel in time of peace, even though she had on board arms or ammunition, or both, provided the contents of her cargo was shown on her manifest.

Girl, Hit by Auto, Dies.

Florence Cook, the eighteen-year-old girl who was run down by a touring car at Middletown Road and Eastern Boulevard, Westchester, on Monday evening, died yesterday in Fordham Hospital. She suffered a fracture of the skull in the accident, and never regained consciousness. The driver of the car has not been found.

HOLD TROOPS FOR STRIKERS.

Rioters at Cape Breton Collieries Attempt Life of Manager Duggan.

Special to The New York Times.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 7.—Rioting and an attempt on the life of G. H. Duggan of the Dominion Coal Company were the features to-day of the strike forced by the United Mine Workers of America in the Cape Breton collieries. Several persons were injured. The trouble is between the Provincial Workmens' Association and the United Mine Workers of America, the latter demanding recognition, which the company refuses to grant.

At No. 2 colliery, which employs 2,000 men, the strikers massed themselves in front of the gates, and as the men who desired to go to work approached the mine they found all the approaches surrounded by thousands of excited men, jeering, shouting, and endeavoring to prevent the resumption of work.

General Manager Duggan and Directors J. K. L. Ross, as well as Supt. McKenzie and the manager, were present, but their efforts to calm the crowds that had assembled were all in vain.

Mr. Duggan placed himself at the head of his men and exhorted the strike leaders to break away and allow his men to proceed peaceably to their work. At this point he was assaulted and wounded about the head. He was only saved from being kicked to death by men with drawn revolvers.

The situation at this time became so serious that it was deemed advisable, in order to protect life and property, to read the riot act. This was done, and a dozen arrests followed, including that of a woman, who was leading the strikers.

The Mayor of Glace Bay refused the company's request for troops from Halifax to protect life and property.

Another disturbance occurred near the Caledonia and the No. 3 mine. At the latter point the strikers broke into the colliery property, and were only driven out by the police with drawn revolvers. The manager of the colliery was badly beaten in the fray. The trouble at No. 3 mine prevented the opening of that plant to-day.

All troops are confined to barracks in Halifax to-night, and preparations are being made to send them to mining districts at a moment's notice. Two special trains, all provisioned, are held in readiness to transport troops and field guns.

FEAR COLLEGES ROB FARMS.

President Robertson Imputes Penuriousness Against American Farmers.

DENVER, July 7.—Penuriousness and a fear that colleges rob the farms were imputations against the farmers of America made by James W. Robertson, President of McDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, who spoke before the Rural and Agricultural Department to-day.

"It is not a matter of little education being dangerous," said the speaker. "It is the vast remaining ignorance that hurts the farmer of to-day. He wants a little education for his son, but he does not want to pay. He does not want more education, because he thinks his son will leave him. This is where he is wrong, because if the son knew more the farmer's acres would be worth more."

R. J. Crosby of the United States Department of Agriculture pleaded for a closer relation between the rural schools and the community.

The old controversy between the university and the normal school as to whether the latter is able to fit men and women for teaching came up again in the meeting of the normal department. Samuel E. Harwood, Superintendent of the training school in the Illinois Normal School, Carbondale, Ill., took up the defense of normal training with the assertion that training and observation will give to a prospective teacher the necessary foundation for a teacher's education. C. B. Robertson of the New York Normal School, Cortland, N. Y., also spoke on this side of the question.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 7.—Kindergarten methods and the medical care of children were the chief topics of discussion at the second day's sessions of the conference for the welfare of the child, which is being held at Clark University.

At the forenoon session Mrs. Arthur Dodge of New York, President of the National Association of Day Nurseries, acted as Chairman, and also addressed the conference on the work of her association. The other speakers were President G. Stanley Hall of Clark University, Miss Virginia E. Graeff, director of kindergarten training, State Normal School, Montclair, N. J., and Dr. Colin A. Scott, Boston Normal School.

NASSAU ALMSHOUSES UNDER CRITICISM

Buildings Unsuitable and Negligently Kept, Says Report to State Board.

HEMPSTEAD IS AROUSED

Authorities Declare That They Have Done Their Best—Some Improvements Have Been Planned.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—Severe Criticism is made of the two town almshouses in Nassau County, L. I., in a report just made to the State Board of Charities. This is the only county in the State which adheres to the so-called "town almshouse" system. The county pays a high rate of board at private institutions for many of its poor, according to the report, but the majority are maintained in the town almshouses near Oyster Bay and in Hempstead Village.

"The buildings of both of these almshouses," says the report, "are unsuitable, poorly equipped, and negligently kept, and no reasonable expenditure of money for improvements can render them satisfactory for almshouse purposes. The existing state of affairs, coupled with the failure to remedy such evident defects of long standing as defective fire protection and water supply, point clearly to negligent administration and lack of intelligent local supervision."

The State Board of Charities has urged the erection of a new almshouse.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., July 7.—This town was aroused to-day over the criticism of its almshouse in the report just made by the State Board of Charities. In support of the town's contention that the almshouse is as well conducted and as suitable as it is possible to make it on the funds allotted to its support the report of the May Grand Jury of Nassau County to Justice Scudder in the Supreme Court at Mineola is quoted:

The report suggests that Jones' Institute, as the almshouse of Oyster Bay is known, be improved in certain respects, which include the erection of more fire escapes, provision for better ventilation in the hospital and women's ward, and the construction of new farm buildings. Of the Hempstead Poorhouse the report says that the Grand Jury found it in excellent condition; the inmates all well cared for, and therefore had no suggestions to make for its betterment.

In accordance with a recommendation of the State Board of Charities, the Overseers of the Poor, Claude C. Van Dusen of Rockville Centre and Franklin Bedell of Freeport, presented a petition to the Town Board at its annual meeting last April for an appropriation of $2,500, to be used in renovating the Poor House buildings and in constructing new buildings. The appropriation was voted, but cannot be collected until next Spring.

Mr. Bedell said to-night:

"We have done the best we could with the money at our disposal. We intend to erect a new hospital and turn the present one into a ward for consumptives only. A sun parlor will be built for this. We have only $12,000 a year to conduct the poorhouse, and out of this care for twenty-eight inmates."

Mr. Bedell said that from the report it appeared to him that the State Board of Charities favored a return to the county poorhouse system.

BRANDENBURG TRIAL DELAYED

Kidnapping Case May Wait Till September—Writer Still in Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 7.—Broughton Brandenburg, the magazine writer, in jail in St. Louis on the charge of kidnapping James S. Cabanne 3d, will probably not be tried until September. His case will be assigned to the Circuit Court Monday and probably to Division 10, presided over by Judge Shields, now on his vacation. When Brandenburg was transferred from the Central Police Station to the jail, he was not handcuffed, though he told the officer who made the transfer he was willing to be manacled like other prisoners.

S. S. Bass and Vital W. Garesche, counsel for Brandenburg, will apply for bond for the prisoner to-morrow. An effort is being made to get the bond placed at $1,000.

The identity of the woman who called Monday at 7 P. M., following Brandenburg's arrival, and inquired as to his arrival and bond, has not been discovered. According to the police the woman, who is pretty, asked what the bond was and said that she wanted to arrange for it.

Brandenburg declares he cannot imagine who the woman is, unless she is one of those who knows of his work in the slums. Brandenburg has sent his wife money he earned doing newspaper work since he came here and while he was en route, and expects her to be in St. Louis next week. The writer declares that he expects to make St. Louis his home following the acquittal which he is confident will follow his trial.

SENATE VOTES TO TAX HOLDING COMPANIES

the measure. They were Bacon, Bankhead, Foster, Money, Newlands, and Simmons.

While the court provision was under consideration, Senator Dolliver read a letter from United States Judge Lacombe of New York, stating that the Federal courts were not overcrowded and could handle the customs business without becoming congested. Immediately after that Mr. Aldrich read another letter under date of July 22, 1908, signed by Judge Lacombe and other New York Federal Judges, in which it was stated that if the customs cases were to be appealed to the United States Courts of Appeal their dockets would become very much crowded.

Mr. Dolliver and Mr. Borah both assailed the court in strong language. Mr. Dolliver declared that the court, which would start life with an expense account equal to that of the Supreme Court of the United States, was intended as a special tribunal to give special decisions for the Government at the expense of the ordinary litigants before the bar. He drew from Senator Bailey the admission that the purpose of the provision was to recoup the Government for the low state of efficiency of the Federal attorneys engaged in prosecuting customs frauds by having an expert judiciary in charge of the cases.

Borah Arraigns Customs Court.

"This provision," said Senator Borah, "is a solemn, direct, indefensible impeachment of the judiciary of the United States. We are now preparing to establish a court, a sort of board, to see that the revenues continue to reach the Treasury because, in our opinion, the Circuit Courts are unworthy. This paragraph is an emergency hospital for defective legislation. There is a growing disposition for the Government to go into court with the support of telegrams from high officials and with other pressure. The Government ought to appear as a private individual in court, and on that account I oppose a measure that will give the Government a court inclined to serve with the Government as a special suitor."

The sections creating a Court of Customs Appeals were agreed to by a vote of 49 to 27. The vote was strictly non-partisan.

In offering his income tax amendment as a substitute for the corporation tax amendment of the bill Mr. Bailey demanded an aye and no vote. His substitute was rejected 28 to 47. Senators Borah, Bristow, Clapp, Cummins, La Follette, Republicans, voted with the Democrats for the substitution. All the negative votes were cast by Republicans.

Senator Daniel, who offered a new plan for taxing corporations with gross incomes above $300,000 at the rate of one-quarter of 1 per cent. upon their gross incomes, referred lightly to the "pretended weariness" of the Rhode Island Senator. He described him as "a wizard," at whose sign "insurgents marched with tread of Roman soldiers to bring him victory." He made sport of Mr. Aldrich's suggestion for haste, and proceeded to discuss at length his amendment. Whether Mr. Daniel was indulging in a mild filibuster to consume the remainder of the time of the session was the subject of speculation. He continued to speak on various phases of the amendment until 7 o'clock, when, by previous agreement, the Vice President announced adjournment.

When the House meets to-morrow, it is said to-night, it will adjourn out of respect to the memory of Representative Cushman, who died yesterday. This is taken to mean that the House leaders do not anticipate a final disposition of the Tariff bill early enough in the day to make practicable the return of the measure to the House.

Among House Democrats there is little interest in the tariff question. They do not believe that any serious insurrection will develop among the Republicans, and they know that it will be hard enough to keep their own forces in line to vote against the bill. As to the corporation tax they will make absolutely no opposition.

TAFT HEARS HE MAY STAY.

News of New Delay on Tariff Stops Plan to be in Washington To-day.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 7.—President Taft, for a time to-day, thought it would be necessary for him to cut short his stay in the Champlain country and hurry back to Washington. Mr. Taft had expressed the desire to be in Washington when the Tariff bill was sent to conference. Word came from the White House to-day that it looked as if an agreement to vote to-morrow would be reached, and that the President should be on hand late Thursday. Immediately transportation managers were sent for, and there were hurried consultations as to the quickest trains leading back to the capital.

While the conference was in progress a second telegram came, announcing that Senator Daniel of Virginia had objected to the agreement to take a vote to-morrow, and that there would be another delay. All the hurried arrangements for a quick return were canceled, and the President will adhere to his original schedule, which puts him to the White House Friday afternoon.

TRY WRECK ON NEW HAVEN.

Engineer of Boston Express Sees and Removes a Tie from Track.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 7.—What is believed to have been an attempt at train wrecking was discovered by the engineer of the New York-Boston express over the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad this morning. The train was running on what is designated as Track 3 when about half a mile below the Stamford Station the engineer saw a heavy tie lying across the rails. He stopped his train, and with the help of members of the crew removed the obstruction.

An express on that track was due in a few moments, and had the log not been removed a bad wreck might have resulted. Later a man who gave the name of Luigi Caele was arrested on suspicion.

diplomatic representative of the United States in Peking has been consulted and has given his approval, which is only another way of saying until this Government has given its approval.

These are the formal and diplomatic grounds for the protest. But there are other reasons, which could not well be stated in diplomatic negotiations, why the United States Government is vigorously opposed to the ratification of the treaty. This Government protested strenuously last Fall against the attempt then made by the Russian authorities to obtain full political control of the railway settlements under the guise of policing the railway line.

Russia Shifts Her Ground.

That protest was effective, and Russia abandoned the measures she was then endeavoring to put into execution. But she did not abandon her purpose. She merely went around another way to reach her goal, and commenced private negotiations with China, which resulted in the pending treaty.

The idea of granting the elective franchise in the railway towns is not in itself objectionable to this Government, but the fact that the councils chosen under the treaty provisions would in practice become simply instruments for working out the Russian will in the municipalities affected is decidedly objectionable. The scheme is regarded simply as a mask under which the Russian railway management seeks to obtain the very control which it was prevented last Fall from exercising in its own right. In such circumstances it was impossible for this Government to remain silent.

The stipulation that all measures concerning "matters of public interest and municipal finances" be submitted to officials at Peking and St. Petersburg for their approval before taking effect practically nullifies the independence of the Councils, for any ordinance passed by a Council would naturally affect the "public interest," and as none such would obtain the force of law until approved at St. Petersburg the effect is to give St. Petersburg the control of the railway municipalities. Interminable delays would be the rule, and if the Chinese official at Peking should be as susceptible to a well-known form of Russian influence as such officials have proved heretofore the Russian Railway management would control the administration of the railway towns without any obstruction whatever.

The vagueness of the limitations surrounding the elective franchise have also demanded careful consideration. There is danger of wholesale corruption in the elections if all classes of Chinese and Russians are permitted to vote, which could be effected easily by fixing the rental qualification for the franchise at a nominal figure. If the franchise were to be carefully restricted, however, there would be no objection simply on its account. It is the danger that the councils would be deprived of their independence through the restrictive approval regulations that gives the most serious ground of objection.

Since the protest of the United States was made the Governments of Great Britain and Austria have taken similar action, that of the last two being very recent. It is now believed here that these combined protests will be successful in permanently blocking ratification of the treaty by China.

TO SHAKE UP POLICE; GAMBLERS WARNED

A "Real Shift' of Captains to be Made To-day, Baker Says, and the Lid Is Still On.

CONFERS WITH McGOWAN

This Is No "Sure Thing" Town, Acting Mayor Says—Police at a Standstill in All Recent Murders.

A shake-up of police Captains will be made to-day by Commissioner Baker. Why it will be done and which Captains are to be shifted about, the Commissioner yesterday would not say, but he promised that it would be a "real shift."

Commissioner Baker announced in the morning, after he had conferred with Acting Mayor McGowan at the City Hall, that he proposed making "some changes" in various precincts, and that he expected to have his list ready before night. He found his time so occupied with other affairs, however, that he had to put it off until to-day.

At Police Headquarters there was a report that no less than twenty-five Police Captains are to be involved in the shake-up. Asked if that was true, the Commissioner replied:

"There will be a few changes—I haven't counted how many."

As Commissioner Baker's announcement of the impending shake-up came after his conference with the Acting Mayor, during which the gambling situation was discussed, it is thought that the changes will have to do with a tight clapping down of "the lid." Commissioner Baker was told by reporters, when he arrived at the City Hall for his talk with the Acting Mayor, that there appeared to be a strong impression in the Tenderloin that gambling houses of all varieties would be permitted to do business under the Baker administration.

"Is that so?" replied the Commissioner. "Well, let me tell you that if anything like that is attempted there will be some activity from our end. Gambling won't be permitted. Any one with that idea in his head will quickly find it out."

The Commissioner would go into no further discussion of the gambling situation. When he emerged from his conference with the Acting Mayor, the Commissioner was asked if any campaign against the gamblers had been decided upon. He refused to talk about it.

The Acting Mayor expressed himself in vigorous terms. He said:

"My attention has been called by the newspapers to what is said to be an influx of gamblers. I have talked with the Police Commissioner about this and I am prepared to say that there is to be no gambling in New York while Mr. Baker is Commissioner.

"I advised Mr. Baker that it would be well for the police to become familiar with the faces of the gamblers who are reported to be flocking here and to watch them closely, to prevent their opening up their games. Just because Commissioner Bingham has left office, is no sign that gambling houses are to open up. Gen. Bingham enforced the law well in this respect, and Commissioner Baker will do the same.

"This is to be no 'sure-thing' town. The gamblers who have come here lately, as I understand it, are not the big ones. They are merely looking for the chance that, they assume, comes with each change of police administration, to start their games.

"I will say that, if any gamblers are caught, we shall use our efforts to have jail sentences given them. That is the most effective way of dealing with them."

The Acting Mayor was told that some of the more prominent old-time gamblers had been noticed in the last few nights in Tenderloin haunts, and that they appeared to be confident that the police would permit them to run gambling houses full swing. There was also an impression, the Acting Mayor was told, that poolrooms were to be opened up again.

"Let them try it," was the reply. "They will be the worst-fooled men in New York."

Acting Mayor McGowan early in the day administered the oath of office to Frederick Bugher, who resigned the office of Second Deputy when Commissioner Bingham stepped out, only to accept the First Deputyship under Commissioner Baker. When he had finished, the Acting Mayor remarked to the deputy:

"I want to say to you, Mr. Bugher, that if you give the same sort of excellent service under Mr. Baker that you did under the former Commissioner, the City of New York will be well satisfied."

Mr. Bugher told the reporters that he would start at once on a four weeks' vacation, and that when he returned he expected to be in fit condition to "pitch in and do some hard work."

Commissioner Baker, asked if he had determined upon appointees for his two vacant deputyships, said he had not made up his mind whom to appoint, but that he would probably decide within a day or so. Third Deputy Josiah A. Stover will preside to-day at his first trials of delinquent policemen, when fifty-seven men will appear before him. Commissioner Baker will sit with him and coach him in the manner of conducting the trials, and the punishment to be meted out.

The Greater New York Taxpayers' Conference, at a meeting this afternoon in the rooms of the Board of Trade and Transportation, 203 Broadway, will discuss the dismissal of Commissioner Bingham and the Mayor's action in regard to Inspector Kelly. The conference, in a statement given out yesterday, declares that the Mayor has placed the Police Department in politics, and this it condemns. It further finds fault with the Mayor in having ordered the reduction of Inspector Russell without giving him an opportunity to be heard. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who is spending his vacation in the Adirondacks, will return to the city to address the meeting.

FOUR UNSOLVED MURDERS.

Police Confess Themselves Baffled in Latest Sensational Crimes.

With the affairs of the Police Department in an unsettled state, the Detective Bureau appears to have come to a halt in its work of solving the four murder mysteries which it finds on its hands.

It is now twenty days since the body of Elsie Sigel, the Chinatown mission worker, was found in a trunk in the room of Leon Ling, above the chop suey restaurant at 782 Eighth Avenue, and Capt. Carey, the head of the Homicide Bureau, admits that he has not found the slightest clue to the Chinaman's whereabouts. Fifty detectives have worked on the case since the day of the discovery of the body, and they confess themselves baffled.

"We are doing all we can," said Capt. Carey yesterday to a TIMES reporter. "We have run down any number of false clues, but not one has put us any nearer Leon Ling.

"I don't know what to think about it. Perhaps Ling has fled the country; maybe he is hiding in some Chinese colony."

Capt. Carey was asked if he had been able to connect Chong Sing, roommate of Leon Ling, with the murder.

"I can't answer that," was the reply. "You know, it is necessary to get very strong evidence to convict a man of murder. Chong Sing has told different stories to us, perhaps with the purpose of throwing us off the track. I don't know what to make of him."

"Do you expect to catch Leon Ling?" was asked.

Capt. Carey smiled sadly. "I'm hoping," was his reply.

Six weeks have elapsed since the night that the body of Samuel Bersin, cut up into half a dozen pieces, was left in bundles in the streets of the lower east side in the shadow of the Brooklyn Bridge. The police arrested one man, a painter of complacent disposition, two weeks later, on a suggestion that he had carried one of the bundles, but he was released after an examination by the Coroner.

"Have you solved the Bersin murder?" Capt. Carey was asked.

"Lord, no," replied the Captain. "We have come across clues—quite a few of them—but they have led nowhere. We don't know who committed that murder, but we are trying to find out. We haven't dropped it. You may say that the police are endeavoring to find out where the murder was committed and who did it."

Equally in the dark are the police as to the murder of Giuseppe Pogano, who was shot in his room in the tenement at 228 Christie Street on the night of July 4, the bullet coming from a vacant flat across the courtyard. Discussing this, Capt. Carey said:

"My men have scoured that neighborhood trying to find some trace of the man who did the shooting. They have met with no success. It has us all guessing."

Concerning the murder of the woman, whose identity has still to be disclosed, who was found in the hallway of a Thirteenth Street tenement house on Tuesday, Capt. Carey confessed himself utterly puzzled. His detectives have made no progress in their endeavors to establish the identity of the victim, a fact which, Capt. Carey admits, causes him no little concern.

"If we only knew who that woman was it might help us to solve the murder," said the Captain. "All we know is that her clothes indicate that she was a person of ordinary class. It is a difficult case to work on, not knowing, as I said, the identity of the victim."

"Do you think you could solve the mystery if you established the identity of the woman?" he was asked. The head of the Homicide Bureau gazed at his interviewer and curtly remarked that he was too busy to answer.

HE'S CHAMPION BEEF EATER.

Philip Lommel Wins the Title with a Score of Ten Pounds.

Philip Lommel, weight 270 pounds, of 115 Rivington Street, is the champion beefsteak eater of the east side. He won the medal after a 10-pound go with Max Meyers, 275 pounds, of 123 Essex Street, at the outing of the Samuel Brenner Association of Essex and Rivington Streets, which was held yesterday at Witzel's Point View Grove on Long Island Sound.

Nearly 600 voters from the Eighth Assembly District witnessed the contest and cheered the contestants. In the throng were Aldermen, ex-Aldermen, and future Aldermen, to say nothing of future Mayors. Headed by a band they left their headquarters in Essex and Rivington Streets early in the morning, and, with women cheering, girls waving flags and handkerchiefs, and babies crying, they marched to the foot of Third Street, East River, where they boarded the steamboat Commodore and headed for the Sound.

Both men had been trained up to the minute. They had been fasting for the conflict. According to the terms of the contest they were matched to eat 10 pounds of beefsteak for $50 a side. Wireless Louis Zeltner umpired the contest.

Seated opposite each other, with a big pitcher of coffee and a pile of rolls within reach, each man was helped to a fine big steak. Wireless Louis shouted "Eat!" and the contest was on. With the crowd cheering and the band playing the contestants got away with one steak after another without the least exertion. Five pounds were reached, and the contest was about a tie save that Lommel had struck an unusually tough slice, and, being unable to get his knife blade through it, he simply bolted the piece amid the cheers of his admiring friends.

Six and seven pounds, and the contestants were steak and steak. At eight pounds Meyers began to show signs of flagging, and despite the coaching of his friends he fell behind.

Meyers balked at 8¾ pounds, while Lommel finished up the steak, winning the medal and all side bets.

LEADERS NOT ANXIOUS TO CHOOSE BINGHAM

General's Name Unlikely to be Presented for Mayor in Either Convention.

JEWS STILL HOSTILE TO HIM

Politicians Say the Story of His Jewish Criminals Utterance Has Not Been Eradicated—Hundred Keeping Busy.

A report from Nova Scotia that ex-Police Commissioner Bingham would be willing to accept the nomination for Mayor on an anti-Tammany ticket did not arouse as much interest among Republicans and fusionists as might have been expected yesterday.

In fact it can be stated that on the best authority that unless the situation should change very much by the time the Republican City Convention is held, Gen. Bingham's name will not be presented there. From the Committee of One Hundred came a specific denial that at the conference certain members of that organization held with Gen. Bingham before he sailed away it had even been suggested that he become the fusion candidate for Mayor.

Congressman Herbert Parsons, President of the New York Republican County Committee, is, at least, dubious regarding the wisdom of "taking on" the former Police Commissioner as a candidate, even though he is known to be a good Republican, and his summary dismissal from the Police Department furnished the Republicans and fusionists with the moral issue they so ardently desire in their fight against Tammany Hall. The attitude of Mr. Parsons is based on reports he has received from his district leaders in the Jewish districts on the lower east side, in Harlem, and the Bronx.

Ever since Gen. Bingham in a magazine article some months ago appeared as sponsor for a statement that 60 per cent. of the criminals convicted in this city were Jews there has been the most pronounced hostility toward him among both Republican and Democratic voters of the Jewish faith. That the General after the article had been published virtually retracted his statement about the Jews has not, according to the reports of the leaders from these districts, caused any moderation in the feeling toward the author of the objectionable statement.

"Unless Mr. Parsons, who will control the Republican City Convention, should change his mind, Gen. Bingham will not be considered when the time comes to make up the slate," said a district leader who is in the County Chairman's confidence last night. "The fact that Republican State Chairman Woodruff has expressed himself in favor of the former Police Commissioner will not affect the situation in the slightest. We could not go into this Mayoralty fight with a man at the head of the ticket toward whom the people on the east side, where we must make such a hard fight, feel as bitterly as they do toward Gen. Bingham."

Not Asked by the Hundred.

A member of the Committee of One Hundred, who was present throughout the conference held by Winfred T. Denison and other members of that organization with Gen. Bingham on the eve of his departure for Nova Scotia, said yesterday that not a word had been uttered regarding the Mayoralty or any other nomination.

"We merely discussed the proposed activity of Gen. Bingham in the coming campaign," said this member. "The General volunteered to take the stump against Tammany Hall, the Sullivans, and McCarren, and we will be only too glad to avail ourselves of his services—dictated, as we understand it purely from a desire to aid in the overthrow of Tammany, and not by any hankering for office. The General deserves great credit for the independence and the administrative ability he demonstrated in the conduct of the Police Department, but as for the Mayoralty—well, it is too early to discuss candidates, anyhow."

As a matter of fact, candidates is a tabooed subject not only with the Committee of One Hundred but in the Republican and the Democratic camp as well. At the headquarters of the committee in the Beaver Building it was said that the committee regarded candidates as being as much out of season as oysters, and that candidates would remain out of season as far as the committee is concerned just about as long.

"September will be early enough, with the City Conventions scheduled for the first week in October," said one of the members yesterday.

It was learned yesterday that what virtually amounts to a hard and fast agreement exists between the Committee of One Hundred and the Republicans, precluding any fusion conferences for the purpose of getting together earlier than the last week in August or the first week of September. In both the Republican and the fusion camp it is feared that if these conferences were to begin while the hot weather lasts they might be compelled to finish them under a flag of truce. And if there is anything the Hundred devoutly desire this year it is harmony between all the anti-Tammany forces.

Digging Campaign Material.

Meantime the Committee of One Hundred is actively digging up campaign material. It will go on emphasizing the issues until the time arrives to talk fusion. No branch of the City Government will be spared.

A start will be made to-day when the Executive Committee of the Hundred will get together, and, it was said on good authority, would issue a withering blast against the City Magistrates in Brooklyn. Every one of those now in office will come in for a roasting. Sworn testimony culled from the report of the legislative committee which recently investigated the conduct of the courts of minor criminal jurisdiction in this city will be brought forward to prove the criticism justified.

One feature of the arraignment will be the charge that one of the Brooklyn Magistrates appointed as clerk of his home court a man who was convicted of complicity in the election frauds for which John Y. McKane was sent to prison, and that this clerk occupies a seat on the bench with the Magistrate every day the court is in session.

Next week there will be a meeting of the full Committe of One Hundred to make further plans for the campaign and to pass on the work already done by the Executive Committe and its sub-committees.

Supreme Court Justice Gaynor, according to a report yesterday, has practically been eliminated in the Tammany Mayoralty talk. Former Borough President Jacob A. Cantor, who sailed for Europe yesterday on the Oceanic, said before his departure that he had been told by a close friend of the Brooklyn Justice that the latter would be a candidate even if he had to run as an independent candidate. There have been reports in many quarters recently that Justice Gaynor would announce his willingness to accept an independent nomination for Mayor some time in July. This, however, is utterly contradictory to everything that has come from Justice Gaynor himself.

Merchant's Wife, Therefore, Has a Commission Named to Test His Sanity

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger appointed Dr. Ephraim D. Klots, Sol K. Lichtenstein, and Sidney B. Bowman yesterday as Commissioners, together with a Sheriff's jury, to inquire into the sanity of Louis Voelker, a hardware merchant, who for many years has been in business at 435 Seventh Avenue. On June 16 Justice Guy committed Voelker to Bloomingdale Asylum.

The petitioners are Mrs. Josephine Voelker, wife of the alleged incompetent, and his two daughters, Rose and Emma Denn. All live at 160 West Thirty-fifth Street. In their petition they set forth that Voelker has many delusions, among them that he is being poisoned; that he is an officer in the army, and that he is a Judge and tells of the important decisions he has handed down.

Mrs. Voelker says that before her husband's commitment he would get a revolver and threaten to kill them all. He would also severely pinch members of his family or persons he met in the street with his fingers or eight-inch pliers, and that he drove customers from his store with a heavy cane.

She also set forth that for the last two years he had squandered his money, having spent $3,000 in Atlantic City on one trip alone. She said that from a thrifty, economical, intelligent business man, he became a spendthrift, a dissolute man, unkempt and dishevelled.

Mrs. Voelker says her husband would drink six pints of champagne, a quart of cognac, and ten milk punches in one day. He washed his face and hair daily in champagne and cognac, and put champagne into his food and soup. He imagined he was worth $3,000,000 and that he owned a plantation in Arkansas covering 388,000 acres.

Mrs. Voelker says her husband owns the four-story tenement house and store at 422 Seventh Avenue, valued at $150,000, on which he obtained a mortgage of $20,000 in the last two years; two houses at 160 and 162 West Thirty-fifth Street, worth $75,000; house at 389 Second Avenue, worth $25,000, besides land at Aldene, N. J., and Palisade Park, and the hardware store at 435 Seventh Avenue, where he has been in business for twenty-three years, accumulating a fortune with the aid of his wife and daughters.

AGAINST NEW RESERVOIRS.

Merchants' Association Opposes Building More in the Croton Valley.

James H. Killough, acting on behalf of the Merchants' Association, has begun a suit in the Supreme Court to enjoin the Aqueduct Commissioners from constructing additional reservoirs in the Croton Valley. The grounds for the action are that the formal adoption by the Commissioners on March 23 of plans for a new reservoir at Patterson, at an estimated cost of $3,250,000, is in violation of the law.

It is contended that the city has already provided for all necessary increase of water supply by the Catskill project, and that the construction of the Patterson reservoir would be a waste of public funds. The complaint further asserts that the Commissioners are not actuated by any genuine desire to serve the interests of the city, but that their purpose is, now that the work of the commission is substantially finished, to perpetuate themselves in office.

The matter came before Supreme Court Justice Blanchard yesterday, who issued an order directing the Commissioners to show cause on Monday next why an injunction should not issue.

ARE YOU GOING DEAF?

I have made a discovery in the treatment of head noises and deafness which I consider an important one. My discovery does away with the necessity of passing instruments into the ear tubes, which measures have proved unsatisfactory, are painful, and instead of curing the disease have often forced it further up into the ear.

Here is who I am and what I have done: I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of Physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

I have made a specialty of diseases of the throat and ear for thirty years. I decided the best way I could tell the people who I was and what I had done was to advertise in the daily papers.

The following interview with Professor Loomis will explain what he thought of me:

(N. Y. World, Sept. 2, 1894.)

"Professor Loomis of the University of New York, the great specialist, said, in alluding to medical men who advertise: 'Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business and is doing much good.'"

Among the first upon whom I tested my new method for head noises and deafness was Mr. W. P. Frazier, a gentleman who was 64 years of age at the time he sought my aid in my Chicago office. Mr. Frazier and his brother are manufacturers of high grade light vehicles. Mr. Frazier consulted me nearly two years ago. The story he told me then was as follows:

"Over twenty years ago I began to have trouble in my left ear. I gradually lost my hearing in that ear until I could not hear a watch tick with it unless it was held right close to the ear. I got along pretty well until the fall of 1906, when I had an attack of grippe that attacked my other ear—the right. My right ear got so I could only hear a watch tick that was pressed up against it. I had sounds in my head like frogs croaking and crickets singing."

Mr. Frazier was a good patient and visited my office regularly. I put him under the new method I had devised and in three months' time Mr. Frazier was cured. At that time he said:

"I can now hear a watch tick when three feet away from my right ear. The noises are all gone, and with the ear that has been deaf for twenty years I can hear as well as I could before it became affected."

Mr. Frazier has had no trouble with his ears since I treated him nearly two years ago, excepting a slight return of the head noises, which a few days' treatment cured. His place of business is 371 Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

I only mention this case to show what can be done by proper treatment in many cases of deafness and head noises of long standing in persons well advanced in years.

If you think my training and experience should make me a good ear doctor, I should be pleased to have you visit my offices. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice. If your ears have been so neglected that treatment will not restore your hearing, I have the best instrument ever invented to make deaf people hear. It is called the Baker Microphone. I will be pleased to give you an opportunity to test this little device free.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST IN MISSOURI FLOOD

Several Towns Inundated and Their Inhabitants Driven to Treetops and Roofs.

MANY RESCUED IN BOATS

Santa Fe Train Is Derailed on a Flooded Plain and Passengers Marooned—Property Loss Is a Million.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 7.—Death and destruction follow the sudden floods, caused by heavy rains, sweeping over Dekalb, Davies, Grundy, Mercer, Harrison, and Livingston Counties, in Northern Missouri, and while no authentic figures are obtainable yet, it is believed eleven persons have been drowned and the property loss will reach more than a million dollars.

Without warning a torrent of water 5 feet deep inundated Pattonsburg, Mo., this morning, and its 1,500 inhabitants were driven to treetops and roofs to save their lives. Three persons were drowned there. Boats sent in by near-by towns began arriving at Pattonsburg before noon, and rescue crews set to work at once.

William Christian is reported drowned near Chillicothe.

A spectacular accident was the derailing on a flooded plain of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé passenger train bound from Kansas City to Denver. The rails spread near Pomona, Kan., and four of the ten coaches rolled over into eighteen feet of water.

Although the overturned day coaches were empty, a telephone message to-night reports that Laura St. Clair of Boston suffered a wrenched back, and Nannie St. Clair, a sister, received bruises and cuts. The St. Clair sisters were going to Perry, Oklahoma. Miss Nannie St. Clair is an elderly woman, and it was while trying to assist her that the other sister was hurt.

The train, which had been detoured from the main line over the Emporia branch, was running along smoothly through the water when it began to sink on the undermined tracks. The coaches sank so gradually that the passengers and crew were able to get into the Pullman cars before the coaches in front finally toppled over. People from the surrounding country, attracted by the cries of the 300 marooned passengers, immediately endeavored to start rescue work.

Rafts were hastily constructed, and the few boats available were pushed out, but by this time the current was so swift around the train that only the most venturesome were able to reach the people. It was after dark before a rescue by means of a series of boats tied with ropes was effected. Boat trips of from one to two miles were made to the nearest farm houses free of the flood, and the passengers all were finally taken to safety. The passengers probably will have to remain at the farm houses until the surrounding floods subside.

Pomona is almost inundated, the Marias des Cygnes River at that point being three miles wide.

In Kansas City the situation is threatening, if not yet serious. In the bottoms in the western section, where are situated the stock yard, wholesale warehouses, and manufacturing plants, the waters from the confluence of the Missouri and Kansas Rivers to-night are lapping the danger line, and precautions were taken against a further rise.

The flood extends through Kansas and Nebraska and a part of Colorado. Train service in demoralized in Nebraska and Kansas on account of washouts, and in Colorado the landslides and floods from mountain torrents have caused train schedules to be abandoned, and hundreds of Eastern people are marooned in the State.

Iowa and Illinois also are flooded, though the damage in these States is not so great as it is in Missouri and Kansas.

Half a dozen towns and cities in Northwest Missouri, cut off from communication with the world, are in danger of being swept away. In many places people are in want of food and supplies. A special train carrying boats that can battle the current left Kansas City to-day for the flooded district.

Citizens of Chillicothe, Mo., arranged to send 1,000 loaves of bread to Pattonsburg. A relief train was made up on the Wabash and was sent from Gallatin. It approached within four miles of Pattonsburg and was forced to turn back.

Arthur Fiske, station agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at Gault, was caught in the station and marooned there yesterday. He has been a prisoner without food for more than twenty-four hours, and all efforts to rescue him have failed. Three feet of water surround the building. The boatmen are hindered by a strong current.

The bottom lands are flooded to a point within a mile of Chillicothe. The Grand River has overflowed its banks and has made an island of Trenton. The water is six feet higher than it was during the June floods, and is still rising around Chillicothe. Medicine Creek, east of Chillicothe, has gone over its banks.

Four young men in the neighborhood of Sturgis, six miles north of Chillicothe, were caught while herding their cattle by the swift current and lost their horses and their cattle.

The Wabash Railroad bridge across Grand River went out this afternoon at Chillicothe, carrying six men. The men when last seen were floating down stream clinging to the wreckage. Whether they reached land safely was not learned.

A wall of water, six feet high, sweeping down both forks of the Grand River, joined at Utica, in the west part of Livingston County, early to-day, and the bottom lands here experienced a flood far surpassing that of June, when much damage was done.

Traffic on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Wabash roads was stopped, and the Burlington tracks threatened. Bridges were washed out, stock drowned, and people in the country driven to the roofs of their houses and some to tree tops. Several were rescued in boats. Six section men are reported missing.

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—Mrs. Bertha Cassanova and two children were drowned in the Gen. U. S. Grant farm in St. Louis County to-night when they attempted to ford Gravois Creek while it was swollen by heavy rains.

Three other children were rescued, clinging to the wagon when it was swept downstream.

DRUG KILLS E. W. S. PICKHARDT

Took Overdose for Insomnia—Married Stepdaughter of R. B. Roosevelt.

LONDON, July 7.—Ernest W. S. Pickhardt of New York died in a London hotel on July 4 of an overdose of a drug taken to induce sleep. Mr. Pickhardt was the divorced husband of the stepdaughter of the late Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of Theodore Roosevelt.

The inquest was held to-day, and Baroness Irene von Colberg, the dead man's sister, testified that he was in the habit of taking drugs in large quantities to relieve his insomnia.

The Coroner's verdict was "death by misadventure."

Ernest Pickhardt was the son of the late Wilhelm Pickhardt, who made a large fortune in the dye business, and built an imposing mansion at 929 Fifth Avenue. His wife was Miss Maude Fortescue, the daughter of Mrs. Robert B. Roosevelt. They were married on Jan. 20, 1900, in Grace Church.

ANTI-VIVISECTION CONGRESS.

American Women Address First Session in London.

LONDON, July 7.—The International Anti-Vivisection and Animal Protection Congress met in London this morning. Delegates from all the principal countries of the world were present. There are to be exhibitions illustrating methods of vivisection as well as the humane slaughtering of animals, and mass meetings and receptions have been arranged for.

Among those who delivered addresses to-day were Mrs. White and Mrs. Belais, President of the American Anti-Vivisection Society and President of the New York Anti-Vivisection Society, respectively.

DELAY FOR WASHINGTON LIFE.

Further Extension of Time Obtained by Going Over Justice Erlanger's Head

New interest was imparted yesterday to the suit brought by Leo C. Dessar against the Washington Life Insurance Company, arising out of its absorption by the Pittsburg Life and Trust Company, when it became known that, following Justice Erlanger's decision on Tuesday, giving the Washington Life Company only ten days' extension of time in which to answer Mr. Dessar's complaint, Frederick M. Czaki, counsel for the Washington Life, went to Saratoga on Tuesday night and succeeded in obtaining what is practically a further extension of time over the Justice's head.

Mr. Czaki obtained an order from Justice Houghton of the Appellate Division, directing Mr. Dessar to show cause why the time to answer his suit should not be extended until after the decision of the Appellate Division of the appeal from Justice Blanchard's decision overruling the demurrer to the complaint set up by the Washington Life.

The order was made returnable on Oct. 8, and the result is that it will tie up any further action in the matter and relieve the Washington Life from putting in its answer until after that date, by which time it is expected that the Appellate Division will have decided the demurrer appeal.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—William H. Hotchkiss, State Superintendent of Insurance, replied to-day to a statement made yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Erlanger of New York, in which Justice Erlanger said that Supt. Hotchkiss had violated an agreement not to approve the reinsurance contract of the Washington Life Insurance Company and the Pittsburg Life and Trust Company.

"Justice Erlanger," said Supt. Hotchkiss, "clearly was not informed as to the facts. I have always refused to ratify the reinsurance contract of Dec. 30 last, to which he refers. The department last month approved a reinsurance contract between these companies which fully protects the Washington Life policy holders. That contract is something very different from the original contract which was before Judge Erlanger."

SAYS THE POLICE BEAT HIM

In Station House Because He Would Not Confess, Prisoner Charges.

When Dominico Agostino of 1,553 Fifty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, was arraigned in the Flatbush Court charged with shooting Policeman Joseph Becker of the Parkville Station on June 29, he complained that he had been brutally beaten by the police.

Agostino's counsel said he meant to ask for warrants for the arrest of several members of the Italian detective squad for assaulting his client.

Agostino said that when he was arrested he was taken to the Parkville Station by three detectives, who tried to make him admit he had shot Becker. When he refused to do so, he said, the detectives took him into the basement, and while two of them held him the third pummeled him until he fell unconscious.

At the Parkville Station yesterday afternoon it was denied that Agostino had been ill-treated there.

ON A LOST LEGACY HUNT.

Mrs. Henry Burstyn of West Hoboken Claims Share of $13,000,000 Estate.

Friends of Mrs. Henry Burstyn, wife of the Health Commissioner of West Hoboken, N. J., learned yesterday that Mrs. Burstyn's visit to Germany, on which she started on the Kronprinz Wilhelm on Monday, was not undertaken solely for pleasure Commissioner Burstyn admitted yesterday that his wife hoped to establish a claim to a $1,300,000 share in a $13,000,000 estate left by Bishop Frankel of Breslau.

Commissioner Burstyn said that his wife believed the Bishop to have been an uncle, long lost to his family, and that she was armed with proofs to establish this relationship.

Mrs. Burstyn learned of the death of the Bishop through an account in an old German paper, stating that no heirs had been found to the estate.

GREATER ASTOR ROOF GARDEN

Hotel to Open Garden, Twice Size of the Old One, on Saturday.

It was announced by the management of the Hotel Astor last night that its new roof garden will be opened on Saturday night. The garden this year will be twice the previous size, and will cover the roof of the new addition to the hotel. It has been artistically laid out by landscape gardeners, and palms, and potted plants have been used in profusion in the scheme of decoration.

A new feature this season will be the Belvedere restaurant, which will seat 1,000 persons. It is situated on the rear of the roof from Forty-fourth to Forty-fifth Street, and commands a view of the Hudson. There are also rose and palm gardens, and a tea room for afternoon parties. There will be three orchestras on the roof during the balance of the Summer.

REMOVES ROWE AS TRUSTEE.

Ex-Gov. Flower's Aid and His Mother Ordered to Find $18,000 Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., July 7.—Mrs. Frances J. Rowe of Hartford, Washington County, and her son, Col. William H. Rowe, Jr., of New York, were to-day summarily removed by Surrogate Heaton of Rensselaer County as trustees under the will of Andrew D. Rowe, and directed to pay into court a trust fund of $18,000 created for Camilla R. S. Lewis of Troy.

Col. Rowe, who was military aid to Gov. Flower, and who took an active part in Democratic politics in this State, could not be found by the process servers. His mother told the Surrogate that she saw him last at Lakewood, N. J., in December, 1908, but that her recent efforts to communicate with him had failed.

Mrs. Rowe identified an account which she and her son filed May 19, 1906, showing the trust fund to amount to $18,895.79. She did not know whether this was cash or securities. She left everything to her son, she said, and merely signed the papers he presented to her. Explaining what had been done with the trust fund, she said part of it had been used in taking up the mortgage for $10,800 on her farm of about 125 acres at Hartford, which was held by James C. Bergen of New York. About $4,700 or $5,700, she was not sure which, was also used to pay a note held by the Nassau Trust Company of New York. The note was made by W. H. Rowe & Son, incorporated, and she and her son were indorsers.

Mrs. Rowe did not know about the balance of the trust fund. She said that she had given a deed of her farm to Marion R. Rowe, wife of her son, and a bill of sale of all her personal belongings to her daughter-in-law for the benefit of the trust fund.

Counsel for Mrs. Lewis stated that all the other adjournments had been taken to give the trustees opportunities to raise the money, which they were to pay into court and then resign.

REBELS NEARING TEHERAN.

Reported Within Three Miles—Preparations for Defense.

TEHERAN, Persia, July 7.—The British and Russian representatives have decided to hold no further communication with the Constitutionalist forces, whose advance on Teheran continues. Sardarasad is said to be within three miles of this city.

A regiment of soldiers is bivouacking to-night in the central square of the city, with guns trained on the route which the Bakhtiari advance guard is expected to take. Other preparations have been made for defense. The royalist troops have been reinforced by hundreds of armed hooligans, who are now parading the streets.

There are unconfirmed rumors of further fighting to-day at Shahabad.

Czar to Visit Kaiser Again.

KIEL, July 7.—The Emperor of Russia will visit Emperor William on July 12 or July 13 at Kiel, according to the report at naval headquarters.

FIREBUG NOW FACES LONG PRISON TERM

But the Voluntary Confession of His Wrongdoing Frees His Conscience, He Says.

IS HELD IN $10,000 BAIL

He Gives Full Details of the Art Shops He Burned, but Shields His Partner.

James Hunter Wright of 460 West Twenty-third Street, the art dealer, who, haunted by the memory of an old crime, surrendered himself at the District Attorney's office on Wednesday, thereby placing himself face to face with the probability of a long term in prison, waived examination yesterday when arraigned before Magistrate Crane in the Tombs Court on a charge of arson in the second degree. He was held in $10,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Wright, who is a tall, thin man, prematurely bent and gray, wore an expression of relief when he walked into court that was a marked contrast to his appearance of the day before, when making his confession to Assistant District Attorney Turnbull.

"It is a great relief to me," he said, "to know that I have confessed my long list of wrongdoing of my own accord. I am guilty of arson and fraud, but at last I have told the truth, and can now await my punishment in peace of mind."

It was not until after he had confided in his cousin, Alexander Fisher, with whom he has lived for several years, that Wright determined to make a clean breast of his crimes and take the consequences. Mr. Fisher called on Mr. Turnbull first to tell of his cousin's desire to confess, and on Tuesday afternoon Wright gave himself up, telling a complete story of the circumstances that led up to the succession of crimes of which he admitted he was guilty.

He first told of becoming associated in 1904 with a man named Harvey and going into partnership with him at 2,291 Broadway under the name of the Art Collection Society of New York. Business, however, was poor from the start. Several art ventures were unsuccessful, and they were hard pressed by creditors, one man in particular threatening to bring suit. With nothing but ruin in prospect, Wright, after disposing of the account books, set fire to the studio on the night of Dec. 26, 1905, destroying property to the value of $700. The total damage to the building was $3,000.

Assistant Fire Marshal David Kelly, who was assigned to investigate the fire at the time, said yesterday that it started in Wright's studio, and was considered of suspicious origin, though no suspicion fell on Wright, as his property was not insured.

From this point Wright recited several similar crimes committed in various cities throughout the country. According to his statement in the District Attorney's office he and another man left New York together immediately after the fire and went to Providence, R. I., where they again started in business, this time taking out insurance. After a few weeks the shop was destroyed by a mysterious fire, and Wright collected $203 from the insurance company.

Throughout his narrative Wright persistently concealed the identity of his companion, always speaking of him as "another person." Their next stop was at Quebec, but the ground did not look promising in the Canadian city, so they moved on to Spokane, Wash. Credit was good there and customers were plentiful, a two-day-stay netting them $2,100.

Amesbury, Mass., the next town victimized, was the scene of the third incendiary fire. The shop was destroyed and all trace of the plot with it. After collecting the insurance Wright came back to New York, and has lived with his cousin, Mr. Fisher, in Twenty-third Street, ever since.

He made a living by process serving for lawyers until recently, when a good place was offered to him by a large concern here. Unfavorable information from the West arrived about two weeks ago, and Wright was informed that he would not be needed.

When Magistrate Crane heard the prisoner's story he said it was one of the most extraordinary that had ever come to his knowledge.

When Wright was asked if he knew the possible consequences of his confession, he replied:

"I have never asked what the punishment may be. I do not care. I have told the truth, and am going to take the consequences."

According to Mr. Fisher, Wright was left an orphan as a child and was taken to live with his uncle, a clergyman in Massachusetts, who educated him. Later in life he studied to become a civil engineer. He met Harvey in 1895, while living at Shelburne Falls, Mass., and in 1904 they entered partnership in the art collection business.

Previous to his first crime, Wright said, he was very strong in his religious belief and held high rank in the Masonic order. He denied that either the commission of his crimes or the confession of them was brought about by the irresistable influence of some stronger personality, as has been stated. His reform came about, he said, through a natural course of remorse and repentance.

The maximum penalty for arson in the second degree is twenty-five years' imprisonment.

Nothing further was said yesterday by Mr. Turnbull about the possibility of another arrest in the case.

DENIES SHE KNEW TAGGART.

Ella Gingles on the Stand Repeats Story of Attack Upon Her.

CHICAGO, July 7.—In the trial of Ella Gingles in Judge Brentano's court here to-day the attack which the defendant says was made upon her in the Wellington Hotel, was reached. For the time being the State's cross-examination of the young Irish lacemaker, accused of the theft of lace from her former employer, Miss Agnes Barrette, was suspended and the direct examination by her attorney, P. H. O'Donnell, was resumed. The purpose of this trial, it was stated, was to allow the prosecution to cross-examine the young defendant.

Scores of women and even school girls were turned away from the courtroom to-day. Judge Brentano threatened to photograph every woman present, at which several of them fled.

The cross-examination before being suspended was brought up to Feb. 16 last, when Miss Gingles was bound and gagged in the bathroom. She asserted at that time that she had been the victim of a mysterious attack. However, the bathroom was found locked from the inside, and there were many other details which threw doubt upon the story.

The defendant, answering her attorney's questions, said that she went to the Wellington Hotel on Feb. 16 to collect 83 cents Miss Arnold owed her. She went to her room, which was Room 545.

"A man knocked at the door," the defendant continued. "He came in and said, 'Miss Arnold was expecting you. She is in the bathroom. Walk right in.' When I opened the door he pushed me in.

"He put something burning on my face, and I didn't remember anything more until Miss Barrette and another woman came in. My head hurt in the back, and when they went out of the bathroom I reached over and picked up my purse. I found an envelope and wrote on it, 'Come quick, Ella.' I addressed it to Miss Joyce, put a stamp on it, and threw it out of the transom. Miss Barrette was under the influence of liquor. I don't know who the other woman was."

At this point Miss Gingles nearly broke down and tears streamed down her cheeks. After regaining her composure she continued in a tone scarcely audible:

"Before the women came the man said: 'Didn't Miss Barrette tell you not to tell what happened up here on the night of Jan. 4?' I said: 'What hurt my head?' Miss Donahue came in then."

The defendant said that when she finally reached the hospital she had twenty-three wounds. She said that the women left the room first and that the man climbed over the transom.

Just before the noon adjournment Miss Gingles said in answer to questions that she did not know Thomas Taggart of French Lick Springs.

"Did Taggart ever write a letter to you?" she was asked.

"No, Sir."

"Did he ever do you any harm?"

"No, Sir."

FLEET OFF FOR MANOEUVRES.

13 Gray Battleships with New Skeleton Masts Under Rear Admiral Schroeder.

ROCKPORT, Mass., July 7.—All in dull gray war paint and equipped with their skeleton fighting masts, thirteen battleships of the North Atlantic squadron assembled off Cape Ann to-day. At sunset the fleet started off to the eastward to engage in manoeuvres off the Massachusetts coast. Later other vessels will join those which sailed to-day, and for the next four or five weeks an intricate and extensive programme of movements arranged by officials at Washington will be carried out. On Saturday the fleet is expected to be off Provincetown, which will be the base during the operations in northern waters.

The ships which will join the fleet as the movements progress include four battleships, a dozen torpedo boats and destroyers, some submarines, and several auxiliaries, so that ultimately Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, whose flag flies on the Connecticut, will have under his command the largest and most powerful fleet ever gathered in American waters.

When the squadron gathered off the Twin Lights of Thatcher's Island to-day the clear air gave an excellent view to the thousands who crowded every vantage point on the rocks of Cape Ann. The ships in the fleet to-day were the Connecticut, Vermont, Louisiana, Kansas, Maine, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Minnesota, Georgia, Rhode Island, Nebraska, and Idaho. Later the Missouri, Virginia, Ohio, and Mississippi will complete the quota of seventeen first-class battleships.

TAKES DOWN BIBLICAL SIGN.

Church Builders of "Spite Fence" Will Not Have to Face Rebuking Text.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 7.—Dr. J. B. Hulett of this city, who when the officers of the First Congregational Church erected a high board fence across the rear of the church property, shutting off the view and light from the rear windows of his new barn, erected a large sign on the barn roof reading, "He who wantonly cutteth his neighbor's light shall be as an abomination in the eyes of all his people," has now decided to take the sign down.

"This decision has been arrived at," says the doctor, "without any knowledge of what the Congregational Church proposes doing. I might have reasonably expected the church authorities to take the first step toward harmony, but I am not going to let any feeling of resentment prevent my taking the initiative. It has been gratifying to me to aid in stimulating Biblical research, to help create an hour's hilarity, and, above all, to go on record as exemplifying, not by compulsion but by choice, the precept of peace and good will preached from the pulpit on Sundays."

REDCLOUD OF THE LAKES

By FREDERICK R. BURTON, Author of STRONGHEART.

"I have read 'Redcloud of the Lakes' with extreme interest and satisfaction. The author has succeeded in doing what I believe only two or three other men have done, he has got down to a comprehension of the Indian's mental methods. I should like to go a little further and say that among the two or three men who have done this, perhaps no one has done it quite so well as Mr. Burton. To me the book seems a great work—great in its faithful characterization of a passing type."
GEORGE BIRD GRINNELL.

"The book seems to me to stand quite by itself in the literature about the Indian. I know of no other work of fiction dealing with the subject to be at all compared with it in authenticity. It is an admirably developed piece of literary construction. Also, it's a rattling good yarn."
CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS.

"It is a relief to get, among the deluge of pretty girl stories, this large and thoughtful novel that has in it the breath of the forest and the flash of the Great Lakes."
EDWIN MARKHAM.

"A big advance on 'Strongheart.' The book gives a remarkable picture of Indian life, and it ought to attract a good deal of serious attention."
FREDERIC TABER COOPER.

"An unusually truthful picture of Indian life. A dignified, interesting and exceedingly picturesque piece of work."
HAMLIN GARLAND.

"A rare piece of work. I almost wonder at a white man having written it. I welcome the book as more enlightening to the popular understanding than a dozen scientific treatises."

REVOLT IN COLOMBIA; REYES DECLARED OUT

Vice President Valencia Proclaimed in Place of President Now in Europe.

HE DISAVOWS REVOLUTION

Rebels Take Barranquilla, and Bogota Is Under Martial Law—Panama Canal Figures in the Trouble.

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 7.—A portion of the army stationed at Barranquilla took up arms on Sunday last against the Colombian Government, made prisoners of the municipal authorities, and proclaimed Gonzalez Valencia President.

Gen. Jorge Holguin, who is acting President, in the absence of Gen. Rafael Reyes, was strongly denounced, and the gendarmerie were driven out of the city, later arriving at Cartagena. The revolutionists took possession of the town and several steamers on the Magdalena river.

Gen. Holguin has declared martial law throughout the country. Gonzalez Valencia, who is Vice President of the republic, has disavowed the rising and is coming to Bogota, with the acquiescence of the Government. Valencia has issued a manifesto expressing his disapproval of the revolutionary movement, as has also the Republican Committee.

According to advices here the disturbed conditions are confined to Barranquilla. Officials of the Government state that the rest of the country is at peace and that the people desire peace in order that Congress may meet on July 20 and settle many important questions which are pending.

Gen. Perdomo will leave Honda to-morrow with six steamers, having on board 3,000 men and twenty pieces of artillery. The objective point of the troops is Barranquilla.

COLON, July 7.—News of the revolution in Colombia was brought here to-day by the British steamer Median, in from Savanilla. It reports that Barranquilla and Savanilla, its seaport, are in the hands of the revolutionists.

Private letters received here from Colombia report that the town of Santa Marta also has fallen to the rebels, but the Median brings no confirmation of this intelligence.

The trouble began Sunday morning at Barranquilla, and ended in the speedy overthrow of the Governmental authorities at that point. There was little resistance, and the rebels were quickly successful. Two hundred men, armed with rifles, then marched down to Savanilla and took that port without firing a single shot. Only one prisoner was taken, the Captain of the port, and he was sent back to Barranquilla.

A Colombian gunboat was seen Monday night approaching Cartagena, but no news of what has occurred at that city has reached Colon. When the Median left the Colombian coast it was rumored that an American warship was expected momentarily at one of the coast ports.

Persons well versed in Colombian politics are of the opinion that this movement is the beginning of a fusion of all political parties against the Reyes Government.

There is no direct telegraphic communication between Colon and the Atlantic coast of Colombia. All telegraphic news from the Atlantic side has to go first to Bogota, the capital, then down to Buenaventura on the Pacific coast, and thence north by cable. Consequently it is subjected to Government censorship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Republic of Colombia is in the throes of revolution, according to advices received by the State Department to-day from Paxton Hibben, Secretary to the American Legation at Bogota. The uprising is aimed at President Reyes and the prevailing Government, and the situation is most serious. Martial law has been proclaimed, and the streets of Bogota, the capital, are patrolled by strong bodies of troops.

As a result of the insurrection the postal service has been suspended and telegraphic communication is cut off. Because of this Mr. Hibben has been unable to get into touch with Mr. Northcote, the newly appointed Minister from this country, and he does not know the latter's whereabouts.

The vigorous methods adopted by the Government have thus far prevented any serious rioting in Bogota, Mr. Hibben reports, but the situation at the capital is far from tranquil, and an outbreak may occur at any time. At present the centre of the disturbance appears to be at Barranquilla.

The State Department has not yet taken any action in the premises, believing the Reyes Government able to take care of American lives and property. There are a number of American warships in the vicinity of Barranquilla, however, and these can be dispatched there quickly if the situation becomes more alarming.

Señor Sarria, Consul General of Colombia in New York, received yesterday from Buenaventura, on the Pacific Coast of Colombia, the following dispatch relating to the disturbances at Barranquilla and Savanilla:

"The movement was confined to Barranquilla and promptly put down. The Government is in receipt of numerous protests against the uprising and expressions of adherence and peace from the Republican Committee, Gen. Rafael Uribe-Uribe, former President Caro, and others. These men all condemn the uprising and offer their services to the State.

"It is universally expected that the approaching Congress will bring a solution of the difficulty.

"Gonzalez Valencia is expected at Bogota to-day."

Barranquilla, Savanilla, Cartagena, and Santa Marta are in the northern part of Colombia, along the Caribbean Sea, several hundred miles from Bogota, the capital.

Gen. Rafael Reyes has been President of Colombia since January, 1905, having succeeded Señor Marroquin by election. His term of office does not expire until 1914. Up to the present time the republic, under his administration, has been free from revolution or any serious internal trouble.

In November of 1903 the State of Panama, then an integral part of the Colombian Republic, proclaimed its independence, which was speedily recognized by the United States. Shortly after this step a treaty providing for the construction of the Panama Canal was signed by the United States and the new republic. Colombia was greatly aggrieved over the loss of her richest and best State.

A tripartite treaty between the Republic of Panama, the Colombian Republic, and the United States, settling the controversies arising out of the separation of Panama from Colombia, was concluded in the early part of this year, and the agreement was ratified by the United States Senate and the Panama Senate in February. Colombia, however, has not yet ratified it. The treaty was submitted to the Legislature by President Reyes for ratification in February, but the objection was raised that the existing Legislature was not legal, the members having been in large measure appointed instead of elected, and it was decided to hold new elections with the idea of making the final ratification legitimate in every respect.

The elections were held on May 30, and, so far as is known, resulted favorably to the purpose of the President of the republic, which has been to secure ratification.

Still there has been considerable opposition to ratification in Colombia, judging from the news reports from the republic, for the old bitterness at the loss of Panama still lives, and there was discontent over the terms under which Panama, according to the treaty, was to assume a portion of the Colombian debt.

This was the situation when President Reyes suddenly, and without even his most intimate friends and associates being aware of his intention, left Bogota, made his way down to Santa Marta, and quietly boarded an English ship that left half an hour later for London. He left Jorge Holguin, the President-designate of the republic, as Acting Chief Executive. The two men are fast friends, and their families are related by marriage. It was given out that Reyes left for the purpose of taking a much needed rest and vacation, but his sudden departure was generally interpreted as a flight and revolutionary disturbances were looked for.

Reyes left for England on June 10. Since that date Acting President Holguin has put into effect various measures looking to greater economy in administration, particularly the abolition of various Consulates and Ministries, and a large number of other offices, which have resulted in a yearly saving to the public exchequer of something like $8,000,000.

Reyes had to leave Colombia surreptitiously. Had he announced his intention of going his political adherents would not have permitted the step. His absence from the country was bound to give opportunity and encouragement to the political elements opposed to him, and desirous of bringing about a change.

In London Reyes has announced his intention of returning to Colombia and resuming the Presidency, denied that there was anything in the report that he had abandoned his office, and said he would return at once should there be a revolutionary outbreak.

A dispatch from Guayaquil, Ecuador, dated July 5, indicated trouble at Barranquilla. In this communication the movement was said to be directed against Acting President Holguin, and in favor of Gonzales Valencia, a former Vice President of the republic, who is reported to have started revolutionary movements against Reyes on previous occasions.

EULENBURG TRIAL IS OFF.

Postponed Indefinitely When Prince Faints in Court Under Examination.

BERLIN, July 7.—Prince Philip zu Eulenburg had an attack of heart failure in court to-day while undergoing an examination at the hands of a physician to determine his physical fitness to stand trial on charges of perjury alleged to have been committed during the Harden-Von Moltke case, which was an outgrowth of the "round table" scandals of 1907.

When the proceedings opened to-day the commission of physicians declared that in their opinion the Prince was sufficiently strong to stand trial. They declared that when they examined him he had simulated weakness and checked his breathing to affect his pulse, thus endeavoring to deceive them. The Prince rose and vehemently denied this.

The public prosecutor thereupon demanded that the Prince be placed under arrest and not permitted to give bail. The Judge decided that Zu-Eulenburg should first be examined by Prof. Kraus, who was present. While undergoing this examination the Prince was seized with cramps of the heart. His pulse rose to 132, and he fainted away.

Prof. Kraus declared that the Prince was not able to go on with the trial, whereupon the public prosecutor withdrew his motion for arrest, and the case was adjourned indefinitely.

ON TRIAL IN AUSTRIA FOR A CRIME HERE

Rosenfeld, a Ticket Broker, Absconded, Leaving Bonding Company in the Lurch.

SWINDLED ALIENS ALSO

Tracked to Fatherland, Whose Authorities Co-operated in Prosecution—Case Rare in Legal Annals.

An interesting case and, lawyers say, a rare one, wherein a man charged with a crime committed in the United States was arrested and is being prosecuted for it in Austria-Hungary, came to light yesterday through an announcement by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, 66 Liberty Street.

The man, whose Nemesis has tracked him across the ocean to his native country, is Edward Rosenfeld, who was until Oct. 1 of last year a seemingly prosperous banker and transatlantic steamship ticket broker, with offices at 288 East Houston Street, Manhattan, and 1,805 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn. His customers were largely Russians, Austrians, and other aliens little accustomed to the business processes of this country, and in most cases ignorant of the language. The lawyers prosecuting Rosenfeld say these people were as clay in his hands.

One of the most prosperous avenues of business open to Rosenfeld was that of selling steamship tickets to Europe to Russians and Austrians who had saved some money in this country by hard work and stinting themselves. Many of these men and women had left fathers, mothers, husbands, or wives on the other side and had slaved that they might go back with their earnings, buy a few acres, and live comfortably the rest of their days. Before steamship companies would intrust Rosenfeld with their tickets they required him to furnish bonds. The United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company furnished four such bonds of $1,000 each for him, and he became an agent on the lower east side for the Hamburg-American, the Cunard, the International Mercantile Marine, and the Holland-America Lines.

The bonding company learned on Oct. 2, last year, that Rosenfeld had suddenly closed up his offices in Houston Street and Brooklyn and had gone to Europe. They lost track of him for a time on the other side, but learned that his wife had sailed from New York on Oct. 8 on the Kronprinz Wilhelm for Bremen under her maiden name, Fannie Wagner. Detectives on the other side, according to the bonding company, found that he had gone to Galicia, Austria, then to Switzerland, and when arrested a few weeks ago he was a traveling salesman for his brother, a wealthy watch manufacturer in Basle, Switzerland. Rosenfeld's father also is said to be a prosperous manufacturer in Peczenzynie, Galicia.

When it became certain that Rosenfeld had gone the bonding company paid the Hamburg-American Company $1,000, the International Mercantile Marine Company $1,000, the Cunard Company $44.50, and the Holland-America Company $260. Then having found a case or two on record of the prosecution of an alleged criminal in Austria for an offense committed in America the bonding company got in communication with the Attorney General at Lemberg, Austria, and engaged Joseph Ueberall, a foreign attorney, with office at 31 Broadway, to prepare the papers according to the requirements of the Austrian Government. Mr. Ueberall sent his affidavits to Austria, one of them being to the effect that Rosenfeld had absconded, in consequence of which the company had to pay more than $2,300. When this paper was received in Austria Rosenfeld was arrested. His prosecution is now in progress, and the bonding company expects to hear the outcome in a few days.

Lawyers for the bonding company told yesterday, as a sample of the transactions with which Rosenfeld is accused, the story of a Russian who returned to Russia only to be arrested and thrown into the army when he thought he had "bought off" and was the owner of a farm besides. He had run away from home to escape serving in the army, and coming here, saved up about $500.

This he is said to have taken to Rosenfeld, asking him to send it to his father in Russia to be used in the payment of the sum required to escape service in the army, and to buy a small farm. A few months later the son sailed for home happy in the thought that he could live the rest of his life with his people, with no cloud of army service hanging over him.

When he arrived he was immediately arrested. When his father was asked why he had not used the money sent to pay the price of immunity from service, as requested, the father said he had received no money.

TUBERCULOSIS AND MILK.

Nathan Straus Reports to Stockholm Conference on Their Connection.

STOCKHOLM, July 7.—American investigations of the responsibility of bovine tuberculosis for the persistent spread of the disease among human beings, particularly children, were officially reported today to the eighth International Tuberculosis Conference, in session here, by Nathan Straus of New York.

The paper was presented by Dr. Arthur Randolph Green, one of the American delegates. It disclosed the evidence gathered by the American investigators to show the responsibility of milk from tuberculous cows for the infection of human beings with tuberculosis, adding:

"The prevention of the infection of healthy children with tuberculous milk requires the active and willing co-operation of the dairyman, the milk dealer, the legislator, the health officer, and the doctor. That these men of diverse interests may work together to enforce the pasteurization of milk that is not from tuberculin tested herds requires the earnest endeavors of the organizations that have been formed to fight tuberculosis and the assistance of the pulpit and the press to create such well-informed public sentiment that it will be regarded as a crime to feed a child upon milk of doubtful origin unless it has been properly pasteurized."

TO SAVE POTASH SYNDICATE.

Germany Threatens Export Tax If It Is Broken Up.

BERLIN, July 7.—A bill levying an export duty on potash has been drawn up by Herr Delbrück, Minister of Commerce and Industry, who admitted during the course of the finance debate in the Reichstag that the Government would bring the measure forward in the event of the potash syndicate being broken up.

He argued that no foreign country, least of all the United States, could regard such an enactment as unfriendly.

GERMAN NAVY NOT SECOND.

Paris Paper Points Out American Is Next to Great Britain's.

PARIS, July 7.—The Temps takes issue with M. Michel, who declared yeysterday in the Chamber of Deputies that Germany stood second among naval powers. The Temps points out that second place is held by the United States. It adds that all English authorities class the United States as second.

Germany, therefore, would be third and France fourth.

DETECTIVE CALLS FUGITIVE'S BLUFF

Defiant Thief's Captor Was Edward Conroy, Star Pugilist of the Force.

ONCE OUTPOINTED McCOY

And Jim Corbett Said of Him That He Could Be Champion Fighter of the World If He Would.

The sound as of some one trying to force the door aroused George Taylor from a nap in his apartment on the third floor of the house at 573 Amsterdam Avenue yesterday afternoon. He sat up quietly, waiting, and presently the door opened gently and a young man stepped into the room. Taylor sprang at him, and the men grappled.

The intruder had the jimmy with which he had forced the door in his hand and struck Taylor a stunning blow on the head with it. Taylor went to his knees, and the intruder broke away, ran down the stairs and, turning into Eighty-sixth Street, ran toward Columbus Avenue.

Taylor, who had quickly revived, followed the man, and Detective Edward Conroy of the Harlem Branch Detective Bureau, joined in the chase. The fugitive tried at Columbus Avenue and backed, breathless, against an elevated railroad pillar. Reaching into his hip pocket he stood at bay, waiting for his pursuers and shouting to Conroy:

"Now, come on, you big stiff!"

"All right, my boy, I'm coming," replied the detective as he closed in on the fellow and sent him to the pavement with a blow of his fist.

The man's hand was still in his pocket. Suddenly he withdrew it. Conroy grabbed his wrist, but the fellow loughingly remarked:

"All I've got's my handkerchief. I just wanted to take it out of my pocket."

A search showed that a handkerchief was really all he did have in his pocket, and Conroy led him downtown to Police Headquarters, where he locked him up, charging him with attempted burglary and assault. The prisoner said he was John Rosen of 740 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx.

According to the police records, Rosen has served already two terms in jail for burglary and is a well-known thief. His picture, the police say, is No. 15,310 in the Rogues' Gallery.

Detective Conroy is the man who recovered Mrs. Gould's gold "vanity" bag when it was lost in a well-known restaurant a year ago. Some years ago, too, he acquired notice by outpointing "Kid" McCoy in a friendly boxing match in an uptown gymnasium.

It is said of Conroy that James J. Corbett once predicted that he would be the champion heavyweight pugilist of the world if he chose to take up fighting for a living.

CHINESE LOAN DISCUSSED.

No Decision Reached as to Participation by American Bankers.

LONDON, July 7.—The British, German, and French bankers concerned in the Hankow-Sze-chuen Railroad loan of $27,500,000 began to-day consideration of the terms under which Americans are to be admitted to participation. No conclusion was reached, and the meetings will be resumed to-morrow. The sessions will probably be prolonged, as it has been found necessary to cable to Washington for information regarded as essential to the American case.

The Americans are represented by E. C. Grenfell of J. P. Morgan & Co., Otto Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Willard D. Straight. The British representatives are William Keswick, M. P.; C. Meyer of the Perkins Syndicate, and Sir T. Jackson. Germany and France are represented by two delegates each.

Ambassador Reid is entertaining the delegates at Dorchester House to-night.

PRINCE KUNI COMING HERE.

He and Princess Will Return to Japan by Way of America.

LONDON, July 7.—Prince and Princess Kuni of Japan, who have been making a prolonged tour of Europe and who will spend the Summer in England, have decided to return home by way of the United States, and will leave for New York late in August.

A NEW IDEA IN DENTISTRY

About six years ago we announced to the world the discovery of a new idea in dental science—a new method by which we could restore teeth which had been lost through ignorance or poor dentistry, and accomplish this result without the aid of partial plates or so-called bridge work. In some dental offices they used to strive for records in extracting teeth to make room for an abominable partial plate or a torturesome bridge. It is a positive crime to pull sound teeth for any such purpose. There is nothing so good and perfect as the teeth nature grew in the jaws in the beginning. We have discovered the next best thing. THE MARTINOLAR METHOD is such a distinct advance n dentstry that we have a right to proclaim it the greatest achievement in dental science of modern times.

We told the people then, as we tell them now, that, given two or more teeth in either jaw, we could by the MARTINOLAR METHOD restore all the teeth that were lost and make them stay in the mouth. From this modest beginning has grown the greastest dental business in the world. Our patients are numbered by thousands and tens of thousands, and are scattered to the four corners of this country, Canada and Mexico. There is hardly a section in which we cannot refer you to some people who are enjoying the blessings of these new and beautiful teeth.

We want to make you a fair proposition: Come to one of our offices for a free diagnosis and examination of your teeth. This will cost you nothing, either in money or obligation. We will make you both judge and jury of the work, and let you decide for yourself whether or not it is worthy of consideration and a trial.

Every piece of work that is done in our offices carries with it our guarantee, so we do not ask any one to take any chances on our being unable to carry out our promises.

We take all the risk.

If you live too far away to come in person, send for our book "MARTINOLAR DENTISTRY" and read it thoroughly. You will then have a very clear idea of what this method is. We do not perform any surgical operations, nor do we bore or cut into the gums. It is practically painless.

Your teeth are of sufficient importance to cause you to attend to them without any further delay. Why not act on our invitation and either call or write to us at once?

AN UNNECESSARY AMENDMENT.

Why amend the Constitution? Congress might easily in a few words apportion an income tax among the several States "according to their respective numbers." The framers of the Constitution provided that direct taxes should be so apportioned. In the twenty years that preceded the Constitutional Convention a great deal had been said about taxation without representation. The members of the Convention were sensitive upon that subject. It was declared in the resolution introduced on July 16, 1787, that "representation ought to be apportioned according to direct taxation." The debates show that it was the sentiment of the Convention that "the apportionment of representation and taxation by the same scale is just." The danger was evident that, if this rule were omitted, a majority of the States might combine against a few others or against one State, and burden it with taxes far beyond its proportional representation in Congress. Accordingly the Constitution, as adopted, declared that representatives and direct taxes should be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers.

The sound reasons that prompted the adoption of this principle still exist. So far from becoming obsolete, they have been strengthened and have taken on new validity with the lapse of years. Democratic statesmen are continually prating about the wisdom of the Fathers, Republicans sometimes allude to it. Why should we depart now from the safe rule they laid down?

Imagine the howls of pain and rage that would come from CUMMINS of Iowa, from BAILEY of Texas, from BORAH, LA FOLLETTE, and all the eager advocates of the income tax if it should now be proposed in Congress that the law imposing it be made Constitutional by providing for apportionment. Apportionment is the very thing they want to get rid of. That the burden of this tax should be borne equally by the States is an idea repugnant to their minds. The fact that it would not be borne equally, but most unequally, that almost the entire sum raised by the tax would be paid by a few States, not their States, is the very thing that endears it to their hearts.

In his argument before the Supreme Court against the income tax of 1894, which was declared unconstitutional because it was a direct tax and not apportioned, Mr. JOSEPH H. CHOATE referred to the working of the income tax imposed during the civil war, and pointed out to the court the very unequal distribution of the impost:

> There was formerly an income tax law, and the last year it was in force was the year 1873. The exemption then was $2,000. In that year the collections for that tax were such in the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and New Jersey that even then, with that exemption, those four States paid four-fifths of the entire tax. What was their political representation in the lower house of Congress, which only can initiate and secure the passage of revenue bills? Eighty-three out of 356, or a little less than one-quarter. Anybody who knows anything about the operation of these income tax laws and as to the effect of changing the exemption from $2,000 to $4,000, knows that that inequality of burden will, under the act of 1894, press upon those four States with vastly greater force. So that it is Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania that, under this enactment, if it be allowed to stand, may pay not less than nine-tenths of the entire tax, a tax imposed upon them by other States.

The corporation income tax law bill passed by the Senate the other day makes $5,000 the exemption figure—that is, corporations having a net income of not more than $5,000 will pay no tax There is no reason whatever why there should be an exemption figure in a tax of this nature. In a personal income tax there is a reason. But it is safe to assume that the income tax which Congress would put upon us, should the amendment be adopted, will exempt incomes below $5,000. Exemption for their States is exactly what the advocates of the tax want, and the higher the exemption figure the smaller the sums collected in Texas, Iowa, the Mountain States, and in other States where there is a ferocious desire that incomes shall be taxed. Having once removed the Constitutional safeguard of apportionment, there will be no check upon the power of the Populistic States to exempt themselves and make a few Eastern States pay all, or nearly all, the tax. If their own constituents grumble they can easily put the exemption figure at $25,000, and make the tax 10 or 20 per cent. of income. Their motive is the same as the motive of what we call "up the State" in laying taxes that are collected almost entirely in the City of New York. The principle is fascinating. When men once get the habit of helping themselves to the property of others they are not easily cured of it.

In addition to the argument from the wisdom of the Fathers, from the Constitution, and from justice and equity, there is another reason why we would commend to the advocates of an income tax an apportionment according to population instead of an amendment of the Constitution. They can get an apportioned tax enacted and applied. There is some danger that their Constitutional amendment may be beaten. The adverse votes of the Legislatures of twelve States would reject it. Naturally, States like New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania will not be enthusiastic for an income tax. It is probable that Connecticut and Rhode Island, indeed all the New England States, will vote against it. If, in addition to New England, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Ohio or West Virginia should give an adverse vote, the amendment would be beaten.

PEACE AT CHAMPLAIN.

It is a noteworthy fact that the representatives of the three nations that in the past have fought along the shores and on the bosom of Lake Champlain should, on the occasion of the present celebration, unite in expressions of hope and desire for universal peace. It may also be noted that none of them ventured to speak with entire confidence of the probable fulfillment of their humane wishes.

The wars of the French and the English and of the English and Americans were not immediately due to the same causes. The former sprang from the determined hunger of the nations of the seventeenth and the eighteenth century for territory. When the French sailed up the St. Lawrence, occupied a little corner in the southeast portion of what is now Canada and was then called "the Canadas," and when the English took foothold on the Atlantic coast, it seemed that there might be ample scope and verge enough for each nation to expand without conflict with the other. But the restless colonists on the one hand and on the other pressed forward into the interior until the control of the valley of the Mississippi and the vast domain between it and the sea became an object of mighty international combat in which France was vanquished. The war of the American colonists for independence was inspired, undoubtedly, by the ardent love of liberty native to men of English blood, but also it must be remembered that the one form of liberty they especially cared for was the liberty to trade, and when the struggle was but begun the heads of the leaders teemed with dreams of commercial expansion that should cover the entire continent. It was these dreams that sent ARNOLD on that desperate and heroic expedition, trophies of which were among the mementos of the great celebration that President TAFT bore away with him.

It would be venturesome to maintain that like ambitions have ceased to exist among the nations. There are too many obvious facts to support the opposite belief. But war has become a far more costly and perilous matter than it was when WOLFE and MONTCALM, BRADDOCK and ARNOLD successively waged their conflicts along Lake Champlain and the St. Lawrence. Probably the mere annual cost of military preparation is greater now in time of peace the world over than were the wars in which these soldiers were engaged, and the results of even a successful war make statesmen cautious. The fact is one of the essential guarantees of continued peace, and though it is not so inspiring a motive as the love of humanity, it is one to be profoundly thankful for.

WHAT IS "WATER"?

According to the argument before the Public Service Commission the reorganizers of the Third Avenue Railway propose to add $9,921,800 to the outstanding securities. The stock is to be increased 25 per cent. The old bonds are to be increased 8 per cent. upon account of unpaid and unearned interest. But the new bonds are divided into classes, and the interest upon so large a portion of them is made dependent upon earnings that fixed charges are reduced by half. There is a general impression that the previous volume of securities was ample, as is indicated by the fact that the company is insolvent. Receiver WHITRIDGE "may not think that the old stock is worth $1 a bushel," and admits that the old bonds represent $16,560,000 of indebtedness for which the company did not receive value. Yet he contends that the plan to increase the volume of securities is not "watering" them.

The case is worth consideration both in itself and particularly because it brings the Public Service Commission to a crisis. Mr. IVINS in a formal defense of the Commission against the aspersions of its critics said that upon these questions of reorganization the Commission "will need its greatest courage and the utmost wisdom and poise; for no matter what it does it will be the object of rancorous criticism, and I fear almost brutal opposition." The criticisms of this plan already manifest this temper, which leads nowhere and is to be deprecated. Reorganizers and Commission alike should get credit for good intentions, and the merits of their respective positions should be estimated dispassionately, for the case is the forerunner of many, and is illustrative of the principles on which public utility financing must be done under the present law.

According to the spokesmen for the reorganization there is no water in the securities because the bonds have sold around par and the stock above par. They take credit that they are not capitalizing the franchise, and they claim a right to take a hopeful view of the future and to keep the stock alive in anticipation of better earnings. The opposing contention is that the stock is worthless, and it might as well be admitted to be so and wiped out. Indeed, the severity of the assessment, which compels the payment of par in cash for the increase of stock, is suggestive that it is designed to bring the stockholders themselves to take this view. It is alleged that the securities proposed are in excess of the valuation of the property, and that public policy requires correspondence between actual and nominal value.

But there's the rub. Supposing the ideal of equality of nominal and actual valuations to be established, how is it to be maintained? The old values might be re-established if overhead and parallel competition were to be abolished, as in the palmy days of the horse car. But if the securities were to be adjusted to equality with the new conditions the construction of a subway along the route would bring bankruptcy back again, as Receiver WHITRIDGE says. In that case the new security holders would be damaged under the auspices of the Commission itself, the public being misled by an apparent guarantee of value. Mr. WHITRIDGE expressed advanced views upon this point, arguing that ever-varying values should be left to individual estimation. His counsel argued that the Commission's action is purely ministerial, being confined to ratification of whatever those concerned thought for their interests, the public not being concerned. Obviously those who pay the fares fixed by law, and those who buy and sell the securities, are distinct classes, and their respective interests require different treatment.

How far have we advanced since Speaker REED, in the days before the reform era which has disturbed so much and altered so little, wrote:

> Cannot we stop this stock-watering? Must we not do it? Well, the value of stock is very much matter of opinion. It will be noticed that the stock of one of our greatest companies can be bought for less than $40. The par value is $100. In the judgment of the world there is 60 per cent. water, and in the market the water is squeezed out. Could a Legislature do it more effectively? Is it proposed to specify how often the test for water is to be applied? Are the stockholders to be assessed daily for the variations of each day, or are the Directors to be indicted daily? Shall officers of the Government determine the value, or the public in the open market?

Applying this to the pending case, has not Third Avenue been pretty well unwatered? And if the present proposal fails to produce the millions necessary to develop the property, what is the alternative? The reorganizers admit that the case is desperate, and 6 per cent. is the utmost the Public Service Commission allows. Either compliance will be merely nominal or our utility enterprises will be checked.

AN EPISODE IN DR. JOHNSON'S CAREER.

> ADDISON, POPE, STEELE, SWIFT, BOSWELL, and Dr. JOHNSON formed another society of mutual admiration and of jealousy.—NEW YORK TIMES.
> This is a most interesting assertion, not to say discovery, and our valued contemporary ought to elucidate it.—The Sun.

In other words, Why did we link the names of Dr. JOHNSON and his satellite with those of the next older literary generation? Perhaps it was permissible, in this instance. The sentence quoted by our learned contemporary was in reply to a gentleman who suggested that THE TIMES "might get some of its wealthy readers" "to endow the writer and the artist," asking how otherwise a "pot-boiling" drudge might escape his drudgery for higher things. We replied that he needed no endowment, that he should seek rather the esteem, the rivalry, the jealousy, even, of his fellow-writers. SAMUEL JOHNSON'S unsought endowment of shoes while a student of 19 at Oxford was "thrown away with indignation." He was poor at 29, when he hawked his "London" among the booksellers with such ill success that Mr. DERRICK, as recounted by BOSWELL, alluded to the circumstance in his verses on "Fortune":

> Shall JOHNSON, friendless, range the town?
> And every publisher refuse
> The offspring of his happy muse?

The concluding lines of "London" echoed his misery:

> This mournful truth is everywhere confess'd,
> Slow rises worth, by poverty depress'd!

And BOSWELL comments:

> We may easily conceive with what feeling a great mind like his, cramped and galled by narrow circumstances, uttered this last line, which he marked by capitals.

Still he sought no "endowment." When he spurned the shoes his reputation among his university mates had been made through a Latin translation of POPE'S "Messiah." Sir JOHN HAWKINS relates that the translation was shown to POPE by GEORGE, son of Dr. ARBUTHNOT, and that POPE, then king of English letters, complimented it. When JOHNSON'S "London" "burst forth with a splendor the rays of which will forever encircle his name," POPE was the first to acclaim it. The great satirist inquired who the obscure author was, and uttered the dictum "He will soon be déterré"—which JOHNSON recalled with high satisfaction some thirty years later. POPE recommended JOHNSON to Lord GOWER, and GOWER bespoke his interest with Dean SWIFT to get him an M. A. degree at Dublin, saying that JOHNSON would die on the road to the examination sooner than "be starved to death in translating for booksellers, which has been his only sustenance for some time past."

The scholar of his age deserved the degree, but no encouragement came from SWIFT. Perhaps that is why JOHNSON never thereafter spoke of SWIFT'S works but in terms of disparagement. But his spirit, which rejected alms, leaped at the note of recommendation from POPE. Again BOSWELL:

> JOHNSON had been told of this note, and Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS informed him of the compliment which it contained, but from delicacy avoided showing him the paper itself. When Sir JOSHUA observed to JOHNSON that he seemed very desirous to see POPE'S note he answered, "Who would not be proud to have such a man as POPE so solicitous in inquiring about him?"

POPE lived only five years after this episode. We think JOHNSON never saw him. Yet who shall say that his approval of the struggling "pot-boiler" was not of more avail than money or preferment could be?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Laying Down a New Telephone Law.

Telephone companies, for the sufficient reason that each of their subscribers is to a considerable degree at the mercy of all the others, have from the beginning of their operations claimed and exercised the right to censor communications passing over the wires and to fix on verbal liberties certain limitations the violation of which would be punished by the removal of the offending patron's telephone and the refusal ever to restore it. The power thus assumed has, so far as we know, never been abused, and there is general acquiescence in the determination of the companies thus to guard the sensitive ears of employés and subscribers from profane, indecent, or too discourteous language.

This more than fairly satisfactory situation has been rudely disturbed by a decision just rendered by the Iowa Supreme Court. It seems that a resident of that State had been guilty of two telephone crimes—he had exceeded the bounds of propriety in expressing his opinion of "central's" attentiveness and efficiency, and he had made a habit of listening to the conversations carried on by other subscribers. That he had been guilty of both these offenses is shown by the fact that after his telephone was taken out he promised to mend his manners and curb his curiosity if it were put back. The company, however, was inexorable, so the man sued for the restoration of his service. The court of first instance decided in his favor and the company's appeal from that decision has failed.

The grounds for holding that the company had exceeded its power are not stated in the dispatches at hand, but presumably they had to do with a disproportion between offense and penalty. In these days permanent deprivation of telephone service would be a serious disablement for carrying on the ordinary businesses and pleasures of life—a punishment evidently not to be inflicted for light cause or to be prolonged, especially by a common carrier, beyond the period required for ending the evil on which the action was taken. Anyhow, the too eloquent Iowan is to have his telephone back, and telephone companies all over the country will have to bear his case in mind when they undertake the disciplining of their subscribers. A moderate and reasonable exercise of the censoring power doubtless is still permitted. At least it is to be hoped so.

Another Attack on Confidence.

Having never suspected, ourselves, that anything more than skill gained by long practice was used by the men at places of popular resort who weigh for nothing people whose response to the call of gravity they cannot guess within a few pounds, we are in doubt whether to be more surprised at the sophistication of one of our correspondents who has felt a call to investigate the achievements of these talented persons, or more shocked at his intimation that not quite everything at Coney Island is what it seems.

An evident victim of the prevailing mania for exposure, the sophisticated one prepared trouble for the selected weight-guesser by having himself and two friends weighed on unimpeachable scales before they risked themselves and their nickels in the recording chair on the beach. He thinks that the result shows—well, he is charitable and calls it mystery, but it is clear that in his private opinion the right name would be fraud. For, though the guesser did come within the agreed three-pound limit of error, as that error was measured by his own machine, what it declared the correct weight of the investigators was in all three instances further than that from the decision of the disinterested scales.

The natural conclusion, or what would be the natural conclusion of anybody not afraid of misjudging his fellow-man—and of libel suits—would be that the real guessing was done before the machine was secretly adjusted to mark within three pounds of the selected weight, and that the other, and announced, guess was, as it were, pro forma and illusory. Our correspondent's theory, it must be confessed, has a sinister and repulsive plausibility, but his evidence does not put its accuracy beyond question—not, at least, beyond the question of those who, like ourselves, want to retain all the faith we can in Coney Island and the philanthropists who gather there for our amusement and edification. For one thing, there is nothing impossible in the supposed performance as an exercise of pure judgment, and, for another, though the weights announced by the chair may be inaccurate, true balances hardly exist outside of the chemical laboratories, and the difficulty of coming within three pounds of scales consistently wrong is no less than that of doing the same stunt with those better regulated.

So, though our correspondent has disturbed, he has not destroyed, our confidence in the weight-guessers, and we do not envy him the haunting fear that he may have done a cruel injustice to a good man. We, now, couldn't sleep o' nights if we had an anxiety like that.

Murdering with Impunity.

Unsolved murder mysteries are piling up in this city with a rapidity which it is not much of an exaggeration to call appalling. It is too soon, of course, to say that the police have failed in the Sigel and Bersin cases, and they have hardly had a chance to get really at work on the latest atrocity, but there is no present indication that they have made or are making any progress toward the apprehension of these and half a dozen other murderers.

It becomes constantly clearer and clearer that, as Gen. BINGHAM so often and so vainly contended, the detective force as now organized is almost helpless against the types of criminals with which it has to contend. The types are not new, except in the sense that they are recent importations from lands where they are characteristic and familiar, but our manhunters, having been trained to the chase of wholly different game, pursue without result malefactors whose motives and methods are those of another world.

We do not want a secret police, and hate the very idea of it, but a secret police is no more obnoxious to us than it is to other peoples, and, apparently, we must resort to its use if murders are not to go unpunished. The choice is between evils, but that is a common contingency and no excuse for inaction.

YOUNG MEN GROWING OLD.

Are They Taking Thought to Acquire a Competence?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The generous admission to your columns of applications for employment of men over 50 years has been availed of by many who express themselves intelligently, others who perhaps overestimate their capabilities, and a few who somewhat vainly allude to important positions held in the past. All are entitled to sympathy, and many, no doubt, would prove equal to the employment which may be offered. Their present state may perhaps invite the reflection and introspection of younger men now in good and well-remunerated service, whose present scale of expenditure indicates heedlessness of the possibility of future needs. Youth is the time to acquire the excellent habit of economy, modesty in survey of self-capacity, and a doggedness in retention, when able, of a position, seeking always advancement by diligence rather than by spurts or the pursuing of new avenues, whose termination is only disclosed after being traversed.

I have been one under salary from the age of 13 until 56, and from the early age of my entrance into business life it may be inferred that I was poorly equipped in education. For three or four years my slight earnings were all consumed in actual necessities of maintenance. I was the youngest of eight children, with a widowed and excellent mother.

At the age of 24 I had saved $1,000. That sum, after thirty-two years, remains intact, whose volume calculated momentarily at simple interest of 5 per cent. is now $2,600, without the vast consideration of accretion in compounding. At age of 30 I had $2,700 and added a wife to my capital as a most valuable asset.

Always living simply, in comfort, never penuriously, always saving on a modest salary, my adult son is well situated, with a snug bank account; my girl is at home with mother, and we are beyond want if I become incapacitated, and then next is my life insurance in event of my death.

I can name perhaps half a score of acquaintances who had equal or better opportunities, either under salary or conducting their own enterprises, whom the cessation of income for a year or two would reduce to severe straits.

Twenty-six years ago two brothers each derived an inheritance of $7,000 from the estate of their father. One was earning $4,500 per year. In three years, through mere "splashing," his share had been consumed. The other, whose salary never exceeded $1,800, had so cared for his share that its accounting, separated from other possessions at his death, a short time ago, exhibited principal and interest to be nearly $21,000.

The value of saving is thus confined herein to two practical instances, which is hoped to appeal to those young in years, of moderate earnings, but still enough to provide many mere superfluities, easily dispensed with, and the monetary value applied to conservative investment. COMMON PRUDENCE.

New York, July 5, 1909.

Old Men as Hallboys.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the discussion in your columns in regard to the employment of old men I should like to suggest an occupation for them. Employ them in the place of the lazy West Indian and other colored young men in apartment houses as hall "boys" and elevator "boys." I believe there are many old white men who could hold such positions with dignity and give the occupants of elevator apartments better service with less feeing than the present objectionable workers in that line.

Many of the colored men occupying such positions can hardly speak English and have great difficulty in calling 'phone numbers, such as Gramercy, Chelsea, and others and neglect their duties to an alarming degree. Let some of our so-called "old" men try such work and I am sure there would be a great improvement in the service. The tendency is to employ young men, no matter how inefficient, when in many cases an old man could do far better work.

The Case of the Man Over 50.

From The Philadelphia Record.

Our philanthropic contemporary, THE NEW YORK TIMES, is developing a large and wholly unexpected demand from employers for men over 50 years of age. This age is commonly spoken of as a "dead line," and much has been said of the cruelty of refusing employment to men who have passed it. THE TIMES noticed some of the complaints, and it also noticed some pathetic advertisements of men past middle age who were seeking a livelihood, the number dislodged from their previous situations by the depression following October, 1907, being, of course, very large. THE TIMES interviewed employers, and brought to their attention the cases of these elderly men out of employment, and it has developed a substantial demand for men of mature, and something more than mature, years. It seems that the prejudice against men over 50 has been greatly exaggerated. It may be suspected that some men have been told that they were too old, when the real reason for their non-employment was something else. Of course, there are advantages to the employer of husky young fellows who are not likely to feel overwork, and who may be ordered around without ceremony. But THE TIMES'S discovery of a demand for men over 50 is exceedingly gratifying, for society is trying to prolong life, which means increasing the number of old men.

What to Eat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent McWane wants to know what to eat in hot weather. The thing is easy. As nature provides berries, cherries, peaches, melons, vegetables for cooking and for salads in profusion at this time of the year, these foods should be used by us to the exclusion of the heavy Winter foods. With them may be taken nuts, cream, milk, and buttermilk. If meat, fish, or eggs are craved, once a day is plenty.

Cereals or other starchy foods should also be avoided when eating fruit, but one starchy food may be eaten at dinner when no fruit is taken. Let fruit be eaten for breakfast and lunch—fruit only and no other food unless it be nuts, followed by a glass of milk or buttermilk. For dinner a little meat or eggs, with a plain cooked vegetable and a salad dressed with olive oil and salt, no vinegar; a little toast or some dry cake for dessert; no objection to a little ice cream, but avoid pastry of all kinds. Coffee is not ideal, but if one must have it let it be weak. Of course, no overeating and no alcoholics. DIETITIAN.

OUR EARLY WARS.

They Were Not a Triumphal Procession of Victories.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest the letter of J. S. Robinson, which you sarcastically term a Tory's rejoinder. With other readers of THE TIMES, I much deplore the publication of that editorial, "The Ultra British Canadian." I cannot remember ever having read an article more misleading and erroneous in its statements and mischief-making in its ultimate results. The ignorance of a newspaper that says "A Canadian's blood boils" at the defeats of 1776 and 1812 beats all I ever heard or read. It does remind one, however, of an American friend who has a literary reputation of National importance, and he has lectured before audiences in every city in the United States, who, quoting the phrase "Don't give up the ship," was reminded that nevertheless the ship was given up. This he utterly denied, and was only convinced when the account of the capture of the Chesapeake by the British ship Shannon was read to him in detail. Another instance equally amusing and of surprising ignorance was that of a young American college graduate in whose company I was looking at a picture labeled "The Surrender of Decatur to the British," displayed in the window of a New York store. "Why," he exclaimed in surprise, "I never knew Decatur surrendered or was captured by any one. I am sure nothing was ever mentioned about it at college," and only the sense of seeing the picture before his eyes awakened him to his ignorance.

If you will read the closing chapter of Capt. Mahan's "Sea Power in the War of 1812," also the closing chapter of Lossing's "History of the War of 1812," he will read the humiliating confessions of these two great American writers of the confusion and defeat of the armed forces of the United States. In harmony with Capt. Mahan and Lossing, your correspondent, J. S. Robinson, justly urges you in his letter to accept that lesson of defeat, and furthermore, as "the child is father to the man," I would urge that your children at school be taught the truth, so that the grown-up American will know the meaning of Canadian National life and the two great victories that she achieved in the Wars of 1776 and 1812 to maintain her independence from the aggressions of the United States. ## THE REVOLUTION.

Loyalist Canadian Says the Continentals Were an Inferior Lot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The plain truth is that without the aid of the armies and fleets and powerful aid of France, and the distracting fight for her very existence which Britain was making in Europe, there would have been no independence of the United States.

Never once did Washington win a battle, and never once, all things being equal, face to face, foot to foot, did the British fail to beat the Revolutionary Army. Washington prepared elaborately for the battle of Brandywine, yet was beaten in a fair stand-up fight. Washington took months of time to prepare plans to fight a battle, and all the military men of Europe at that time anxiously watched his preparations. Yet when the time came for Sir Henry Clinton and the British Army to move out of Philadelphia, they utterly defeated at Monmouth in a fair stand-up fight the Americans who had chosen their own ground and plans months before. And so the roll-call of history shows that British victories were in the large majority, and that no bitter defeats can ever make "blood boil," when the honor and glory of its arms and flag were always valiantly upheld in battle.

Yes, the descendants of those dear Tories, as you stigmatize them, are still loyalists, and their eyes were just as keen for the future as the rebels, for they have a great country reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, which is developing with mighty strides, and to which hundreds of thousands of American citizens are flocking to make new homes. This great young country awakening to its future strength is still proud to be a unit of the British Empire and loyal to the old flag. The loyalists love their Canada, and the memories of the cruel wrongs inflicted upon them in the past, which you have in such a cavalier style seen proper to assume when you reminded them of old injuries in your editorials, will forever nerve them to keep inviolate their glorious Canada, its laws and institutions, from the assault of the twice-told aggressor, and to press forward to the manifold destiny which also awaits them in a greater degree than the American rebel. HERBERT PRENTICE.

CANADA'S RESERVE.

Willing to Trade, but Politically Suspicious of This Nation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your remarks "the ultra British Canadians" impresses the writer that you are the individual whose blood still boils at the defeats of 1776 and 1812—to go a little further, you also appear to have the boil.

The victorious existence of Canada to-day is sufficient refutation of your ridiculous remarks about "blood boiling" and defeats of 1776 and 1812. Had Canada not been victorious in 1776 and 1812 by driving back in the most humiliating defeats the armed forces of the United States, she would to-day have been a part of the United States. It is pitiable to find an American newspaper comparing a civil war between the North and South with a foreign war of aggression upon Canada by the United States. The civil war concluded the settlement of internal differences in the United States, while the aggressive wars made by the United States against Canada were external differences which divided the national life of foreign countries and which political differences are vital to their separate national existence. The glory of Canada is written in her noble and victorious deeds to hold and preserve her national life against the political aggressions of the United States.

Canada has "no grudges or boiling blood," neither does she gloat over the humiliating defeats she inflicted on the United States in 1776 and 1812, but she wisely remembers the aggression and duplicity of the country which has twice tried in the past to strangle and destroy her national existence and her connection with the great British Empire of which she is an integral part. Canada extends her right hand of fellowship in commerce, and the generosity of social intercourse and gatherings at the proper occasion and time, but politically she draws the line and desires to remember her own history and its celebrations unmolested. ### One Perfect Diet.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is, in my opinion and experience, but one perfect diet during the hot season, and that is a diet of fruits, nuts, salads, uncooked cereals, unpasteurized milk, if milk be relished. Advice as to quantities and mixture to suit individual cases can be obtained for the asking from any of our food experts. H. C. M.

SUMMER.

The pesky fly is on his job
And so is the moskeeter,
The bumbler's on the thistle's knob
A swingin' à la teter.

The caterpillar humps his back
With squirminess undaunted,
And now and then the beetle's track
Is where it isn't wanted.

The wasp is gettin' down to biz—
So likewise is the hornet—
They hang around the boarder's phiz
Each anxious to adorn it.

The ant is hustlin' here and there
And in some other places;
The spider dangles in the air
Upon his shoulder braces.

The moolly cow waits on the hill
To chase each female comer,
And once a week the landlord's bill
Announces—it is Summer!

SOUTH'S GROWTH GREATEST.

G. G. Dawe Explains in Atlanta That Section is Preponderant in Resources.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 7.—Nearly 100 Southern cities were represented here to-day at the first annual convention of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' Association, and G. Grosvenor Dawe, managing Director of the Southern Commercial Congress, addressed them on the commercial future of the Southern States, which he declared surpassed in promise that of any other section of the country.

"The coast line of the Southern States," said Mr. Dawe, "is 3,007 miles, while the coast line of the North Atlantic States is 888 miles; of the Pacific Coast, 1,557 miles. The natural advantages of coast line are already asserting their influence, for a Southern port still holds the second position for exports among all the ports of the United States—New Orleans in 1900, and now Galveston. The exports along the Gulf now exceed the exports of Philadelphia and Boston by 81 per cent., and they equal more than 50 per cent. of the total which belongs to New York. The tables of exports for 1900 and 1908 show that 27 per cent. growth in exports has taken place in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston regarded together. During this same time the Gulf exports increased 31 per cent. In the matter of imports, while the three great ports above mentioned have increased 27 per cent., the Southern ports have increased 97 per cent.

"This swing of commerce has taken place prior to the completion of the Panama Canal, which will help to pull southward every interoceanic movement, so that the Southern ports will be on the very front doorstep of the world's future commercial movements.

"The National Conservation Commission has reported that there are in the United States navigable streams amounting to 26,410 miles. Over 18,215 miles of these are in the South, without including a single mile of the Ohio, though it benefits Southern States through 900 miles, or any portion of the Missouri River. If the Mississippi be regarded as a feeder for the Gulf commerce, the mileage would be 23,691. This leaves only 2,719 miles of navigable streams to affect the commercial prospects of the remaining two-thirds of the United States."

The Appalachian Range, Mr. Dawe said, was producing, at present unharnessed, every moment of every day 5,000,000 horse power, and added that the iron ore of the Southern Appalachian region was expected to endure a hundred years after the Lake Superior region was stripped and exhausted. Though Birmingham sets the price for pig iron, he added, yet the growth of Birmingham, the Birmingham district, Chattanooga and other cities in Tennessee and in Alabama dependent upon iron ore, had come through the creation of merely 10 per cent. of the pig iron of the United States. The development when instead of 10 per cent. this region was producing 90 per cent. of the pig iron of the United States, and largely giving that iron its final form would be on a vast scale.

THE GOAD OF POVERTY.

It Is Needed to Drive Genius to Its Consummations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter signed "A Writer," printed in your issue of this date, is interesting in that it exemplifies Shelley's lines: "We look before and after and pine for what is not." The life of the person earning only a living need not be of the deadening, prosaic sort, even though the work itself may be grinding and uncongenial. One must create one's own resources, among which can be diversions both mental and manual. These will stimulate even a halting endeavor and also even a faltering ambition, both crutches of most approved pattern to carry the gifted man up the Olympian palisades. Our friend has been cooking corned beef and cabbage for many decades; now he would prepare dishes fit for the gods. He should have had himself trained in fine cookery twenty-five years ago, but he may yet produce a dish that will astound the world. Such accidents have happened.

The goad for genius and for the gifted is poverty. Think of what poverty has done for the world as a stirrer up of energy! In its guise of a boot it has awakened the dreamer, who got on the job and did things. It's poverty that makes the world go round, not money. Some friendly spirits who when young were fond of scribbling are now of considerable wealth. They are enjoying life to the limit. They dine sumptuously nearly every day—some days they're off the provender—but, anyway, with leisure, glad clothes galore, and yachts and automobiles life with them is one long, sweet paean; but they have produced nothing by which posterity shall rank them with Shakespeare, Wagner, or Raphael, and this fact does not seem to worry them.

AN INDIGNANT CHINESE.

Police Abuse Their Powers to Molest His Innocent Countrymen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The police and the detectives are doing even greater injustice to the Chinese people than the ruthless exploitations of "yellow" journalism. These men have of late wantonly stopped, rudely questioned, and arrested many Chinese students—to say nothing of other classes of Celestials—as "suspects" in the Sigel case, and have maltreated them in a hundred other ways all over the country—in Chicago, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Albany, New Haven, Boston. One student traveling from Michigan to New York was stopped and questioned three times on his way!

Now, Sir, why should the whole Chinese people in the United States be subjected to the whim and caprice of the police and the detectives, to their discourteous questioning, rude treatment, and forcible arrest and detention in the open streets anywhere and everywhere, merely on account of one Chinese fugitive from law, the nature of whose guilt, if any, is yet undetermined? Is it conceivable that in this civilized country justice cannot be obtained without causing undue interference with the freedom of movement of the innocent and the peaceful? Or can it be imagined that the type of Leon Ling's face is so common among the Celestials that there are so many Chinese looking exactly like him, or nearly like him, that it is impossible for the police and the detectives to avoid making wrong arrests?

IMPORTED "UNDESIRABLES"

Permitted to Please the "Foreign Gods of Transportation."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems so ridiculous to go into the Senate gallery and look down upon all the wrangling and word fighting over what the duties should be on harmless inanimates, while all kinds of undesirable Blackhanders, Cammorralsts, Huntchakists, and admittedly objectionable aliens are allowed to enter, to be nothing short of dumped upon and allowed to run at large among and prey upon us, unless we can corral a few of them. New York State seems to have this in the cases of 900 aliens convicted of felony, but now in her State prisons at a great cost to the law-abiding American, native or foreign-born, taxpayer. There must be many of the immoral, the insane, and paupers, too.

What a fitting sacrifice to the foreign gods of transportation, the untaxed foreign steamship companies, which we are proposing to and will subsidize. A little debate on imported criminals and putting up an impenetrable protective wall against their importation would be far more enlightening and about as conducive to throwing the limelight on extortion, blackmail, and plundering as the present discussion has been so abundantly profuse.

ORGAN GRINDING DAY FOR SUFFRAGETTES

They Give an Afternoon Concert in City Hall Park for the Good of the Cause.

TO CONEY ISLAND NEXT

There They Will Sell Toy Balloons to Raise Money for Their Crusade.

For the third day of their week of "self denial" and money getting the suffragettes repaired to City Hall Park yesterday and spent the afternoon grinding out doleful tunes on a hand organ with one hand and collecting pennies in a tambourine with the other.

It was another gala occasion for the suffragettes, and Mrs. Loebinger, Miss Murphy, and little Miss Tyng, leaders of the organization in this city, were in their glory as they took turns passing through the crowds trying to inveigle the elusive coin into their treasury. The organ, which had been hired from an Italian grinder on the east side, was waiting for them at 2 o'clock, when they arrived at the Brooklyn Bridge entrance of the Subway.

Under the arm of each of the suffragettes was a large banner bearing the motto "Votes for Women—American Suffragettes." It was their intention to decorate the hand organ with the banners and start right in under the nose of Acting Mayor McGowan to grind out music in return for pennies, but when Mrs. Loebinger saw a crowd begin to gather she lost her nerve for the first time since she started on street campaigns, and suggested that for fear of getting arrested right at the start they had better go to some quiet place and decorate the organ, and then work their way slowly back to the City Hall.

They were soon at the Chambers Street entrance of City Hall Park, and then the show began. Miss Murphy went up to the organ and hung across it the banner she had been carrying on her arm. Then she decorated Miss Tyng and Mrs. Loebinger with long yellow streamers attached to a button bearing the slogan "Votes for Women."

Mrs. Loebinger took her stand in front of the hand organ, tambourine in hand. Miss Murphy went behind the organ, grasped the crank, and started the music. They were startled to hear the old familiar "No Wedding Bells for Me," with a few notes missing, as the first number on the programme.

Miss Murphy looked shocked. She turned a fiery red when an unfeeling man in the crowd shouted: "That's right as long as you keep this foolishness up. You ought to be home tending to the children."

"Shut it off quick," said Mrs. Loebinger, and Miss Murphy stopped.

"Turn on the next tune," said Mrs. Loebinger, and the Italian did. Miss Murphy started the crank again. "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-night" was the result.

"That's better," said Mrs. Loebinger. "There will be a hot time when women get their rights and can vote. Now, men, come and help the cause."

Passing through the crowd she picked up a penny here and a nickel there, cajoling and pleading with the spectators to be more liberal. But her pleading was of little avail, although the crowd grew larger and larger. But she was not discouraged. Not nearly so much so as Miss Murphy, whose discouragement came from fatigue over the unaccustomed movement of her arm in turning the crank of the organ. They decided to let Miss Murphy have a few minutes' rest while they moved the organ to another point of vantage. This time they went to the Chambers Street entrance of the Emigrant Savings Bank, where there appeared to be a thrifty crowd moving in and out.

Here Mrs. Loebinger went up on the steps and accosted a prosperous looking old Irish woman as one she thought should contribute to the cause. As she pushed forward her tambourine Miss Murphy started the machine. The Italian had moved up another tune and "The Wearing of the Green" was ground out.

"Sure and I'll not give anything to people what desecrate that dear old tune," she said, as Mrs. Loebinger begged her for anything from a penny to a dollar. "Faith and I get my money over a washtub, and that's where you should get yours. And its votes you want, is it? Pat can do the voting for me and him, too."

But Mrs. Loebinger only turned to the next and to the next until her tambourine began to show signs of money. This was kept up, Miss Murphy having changed her tune to "Home, Sweet Home" while the crowds in the windows of the offices lining the square threw paper and other harmless missiles down on the shoulders of the Suffragettes.

The afternoon's work brought in just $5.49, but $5 of this they had to give to the Italian for the use of the hurdy gurdy.

They will go to Coney Island to-day in the hope of selling toy balloons for the good of the cause.

PIANIST DANGEROUSLY ILL.

Operation for Mastoiditis Leaves Gabrilowitsch in a Weakened Condition.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist and composer, lies seriously ill in the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital at 210 East Sixty-fourth Street, from the effects of the operation for mastoiditis he recently underwent there. It was reported yesterday that he was getting along as well as could be expected, but the operation is a serious one, recovery from which is not at all certain.

The pianist had just returned from a tour of the country. He is due to play next season in Europe, and intends to come back to this country season after next. He is 31 years old and unmarried. None of his relatives was with him when he was operated on.

Two years ago while playing in this country Gabrilowitsch was seriously ill with pneumonia, and it was thought that he would not live.

A VERDICT BY MATHEMATICS.

Damages Estimated by Each Juror, Then Added Up and Divided by 12.

Special to The New York Times.

BELVIDERE, N. J., July 7.—Charging that mathematics and not evidence had influenced the jury, Lawyer Theodore Simonson, representing the Lackawanna Railroad, has obtained a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted in the case of Potter against the railroad, wherein a verdict of $14,500 was recently given against the company. The railroad recently obtained a right of way through Potter's property.

Mr. Simonson says that the damages are at least $5,000 in excess of the amount that would be fair. He maintains that the jury, instead of estimating the damages on the merits of the trial of the case, and arguing out the points, simply pooled their individual opinions and struck an average.

He insists that an investigation will prove that the twelve jurors fixed individually on the amount that each thought was a fair damage, added them up, and divided by twelve, announcing the result as their award.

ROOSEVELT GAZELLE DEAD.

The Little Animal He Sent to the Bronx Zoo Was Ill on Arrival.

A Dorcas gazelle, one of two small animals sent to the Bronx Zoo recently by the Roosevelt hunting party from Africa, died yesterday as a result of malnutrition, according to Dr. W. Reed Blair, the Zoo veterinary.

With a small antelope, the gazelle reached the Zoo on Tuesday of last week. It was seen immediately that the little animal was ill. Dr. Blair treated it, giving it strychnine and predigested food, but it refused to eat, and gradually became weaker.

At last it was discovered that a bone in one of its legs had been broken, but even after this had been set the gazelle showed no signs of improvement.

In the opinion of Director Hornaday and Dr. Blair, the fact that the animal was shipped here direct from Africa without an opportunity to recuperate from the effects of the unaccustomed trip by a stop in Europe, as most animals shipped here from Africa do, was largely responsible for its death.

EX-JUSTICE STECKLER WEDS.

Mrs. Gussie Westheimer Becomes His Bride at the St. Regis.

In the presence of their immediate families and ten other guests former Supreme Court Justice Alfred Steckler and Mrs. Gussie Westheimer, whose engagement was announced in THE TIMES last Friday, were married yesterday in the parlor of the St. Regis. The room was decorated with lilies of the valley and roses. The Rev. Dr. Mendes officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a wedding breakfast and reception.

Mrs. Westheimer wore a gown of white satin and Irish lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms, and she carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Steckler and Mrs. Westheimer met about six years ago, but it was not till three months ago that they again saw each other. Their first meeting was at the Grand Central Hotel at Carlsbad, where Mr. Steckler and his first wife were stopping. At that time Mrs. Westheimer was with her husband. Mr. Steckler's wife died of injuries received in an automobile accident on Nov. 16, 1907. Four days earlier Mrs. Westheimer's husband had died after a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Steckler left immediately after the reception on an extended trip through Maine and to New England resorts. They will live at 120 West Seventy-seventh Street.

SHIP'S PASSENGERS SEE A WHALE HUNT

Watch 92-Foot Schooner's Crew Harpoon a 100-Foot Monster Off Cape Henry.

DRAGS TWO BOATS MILES

Munson Liner Curityba Followed the Exciting Chase All the Way and Was in at the Death.

The sea sarpint's sick, for he hasn't been around—
Merrily, my lads, yo ho!
The dinosaur's dead, deep buried under ground—
Merrily, my lads, yo ho!
But things are doing yet when the sea gives up this tale
Of a 90-foot boat and a 100-foot whale—
Sing merrily, my lads, yo ho!
—Chanties of the good ship Curityba.

The twenty-seven passengers on the Munson liner Curityba, during the voyage from Nuevitas, had the novel experience of watching boats from a whaler capture two large whales. Yesterday, when the vessel got here, they were all full of the story. They had a chance to be in at the death, for Capt. Leslie ran his steamship close in to permit them to witness the interesting sight.

The Curityba was steaming northward on Tuesday morning through a long, rolling sea and under lowering clouds, when about 110 miles southeast of Cape Henry she sighted the 92-foot whaling schooner Margarett of Salem. Those on the steamship noticed the schooner manoeuvreing, and soon three boats were lowered and headed for a school of whales gambolling about some distance away. According to the Curityba's skipper there were about forty in sight.

Capt. Leslie changed his course and ran to within hailing distance of the Margaret. The whaling boats were busy by this time, and as the Curityba drew near the whalers in one of the boats got a harpoon hard and fast in a 100-foot whale, eight feet longer than the schooner, and away they went. The course of the wounded whale lay past the second whaleboat, which drew hastily to one side, and, as the monster passed, the harpooner arose in the bow of the boat and shot his iron into the whale.

Then the flight began. The whale, with a boat trailing on each quarter, drove straight ahead. The steamship, but a few yards away, kept pace with them, the passengers shouting encouragement to the two boats' crews as they were whirled through the water. At first smoke arose from the fast-played-out lines, and then, when these reached their length, the boats forged ahead at a pace that almost buried their bows, while clouds of spray at times hid the whalers. Dead ahead kept the stricken whale, spouting blood.

The Curityba steamed at about an eleven-knot speed, but the whale drove ahead at a faster gait, and soon was well in the van. Occasionally it would sound, when the whalers would stand by to cut the harpoon lines. Then the monster's hulk would appear ahead again, and off it would go lashing the sea with its great flukes.

While this contest was going on the harpooner in the third boat succeeded in hitting another whale, and that boat went flying over the ocean in a scud of spray, the water churned to foam.

For three-quarters of an hour the Curityba followed the whales. Then the first whale became exhausted, and the boats drew alongside to make the capture. The second and smaller whale had already been subdued. All during the exciting chase the Curityba's passengers kept shouting encouragement and watching keenly every move in the strange battle.

The story was told yesterday by Purser Fay of the Curityba, who said it was the most interesting sight he had ever seen in all his days of running up and down the coast.

As the Curityba stood again on her course the Margarett was under sail, manoeuvering to pick up her boats and bring her prizes alongside.

KILLED A WHALE, HE FEARS.

Log of the Liner Sarnia Shows That She Did Hit Something.

Capt. Meisner of the Atlas Line steamship Sarnia, plying between this and West Indian ports, brought in a whale story yesterday.

"The Sarnia," said the skipper after consulting the log to be sure to get the story quite straight, "left this port on June 12 for the south. When two days out and plowing through a fair sea there came a great shock as though we had struck some partly submerged wreckage. An examination was made and it was found that we had sustained no damage, and we proceeded.

"Now"—and here the Captain became most impressive—"about two days ago, and in about the same location where we hit whatever we did hit going down, we sighted two miles to port a strange-looking object. We steered toward it and discovered it was an enormous whale. It had been almost cut in half and the carcass was literally covered with seagulls."

Capt. Meisner, as a man of truth, declined to say that his vessel had cut up the whale, but he intimated that he had his suspicions.

HONOR BLIND STREET CLEANER

School Children Celebrate Simons's Reorganization of the Juvenile League

With tears of joy streaming down his cheeks Reuben S. Simons, a blind foreman of the Street Cleaning Department, stood in Dexter Park, Woodhaven, Queens Borough, yesterday afternoon and told 3,000 school children who had gathered to do him honor that it was the happiest day of his life.

The children were members of the Juvenile Street Cleaning League, organized during the administration of the late Col. Waring in the Spring of 1896 to infuse the spirit of the City Beautiful in the schools. The league was forced to disband five years later, but Mr. Simons went from school to school making speeches to the children, and recently the league was reorganized. It was to celebrate that event that the outing was held yesterday. The children came from twenty-one public schools in Manhattan and Brooklyn. They went to Dexter Park in trolley cars chartered for the occasion.

As Mr. Simons addressed the children Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards stood beside his subordinate and described to him the features of the parade of children that had just passed in review. The Commissioner also made an address.

At the conclusion of the speaking the children were called upon by their organizer to give their cry for clean streets. The cry, which is patterned after a college yell, is as follows:

"Rah, rah, rah! Who are we? We are the boys of the C. S. C. Clean streets! Clean streets! Clean streets!"

The programme for the day included baseball, basket ball, athletic games, and dancing. Three silk banners were awarded the leagues making the best showing in the parade, and some of the boy "white wings" almost came to blows in their efforts to have their respective leagues win a banner.

The judges announced the winners of the banners to be the Excelsior Civic League of Public School 64, Manhattan, (all boys;) Bright Star Civic League, Public School 125, Brooklyn, (all girls,) and Jefferson Civic League, Public School 74, Brooklyn, (mixed.)

ADMITS WRONGING MR. BUTTS.

Dr. Vail Forgiven by the Magistrate After Making an Apology.

Dr. Leroy C. Vail of Fordham Hospital was in the Tombs Court yesterday afternoon to answer a charge of having violated the section of the Penal Code forbidding the giving of false information to the newspapers. City Magistrate Arthur C. Butts asserted that he had been injured by statements made to reporters by Dr. Vail.

The physician's statements were made after he had ignored several subpoenas to appear in the Morrisania Court as a witness in an assault case, and was finally taken to court on a warrant. He then told reporters that he had been forced to leave dying patients to be dragged into court and then locked up with "bums" until his testimony could be taken.

Magistrate Butts, who issued the warrant, asserted that the physician had stated to him that he left no dying patients to attend court. The Magistrate said yesterday that publication of the false statement had caused him to receive many letters, threatening him with ostracism, and one even threatening his life.

Magistrate Crane dismissed the physician with a rebuke upon the suggestion of Magistrate Butts, after Dr. Vail, through counsel, had stated that he was sorry he had made the statements.

His first position in New York was with Brown Brothers & Co., bankers and brokers, and for five years he acted as the firm's Exchange floor member. He was the floor manager of the tobacco and grain company which Belvoir Brothers own and operate, at the time of his death.

WICKERSHAM WANTS FEDERAL CONTROL

Tells Kentucky Bar It Is Logical Course with Corporations in Inter-State Business.

POWERS OF STATES SAFE

Plan to Stop Holding Companies by Refusing License to One with 50 Per Cent. of Stock Owned by Another.

PADUCAH, Ky., July 7.—Congress should control the organization of corporations doing an inter-State business, according to an address delivered before the Kentucky State Bar Association by George W. Wickersham, Attorney General of the United States, to-night. Mr. Wickersham treated the trust question as it appears to the present National Administration, the address being notable chiefly for the recommendation that Congress should enact a law providing for Nationally created corporations to carry on inter-State commerce. Mr. Wickersham sketched the ways by which States may regulate business of foreign corporations within their boundaries and advocated that the license of any foreign corporation be vacated if 50 per cent. of its stock was owned by any company, domestic or foreign, or if that amount became later so owned.

"Of course, many will object to the centralizing tendency of a National law authorizing the formation of corporations to carry on inter-State business," said Mr. Wickersham, "but such a law seems to me to be the inevitable result of economic conditions."

Mr. Wickersham said such a law would logically follow the tariff tax on corporations.

Dealing with the citizenship and standing of corporations Mr. Wickersham quoted decisions to show that they were not citizens in the meaning of the Federal constitutional requirements that citizens of each State should be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States.

"The unlimited extent of the power of the States recognized by the Supreme Court," said Mr. Wickersham, "is strikingly illustrated by the decision in the case of the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Prewitt, where the constitutionality of a statute of Kentucky was upheld.

"The result of this decision is to enable a State to compel a foreign corporation to refrain from resorting to the Federal Court in controversies brought by or against it or to cease to do business within that State."

Corporations, however, Mr. Wickersham said, were "persons" who could be deprived of life, liberty or property only by due process of law. He said that it might be safely asserted that the only limitations on the powers of the States to exclude foreign corporations entirely from doing business within their territory, or to prescribe such conditions as they might deem proper to the carrying on by them of such business, were that the foreign corporations were not deprived of property without due process of law or denied equal protection of the laws; and State regulation did not amount to interference with inter-State commerce or with other business of a Federal nature."

The Attorney General said that some State legislation for the purpose of preventing trusts, pools, and combinations in restraint of trade had been more or less effective, but most of it had proved ineffective as applied to foreign corporations.

"It has seemed to me," he said, "that an effective method of legislating on this subject would be to enact that no foreign corporation should be licensed to do business with a State if 50 per cent. of its capital stock or upward was owned or held by any other corporation, domestic or foreign, and that if at any time after obtaining such a license more than 50 per cent. of the capital stock of such corporation should be acquired by another corporation, the license should be ipso facto vacated.

"The device of the holding corporation is the only thing which has made possible the rapid growth of the great trusts and monopolies, and a prohibition such as that stated would go far toward their destruction."

JUMP INTO THE RIVER AFIRE.

Small Standard Oil Tank Explosion Hurls Blazing Oil Over Workmen.

Several men were burned, one severely, yesterday by a tank fire in the Standard Oil works, at the foot of North Twelfth Street, Williamsburg. The blaze, which is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion, imperiled the lives of a large number of the employes and caused some of them in their fright to jump into the East River and swim to the opposite side.

The fire was in nearly the same spot where Battalion Chief Michael Graham lost his life last January and other firemen were injured. The tank which was destroyed yesterday had a capacity of 500 barrels. The oil from it was used to fill five-gallon tin cans. On one side of the tank is the tin can department, and on the other side the wooden box department. When the tank exploded the flames cut off the escape of the 130 employes on the North Twelfth Street pier. Nearly all got aboard lighters and other craft, while about a score jumped into the slip and swam to the North Eleventh Street pier.

Half a dozen employes who were working around the tank when it exploded were set on fire, and they made a rush to the river and jumped in. Among them was James Deery of 61 North Tenth Street, who was a pillar of fire just before he struck the water. He would have drowned but for Daniel Bray, who saved him after a fire on his own person had been extinguished by the water. Deery was afterward removed to the Eastern District Hospital. The others who were burned declined medical aid.

The Brooklyn firemen confined the blaze to the one tank.

WRIGHTS NOT MOVED BY OFFICERS' PIQUE

But Both Brothers Are Busy with Aeroplane Repairs—May Fly Friday.

TIME TILL JULY 28 THEIRS

Wilbur Thinks He Can Correct Magneto, and Orville Says Accident Revealed Gliding Power.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Wilbur and Orville Wright resumed work on their aeroplane at Fort Myer to-day. Orville returned this morning from Dayton, whither he had gone to obtain the canvas necessary to repair the break in the lower plane, caused by the accident of last week, and Wilbur got in from New York. The brothers, with their mechanician, put in the better part of the day in making repairs, and it is now likely that flights will be resumed either Friday or Saturday afternoon.

"We cannot tell exactly," said Wilbur, at the door of the balloon shed. "Wait until we have gone a little further with our work and we'll be better able to talk."

Neither of the brothers would discuss the story published this morning to the effect that the officers of the Signal Corps were growing tired of the Wrights' indifference to advancing the interest of Congress in the science of aviation, something the Signal Corps is anxious to do in order to gain better appropriations for their branch of the military establishment. The officers likewise declined to discuss the printed statement that they were piqued.

The exhibition of temper on the part of the Signal Corps has caused much amusement in army and navy circles. The officers made a ludicrous blunder by inviting a large party of Senators and Representatives out to Fort Myer last week to see the aeroplane fly. The weather was not propitious and the engine was not working well; furthermore, the Wrights have declared repeatedly they are not circus performers, and their friends say if eighty Congresses had been gathered about the parade ground their presence would have made no difference. Under adverse conditions no flight was attempted, and in the face of protests and much grumbling from the Signal Corps officers the aeroplane was calmly wheeled back to its shed.

This indifference on the part of the Wrights aroused the ire of certain members of the corps. Their indignation was not cooled under the caustic gibes of certain Senators and Representatives who affected to treat the whole matter as a huge joke. As the officers saw prospects of appropriations dwindling their anger rose. It burst into public view in the article put out through the medium of a news association and published this morning.

The Wrights have until July 28 to complete their contract and qualify under the Government's specifications of what the aeroplane must accomplish, and, until that date, they are their own masters. This was explained to-day by a friend of the Wrights, who appeared to be indignant at the criticism leveled at them, and presumably coming from the Signal Corps officers.

Wilbur Wright is paying especial attention to the engine of the machine, which stopped in midair last week and resulted in the accident that suspended the flights. The trouble lies entirely with the magneto, which is high tension and has developed numerous kinks. The same engine last year carried Orville in his record-making flights, but it was equipped with a low-tension magneto which the brothers have sought in vain to duplicate. The fact that automobile manufacturers are now using the high-tension magneto has driven the low-tension from the market.

As a result of his visit to the magneto makers, Wilbur Wright thinks the high voltage developed jumped the insulation of the magneto wires. The insulation therefore is being increased, and it is believed that no more trouble will be experienced with the motor.

More power will be used in coming flights than has been expended in driving the aeroplane during the recent tests. The Wrights have been endeavoring to discover the least possible amount of power necessary to propel the machine successfully. This is important because of the approach of their endurance test, when Orville will have to remain in the air an hour and carry a passenger. The fuel on such a test must be economized, for they will be undertaking an experiment never before attempted. So far as the speed test is concerned, the aviator can turn on full power in traversing the distance of ten miles, the requirement laid down by the Signal Corps.

The brothers were in an optimistic mood to-day. They appeared to be particularly enthusiastic about the glide which Orville made on last Friday, when his motor stopped in the air. By Orville's estimate the flying machine was sixty-five feet in the air when the motor stopped, and that the total distance covered in the glide was about 450 feet, or a drop of one foot for about each seven feet traveled forward.

Before a motor was installed the machine in gliding dropped one foot for every eight feet that it advanced, and the Wrights had estimated that with the added weight of the motor and propellers the drop would be much faster. Orville said that in view of the added resisting surface of the six-foot propellers the glide was remarkably good.

Orville also said that he was confident that he would make forty miles an hour over the ten-mile cross-country course. "If I could make the test over level ground and could fly about sixty feet above the ground," he said. "I think I could make forty-two or forty-three miles an hour. Flying over trees and rough ground makes it impossible to make a true flight."

BALDWIN MAKES NIGHTFLIGHT

NORWICH, Conn., July 7.—Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, in the airship California Arrow, made a successful flight of twenty-five minutes to-night. He rose to an altitude of 1,000 feet, and covered a distance of five miles.

He passed over the centre of the city. The start was made at the fair grounds, two miles away.

CARPENTER SUING HARRIMAN.

Demands $10,000 Damages for Injury to a Little Finger.

Edward H. Harriman, the financier, who is at present in Europe, is being sued in the Supreme Court by Willis Gillow, a carpenter, who seeks to recover $10,000 damages for the loss of the top of a finger. Gillow, in his complaint, says that on April 12 last, while at work on the new house which Mr. Harriman is building for himself at Turners, Orange County, his little finger on the left hand came in contact with the revolving knives of a joiner. He was attended by Dr. David H. Sprague, and afterward removed to the Newburg Hospital.

Gillow holds Mr. Harriman responsible for the accident, inasmuch as his Superintendent, Charles T. Ford, directed him to work on the machine, of which he knew nothing. In his answer Mr. Harriman submits an affidavit by Ford, who says that Gillow has only himself to blame for his injury, as he worked at the joiner on his own initiative and in direct opposition to instructions.

The case came before Justice Blanchard yesterday on a motion by Mr. Harriman's attorney for a change of venue of the trial to Orange County, as all the witnesses live there. As Mr. Harriman is abroad his attorney signed the request, which was opposed by counsel for Gillow on the ground that Mr. Harriman had not personally signed the application. Justice Blanchard denied the motion on this ground, but gave Mr. Harriman leave to renew it.

PROMOTER FOXWELL MISSING.

Mining Man, Charged with Larceny, Forfeits $4,000 Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 7.—Charles L. Foxwell, alias Copeland, charged with the larceny by false pretenses of $2,000 from the Growler Copper Company, 14 Kilby Street, was missing when his name was called in the Municipal Court to-day. Foxwell's bail was $4,000 cash.

The alleged larceny occurred Jan. 24, 1909. Later Foxwell was arrested by Inspector Harris of the Boston police in Washington and brought to Boston. He was committed to jail from May 26 until June 23, when he obtained the $4,000 bail, and his case was continued until to-day.

According to the police, Foxwell, at the time of his arrest, asserting that he was acting as agent for the Société Générale of Paris, had obtained the money to send to that organization. Later he is said to have told the police that he was acting for another society.

Deputy Superintendent Watts has sent circulars to London, Paris, and Stockholm describing Foxwell.

SAYS WIFE SET THUGS ON HIM.

Youthful Husband's Reason for Failing to Pay Alimony.

Leo Grunewald, 19 years old, was adjudged in contempt of court by Supreme Court Justice Blanchard yesterday because of his failure to pay his wife, Evelyn, also a minor, arrears in alimony amounting to $215, which have accrued since he began a suit against her for a divorce.

Grunewald said he was unable to pay the alimony because soon after he brought the suit he was attacked by a number of men in the vicinity of his home and beaten so badly that he was taken to Mount Sinai Hospital for treatment. He asserted that the men who beat him were engaged by his wife for that purpose, and that since he left the hospital he has had epileptic fits so that he is unable to work.

The court held that this was no proper defense to the wife's application.

MRS. WHARTON DIVORCED.

Gets Decree from State Charities Secretary and Sails for Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Mrs. Bromley Wharton obtained a decree of absolute divorce to-day and soon sailed for Europe with Mrs. W. Mercer Baird. Mr. Wharton was Secretary to Gov. Pennypacker, and is now Secretary of the State Board of Charities.

The grounds for the divorce were not disclosed, nor was the decree given out with the other divorces granted in court No. 5. Despite the utmost secrecy concerning the suit, it became known several months ago that Mrs. Wharton and her husband separated by mutual consent. Mrs. Wharton went to live at her place, near Bristol, with her daughter, Miss Alice T. Wharton. Mrs. Wharton was Mary T. Taylor. She has been interested in charitable work and is wealthy.

RED SOX POUND TWO MEN OFF THE SLAB

BOSTONIANS WIN, 9 TO 6

Hilltoppers Drive Schlitzer Out of the Box Early, but Chech Holds Them Safe for a Near-Rally.

"Isn't he just splendid," said the Girl with the Pink Peachbasket, as she watched Happy Jack Chesbro in the seventh inning of yesterday's game between the Yankees and Red Sox on the Hilltop, which Boston won by a score of 9 to 6. "I think Mr. Chesbro is the most gentlemanly pitcher they have here. He's ever so much more obliging than Mr. Chech. He gives those players in the red stockings plenty of chances to hit the ball, but Mr. Chech is so mean he won't let the poor New Yorkers do anything. It must be dreadful to have a disposition like that Boston pitcher. I think it's simply horrid of him not to throw the ball where our players can reach it. Just look at that!" and she frowned becomingly as the slabman of the Red Sox fanned Elberfeld—so becomingly that the veteran fan who escorted her contented himself with a sigh of resignation and even the regulars forgot their grouch.

"Oh, dear, he's dropped it!" the Pink Peachbasket Girl continued, when Gessler muffed Demmitt's hoist in the same chapter. "What's that? It's luck for our side, you say? Oh, good!" Her suedes smote each other delightedly as Ray raced to the No. 2 buoy on the error. The veteran fan had explained patiently that New York was five runs behind as a result of bingles and bungles in the first, second, and seventh innings. She was learning fast, so she pouted when Austin died at first, clapped her hands again because Wagner's bobble perched Chase and scored Demmitt, redoubled her applause when Prince Hal stole second, went as near to scowling as a pretty young woman could when Elberfeld breezed, screamed with glee after Engle's single sent Chase home, shrieked her joy as Cree's one-timer pushed Claudius to third, and wellnigh wept when Birdie was trapped in a wabbly try for the far turn.

For that mixture of hits and errors that netted two counts was Gotham's by-by approach to a rally. It carried the home players' total to six, but left them still three in the rear of the Red Sox. Three of Boston's tallies were gifts from Manning, the others were due to Chesbro's casiness, as well as to misplays by Elberfeld and Cree, although Norman alone was charged with his slip. Manning's wildness—he forced in a trio of jots by battery errors—put the whole team off edge, and, though the Hilltoppers brisked up a bit when Happy Jack showed promise of twirling in his old-time form, they went to the bad again because the substitute boxman blew in the "lucky" seventh. Nevertheless the Girl with the Pink Peachbasket couldn't be convinced there was anything wrong with the work of "that generous Mr. Chesbro," and she amused several score of the 2,000 spectators by praising Jack's hospitality on the way out of the grounds.

The only bend-bender who could hold the Red Sox was Quinn, and he pitched one round. Schlitzer started on the slab for Boston, lasting just two innings. That was better than Manning's achievement, for Stallings's star was benched by his manager when he had little more than begun the second chapter of the saddest story ever told. The locals got to Schlitzer in the second frame for five hits that included a two-bagger, and which, combined with a saunter, spelled four chalks. Then Chech took them in hand, and they were powerless save for that near-rally in the stand-up stanza.

Boston's two runs in the first were carded on Lord's hit with one down, Niles's triple, and Gessler's rap. An unusual play retired the side. Gessler stole second, and, after Wagner skied to Engle, Stahl beat out a grounder to short. Elberfeld's hurl was pivoted by Chase to Sweeney as Gessler, making third on the hitlet, headed for home. The backstop flipped to Austin, cutting off Gessler's return to third, and when the runner made a second desperate dash for the dish Chase ran to the plate and received Austin's fling in the nick of time to nip his man.

Three counts were added to the showing of the Red Sox in the next round on Hooper's trudge, Donahue's and Schlitzer's bunts, a slant into McConnell's slats, Lord's force of Donahue at the plate, and passes to Niles and Gessler. Another peculiar play, still more uncommon than the first round's, sent the Red Sox to the field. Lord made a bluff at a steal from third. Chesbro, not in the box, was prompt with a throw to head him off. Before Sweeney could catch the ball Wagner struck at it, nicking a foul tip. Lord slid over the pan, and the visitors insisted it was a run. But Umpire Sheridan called both batter and runner out on account of Wagner's interference with Sweeney. The batsman had no right to reach for the hide, as it was not a pitched ball.

Stallings's youths banked up a quartet of counts in the same inning on Elberfeld's jaunt, Engle's out at first, hits by Cree and Laporte, Sweeney's retirement from the box to the bag, Chesbro's single, Demmitt's double, and Austin's safety. Chase, with one run needed to tie, couldn't reach first. In the seventh the Red Sox's recorded four times more on one-sackers by McConnell and Lord, Niles's force, Elberfeld's sophomoric sling at Sweeney's trilbies in an ill-advised attempt to nip Lord at the rubber on Gessler's grasser, singles by Wagner and Stahl, Cree's boggle that stretched Stahl's safety, Hooper's force, Donahue's jog, and Chech's slam.

A feature of the game was Elberfeld's truly beautiful and wholly good left-hand freeze to Niles's scorching liner in the fifth. Seemingly the sphere was sure to sail far above the Kid's cupola, but he hurled himself heavenward, shot up his mitt, and pinched the punch in full flight—probably the finest, certainly the most spectacular, catch of the year.

Several score fans made themselves ridiculous by hooting Jack Sheridan's decision on Gessler's foul grounder to first in the final. The umpire called the batter back, and was assailed by unthinking spectators. The ball was outside by at least six inches. The score:

Mullin Blows Up, Naps Win.

CLEVELAND, July 7.—Mullin blew up in the ninth inning and Cleveland made six hits and three runs, winning the game. Joss outpitched Mullin throughout, but errors allowed Detroit to take the lead. Ball's fielding featured the game. Bemis, a pinch hitter, won the game for Cleveland in the ninth. Score:

GIANTS GET A GIFT GAME FROM PHILLIES

COVALESKI PAVES THE WAY

Former Terror to Giants Starts Issuing Passes and Corridon Keeps It Up—Fielders Save Raymond.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—The call of the wild was answered by three boxmen in to-day's game between the Giants and Phillies, the visitors winning by a score of 3 to 1 partly because their fielders participated in four fast double plays, thus saving Raymond, whereas Covaleski and Corridon had no such assistance. All New York's runs were slapped on the slate in the sixth, and each was labeled "Free Sample." The little landslide started with four successive passes from Covaleski and ended with two more in sequence issued by Corridon.

Both local twirlers appeared to suffer from stage fright. Covaleski seemed especially nervous when facing the very men whom last year he beat out of the championship. McGraw's hitters plainly had no further fear of their one-time almost invincible opponent. They grinned at him in a procession, and in processional form they went to first by the easy route. Nor had they any larger respect for Corridon. In fact, they were confident enough, one would say, to face all Philadelphia's pitchers one after another as fast as the latter men could be sent to the slab.

The forced runs were started when a man wos down in the sixth. Tenney scowled at Covaleski and the scowl had its effect, for Fred got a ticket-o'-leave. Next Doyle turned his gentle visage Covaleskiward. The pitcher whose name sounds as if he ought to be President of the Russian Road of Anthracite, also lost his nerve to Larry, and a walk resulted. McCormick adopted the same tactics, whereupon Handsome Harry also got a gift. Murray's trot pushed Tenney under the wire.

That was enough for the home manager. He prescribed the rest cure for Covaleski and put Corridon in. But O'Hara and Devlin had as much patience as the big fellows, and the trudges they drew meant two more jots for their side.

The Quakers got after the Entomologist heavily with the hickory, but they lacked teaminess to make their hits good for runs. The score:

BROOKLYN MAY GET KLING.

Report That Burch and Bergen Will Be Exchanged for Chicago Catcher.

Catcher John Kling, who still belongs to the Chicago National League Club, but refuses to play with the world's champions, has been mentioned as a probable successor to Harry Lumley, manager of the Brooklyn team. According to the report Kling will come to Brooklyn in exchange for Centrefielder Burch and Catcher Bergen, the Chicago club throwing in Zimmerman, a utility man, for good measure.

When President Ebbets was asked yesterday whether he had opened negotiations for such a deal he declined to discuss the matter, contending that an affair of that magnitude should be done privately and not promulgated until an agreement had been effected. Mr. Ebbets did say, however, that he was in the market to secure the best players obtainable to strengthen the Brooklyn team, and that money would not stand in the way of getting them.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—Johnny Kling, the former Chicago National League baseball catcher, said to-day, when shown a dispatch from New York reporting that he was to become manager of the Brooklyn club:

"This is all news to me. I know nothing about such a deal. I will not play baseball this year. This is final."

Brooklyn Wins Both Games.

Brooklyn took two games from Boston yesterday at Washington Park in the presence of about 4,000 fans. Doctor Scanlan was liberal with his passes, and had two wild pitches in the first game until relieved by Rucker in the seventh inning, yet the Bostons were weak with the stick and were defeated by a score of 7 to 4. Home runs by Lennox off McCarthy and Hummel off Tuckey were the features of the game.

In the second trial the Brooklyns sized up Lindaman's delivery in the third and seventh innings and won by 5 to 1. Rucker pitched the entire nine innings, and with the exception of the eighth, when three successive safeties, including a double, were made off him, he had the Boston batsmen in trouble. The score:

BELGIAN CREW FAVORITE.

Picked to Win Final Race To-day with Cambridge at Henley.

HENLEY, July 7.—The semi-finals for the Grand Challenge Cup were rowed here this afternoon and the Club Nautique de Gard of Belgium and the Jesus College crew of Cambridge were left to contest in the final to-morrow. The Belgian rowers won to-day against Magdalen College, Oxford, in the fast time of 7 minutes 12 seconds, 7 seconds faster than the time of the heat in which Jesus College beat Leander. The Belgians are hot favorites for the final.

The Diamond Sculls, the second biggest event of the regatta, also is expected to go to the Continent. Rudolph Lucas of the Mayence Rowing Club will contest in the final with A. A. Stuart of the Kingston Rowing Club.

Lunghi to Redeem Himself.

More than 200 entries have already been received for the big carnival of the American Athletic Club at Celtic Park, Long Island City, on Sunday, and many more are expected before the list closes to-night. Emilio Lunghi, the Italian champion, who will meet Howard Gissing and Harry Hillman in a special 600-yard race, is anxious to redeem himself for his defeat at Brighton Beach. He thinks the shorter distance is better suited to him at present. Martin J. Sheridan, the all-around champion; John J. Flanagan, Matt McGrath, S. P. Gillies, P. McDonald, J. Duncan, and Con Walsh will be among the weight throwers.

Pitcher Corbett Loses Cunning.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Joe Corbett, who attained fame in the baseball world as a pitcher for the noted Baltimore Orioles, has been released at his own request by Manager Long of the San Francisco team of the Pacific Coast League. Corbett complained that he was unable to regain the control that once distinguished his work in the box.

Kaufman May Fight Johnson.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Al Kaufman may be substituted for Stanley Ketchel as an opponent for Jack Johnson in the bout proposed by Jim Coffreth for the coming Fall. Coffreth is not pleased with Ketchel's showing against Papke, as he thinks the Michigan man should have shown his supremacy more strongly.

MASKETTE EASILY WINS THE MERMAID

TRACK MARK FOR GREENVALE

Tim Pippin Gets Up on the Post to Beat Sir John Johnson a Neck in the Sprint at Sheepshead Bay.

The nearest thing to a race that has been required of J. R. Keene's great filly Maskette this season was called for yesterday, when the present queen of the turf went out for one more of the filly stakes that through the entire racing schedule seem to be at her mercy. This was the Mermaid, of $5,090 gross, a mile and a furlong, the big event of the programme at the Sheepshead Bay course yesterday. Maskette, penalized for her earlier triumphs, took up five pounds extra, and conceded fifteen pounds each to her opponents, which had an allowance of ten pounds each, but even at the difference in weights Lady Bedford, which furnished the only appearance of contention, was able to do nothing more than warm up the Keene entry. The Keene filly never was let down in the race, but reeled off the first quarter in 0:24, the half in 0:47 2-5, six furlongs in 1:12, and the mile in 1:38, finishing out the mile and a furlong, hard held and two lengths before Lady Bedford, in 1:52, the fastest race that ever has been run for the Mermaid since it was instituted, in 1880.

For the Spindrift Stakes, also at a mile and a furlong, the Oneck Stable's smart colt Fashion Plate, which is at just about the top of his form now, romped in front well into the last half furlong, and then was let down for only the final strides, when Yankee Daughter, with 92 pounds up, came on with a rush and got close enough to make Jockey H. Smith ease his hold on Fashion Plate. The Oneck Stable's colt came away then without trouble and won, hips in front of Yankee Daughter, in 1:51 4-5.

For the lesser events the racing was closer, Tim Pippin winning the most stirring contest of the day in the first race, when, closing at the finish, he got up close on the post to catch and beat Sir John Johnson, which was tiring at the end under his 130 pounds.

For the five and a half furlongs on the turf course Harry Payne Whitney's Hamburg filly Greenvale, after some little misbehavior at the post, broke through her field like a shot as the barrier was lifted, and, leading all the way, won in a big gallop, making a new record for the distance on the turf course by finishing in 1:06 4-5, or two-fifths of a second better than the old mark. Written Exclusively for THE NEW YORK TIMES By EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

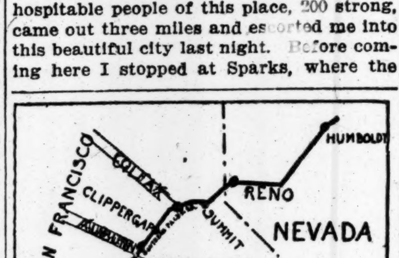
RENO, Nev., July 7.—Words fail me to express my appreciation in again being in a country where grass, and where the hospitable people of this place, 200 strong, came out three miles and escorted me into this beautiful city last night. Before coming here I stopped at Sparks, where the Salt Lake Division of the Southern Pacific ends. To have passed this place, which is full of railroad officials who have done so much to make my walk pleasant and not say a word of appreciation for this extreme kindness, would have been a crime.



Weston' Route Through California.

To-day is taken up for new plans in order to avoid the danger spots in the snow sheds, which are forty-two miles long. As a further precaution, the Southern Pacific Railroad officials ordered Mr. Brown, an engineer, to accompany me through to San Francisco. Mr. R. C. Fulton, at Reno, has seen to it that I had entrée to all the clubs, &c. I am feeling in excellent health, and the many letters and telegrams received had a very cheering effect on me. I leave this evening at 6 P. M. and expect to make a long walk to-night and to-morrow.

MATINEE RACES CLOSE.

Carmine Secures Trophy Offered by H. B. Clarke for Non-Winners.

A special matinee of the Road Drivers' Association of New York was held yesterday to decide the tie for the Special Cup and to determine the winner of the H. B. Clarke Cup.

Since the close of the regular matinee season there has been some doubt as to the winner of the point cup, and as a result there was considerable interest in the races. In the competition for the choice for the first and the second point cups for trotters, James Campbell's Golden Jr. captured the first heat, while Ismalion, owned and driven by T. G. Hines, proved an easy winner on the two subsequent heats.

The choice for the third and fourth cups for places was between Lillie Wilkes and Billy K. and Who Knows. James Kennedy withdrew Billy K., and Who Knows scored a hollow victory over Lillie Wilkes in two straight heats.

The event of the afternoon was the H. B. Clarke Cup, for horses defeated in the regular matinee going nearest the 1:25 mark for half-mile heats. The only horse to cover the distance in the stipulated time was John Lennon's bay gelding Carmine, which was credited with the exact time stipulated by the donor of the cup.

There was some difficulty in awarding the trophy for the points scored by the trotters and pacers on the Speedway, and it was not until the controversy had been extended for more than two hours that the premier position was decided in favor of Thomas G. Hines's Ismalion. F. J. Kilpatrick's Alone received the William Scott Cup, and H. L. Toplitt's Judge Boardman received the E. J. La Place Cup. The best time covered for half a mile during the entire matinee season was trotted yesterday by F. J. Kilpatrick's Willmar, which covered the distance in 1:01½.

Horses and Horsemen.

The last open date available for racing at the present meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club, at Sheepshead Bay, Monday of next week, was claimed yesterday for an extra day of racing by the club managers, and a programme of purse events announced, with a handicap, at a mile and five-sixteenths as the feature event. The meeting will close the next day, Tuesday.

Acumen, one of the well-tried two-year-olds from Mrs. L. A. Livingston's Rancocas Stud, entered in the breeder's name in the sixth race at Sheepshead Bay yesterday, was sold just before the race to J. F. Carroll, and ran in the name of the new owner, the transfer causing a rush to back the colt.

The weights for the Long Island Handicap, one mile and a furlong, for three-year-olds and upward, to be run Saturday at Sheepshead Bay, were announced yesterday, with King James at the head of the list with 130 pounds, Fitz Herbert coming next with 121, while Restigouche, at 120 pounds, is the third weighted, of the thirty-seven horses in the handicap, the three top weights all being in S. C. Hildreth's stable.

Empire City Handicap Weights.

The weights for the Empire City Handicap, to be run on July 17, the big event of the Empire City Jockey Club's Summer meeting on the Yonkers track, were made public yesterday, and the programme for the meeting was announced, this being the first track of the year to provide daily racing through the dates allotted by The Jockey Club. The handicap is as follows:

The Empire City Handicap of $5,000, One Mile and a Furlong.—King James, 129 pounds; Celt, 123; Restigouche, 119; Fitz Herbert, 118; Jack Atkin and Alfred Noble, 115 each; Hilarious, 114; Live Wire and Joe Madden, 110 each; Fayette, 107; Maltbie and King's Daughter, 106 each; Juggler and Montgomery, 104 each; Fashion Plate, 102; Arcite and Fountainblue, 100 each; Effendi, 99; Huck, 97; Arasee, 95; Arondack, 92; Petticoat and Lady Bedford, 90 each; Yama and La Belle Agnes, 86 each. Penalties accrue from 5 P. M. Wednesday, July 7.

Betting at Saratoga Races.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 7.—Richard T. Wilson, Jr., President of the Saratoga Association for the Improvement in the Breed of Horses, declared to-day that the court decisions regarding race track betting will be strictly respected by the association at the August meeting. President Wilson also stated that prospects for racing at Saratoga are decidedly promising and the prominent horse owners have entered their stables largely. The demand for quarters at Horse Haven have been larger than in several years previous.

Pal Moore Too Much for Moran.

In a ten-round fight at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night Pal Moore of Philadelphia outpointed Johnny Moran, a local featherweight and a favorite of the Lambs' Club. Moore forced the fighting from the first round, and had his opponent absolutely outclassed, despite the fact that Moran had the better of height and reach.

In one of the preliminary bouts Young Wildfang of Canada lived up to the reputation that his name implies and disposed of Jimmy Ross in the first round. This fight was so easy for the man from across the border that he went on again, the second time for a six-round turn with Smoke Jones. The dusky-hued contestant found the name of Wildfang no terror, and in the second round landed four knock-down punches. The third round was a repetition, except that Wildfang went to the floor five times, and the referee placed a ban on further hostilities.

NEW YORK Y. C. FLEET OFF IN LIGHT WIND

FLAGSHIP ALOHA IN FLEET

Big Sailing Craft Furnish Grand Spectacle at Glen Cove—Vanderbilt's Aurora Leads in Her Class.

A finer lot of big boats from the New York Yacht Club fleet, in full cruising trim and manned by able skippers for the 111-mile race down the Sound to Newport, than manoeuvred about the starting line just beyond Glen Cove yesterday afternoon has not been seen in this part of Long Island Sound for several years. Sixteen boats got under way in their respective classes.

The race which started yesterday was but the curtain-raiser to a week's sport around Newport and Block Island. The opening scene could only have been improved by a freshening breeze and the presence of two or three other expectant boats, such as the Queen, which Mr. Maxwell was unable to have ready in time, but which will sail in the annual regatta around Block Island on Saturday, and the famous cup defender Vigilant. But with the sixteen that started there was no complaint. Commodore Arthur Curtiss James was in the auxiliary race with his brig Aloha, a magnificent picture in herself with her enormous spread of canvas. Then there was Wilson Marshall's ocean winner Atlantic, and the schooners Corona, Sea Fox, and Lasca, which have been out of racing so long that their presence was an added triumph to the annual regatta events.

The race to Newport was started at 2:25 o'clock, over an hour late, from the buoy off Mattinicock Point, and the committee boat, Albert C. Bostwick's fast steam yacht The Limited, chartered by Commodore James. Five sloops sailing in three classes were the first to go. Unfortunately the fast Boston sloop Dorello had no member of the club on board, her owner, George L. Batchelder being unable to make the trip, and she was sailed by her designer, George Owen. The committee offered to take her time as a basis of comparison, but officially she is not in the race. Cord Meyer's Altair, sailing against Mimosa II., was the first over, and Irondequoit had a slight lead over Dorwina in her class. All but Irondequoit and Mimosa II. made port tacks at once, but off Centre Island Altair still had the lead, while Dorwina had overhauled Irondequoit by a good margin. The boats were then standing well off toward the south shore, Dorwina well to windward.

Next came the fifty-seven-footers. Cornelius Vanderbilt's Aurora was sailed by W. Butler Duncan, Jr., and Stuyvesant Wainwright was on board. Mr. Duncan got the windward berth, and in a fine start got six seconds the better of his rival, Istalena, but the latter soon outfooted Aurora, and running to leeward got slightly the advantage. It did not last long, for off Lloyd's Neck Aurora was holding straight to her course half a mile or more ahead. Charles Lane Poor's Weetamoe made her first appearance of the season in this class, but she failed to keep on even terms with her competitors. Winsome's absence was explained by the fact that she has gone to Bristol for alterations.

Following these came the schooners and auxiliaries, the latter entirely under sail. There were eight of them, but only the smallest auxiliary got over with the four schooners, V. C. Brown's Iris. Dallas B. Pratt's Sea Fox got over first, closely followed by Iris and the schooners Eclipse, Lasca, and Corona, the former running far to leeward directly across the bow of the committee boat. Her owner, Cleveland H. Dodge, was on board, and he worked his schooner well up toward the middle of the Sound on the starboard tack and off Oak Neck, while Sea Fox, far to windward, was leading, the advantage seeming to be very slight. The Iris was third, followed by Lasca and Eclipse.

Under the light easterly wind it was a difficult beat down the Sound, and as the breeze failed to freshen early in the evening the racers will hardly arrive off Brenton Reef, Newport, until late this morning. The Limited followed them down, and she will be the committee boat during the week's racing. Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James has given two cups for the auxiliaries, and the Iris, the only one in the smaller class, will have a sailover.

Merriman Leads in Golf.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 7.—Buckingham P. Merriman, a Yale student, captured low score prize in the qualifying round of the eleventh annual Connecticut State golf championship at the Greenwich Country Club this afternoon. Merriman, who has held the State title, did his afternoon round in 74, which was the best of the day by one stroke. Part of the course is 73, 37 out and 36 in. Merriman's halves were each in 37. Excepting on the eleventh, where he was 4 against the strict allowance of 3, his card was practically perfect.

Coincident with the qualifying round at thirty-six holes a team match was run off which went to the home club at 819 strokes. The team consisted of Samuel J. Graham, Ralph Carroll, B. H. Warford, J. T. Soutter, and J. R. Beard. The Hartford team was second at 848 strokes.

Seventy-four men finished the first round and seventy-one the second, about the usual number. No play-offs were necessary in the first set. Those who qualified for the championship and their scores:

B. P. Merriman, Yale, 152; S. J. Graham, Greenwich, 156; R. H. Hovey, Hartford, 157; Ralph Carroll, Greenwich, 158; B. H. Warford, Greenwich, 159; S. D. Bowers, Bridgeport, 159; W. B. On Monday, when the tour starts, there will be a big demonstration by military bands and civic organizations.

The programme at Detroit will be as follows: Friday, July 9, banquet at Hotel Pontchartrain to officials and Directors of the American Automobile Association. ### W. A. Larned Injured in Tennis.

National Champion William A. Larned is so seriously injured that he may not be able to play any more lawn tennis this season. Tuesday evening, following the Westchester Doubles Cup matches, he engaged his brother, Edwin P. Larned, in singles. In making a quick jump across the turf he slipped and badly wrenched his right leg. It will be necessary for him to defrain from tennis competitions for some time to come.

The injury to Larned caused his retirment from the Westchester Doubles Cup matches yesterday. His place beside his brother, Edwin P. Larned, was taken by consent of all the contestants by Alfred Badley, who has had some experience in English tournaments. This pair faced the former national champion, William J. Clothier, and Wallace F. Johnson, the two Philadelphians. The latter scored the match, 6—4, 5—7, and 6—4.

The other competition brought Robert D. Wrenn and George L. Wrenn, Jr., into the series of the first time. They defeated C. Frederick Watson, Jr., and Edgar W. Smith, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4.

Buffalo Men in Championships.

The Sixty-fifth Regiment of Buffalo will be a prominent factor in the junior championships of the Amateur Athletic Union, which will be held at Travers Island on Saturday. Five entries have been received from this organization—W. D. Parlour in the 100-yard dash, George Waldraff in the furlong and 440-yard run, Joe Slonin in the quarter and half, and E. Whitehead in the one-mile walk. Slonin is credited with being the best of the quintet, having covered the half mile in 1:57 3-5 last Winter. He will need all his speed to win the event, however, for the entries show some of the best juniors in this section as contestants.

WABASH MUST PAY $900,000.

Interest and Principal on $150,000 of Bonds Issued in 1870.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 7.—By a decision in the United States Court of Appeals to-day the Wabash Railway will be compelled to pay $900,000, which is the amount of the principal and compound interest on $150,000 of bonds and bought by Henry L. Compton of Toledo.

The bonds were part of an issue of $600,000 equipment bonds made by the Old Toledo & Wabash Railway Company in 1862. Compton has been dead several years, and his widow, Mrs. Ellen Compton, has continued the suit, although it is said that the real owner of the bonds at present is a firm of Wall Street brokers.

Compton recovered judgment against the road in the Ohio Supreme Court. The road took the case to the Supreme Court of the United States on a plea that the railroad had been working under a Federal receiver for the entire system, and that no part of the system could be sold under foreclosure. The highest tribunal held that Compton had the right to sell property of the road in Ohio to compel payment of his judgment. The road has since been fighting on the theory that the profits of the Ohio portion of the road at the time the original suit was filed were not sufficient to meet the payment of this bond issue.

The Adelbert College of the Western Reserve of Ohio, together with others in St. Louis and New York holding $400,000 of the bonds, obtained from the Ohio Supreme Court in 1906 a decision that Compton must divide with them proportionately proceeds of a sale of the road on his lien. The Wabash Road carried this case to the United States Supreme Court, and this time set up the defense that the Ohio courts had no jurisdiction in the case, and that the road was sustained. This now leaves holders of $400,000 of bonds without power to collect a cent.

AWAITING CROP REPORT

To-day's Government Statement Expected to Make Good Showing—Heavy Pig Iron Output.

While the volume of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday exceeded that of Tuesday's session by some 100,000 shares, with advances more numerous and of greater extent than on that day, still the attitude of the market as a whole was very plainly a waiting one on the eve of to-day's Government report on the condition of the crops as of July 1. Southern Pacific, Atchison, Rock Island preferred, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, and the Interborough-Metropolitan issues practically made up the list of stocks scoring substantial gains. Southern Pacific shares were again influenced by the talk of dividend increases on the common; Rock Island and Frisco preferred stocks were directly benefited by the news of the successful placement in France of $10,000,000 of Frisco bonds; the Interborough-Metropolitan group responded to the greater activity of the management of this property in regard to new subway propositions, and Atchison owed its strength to the outlook for exceptional crops in the territory served by it, a promise which, translated into fact, will undoubtedly make it possible for the road to increase its return to stockholders. In advance of to-day's Government report and following the good showings made on Tuesday by the Illinois, Missouri and Ohio State reports, the State crop report of Iowa published yesterday was interesting. Winter wheat in that State improved from a condition on 92 on June 1 to 96 on July 1; Spring wheat also gained, while the betterment of corn is such as to indicate almost if not quite a record yield. Grain markets following Tuesday's sharp declines recovered somewhat, but expectations in the grain trade, as elsewhere, are for a satisfactory Government statement to-day. Of general interest, although without special influence upon the stock market, were Washington advices noting unexpected progress in closing up the tariff deliberations in the Senate and the compilation by the recognized iron trade publication of the pig iron production figures for the month of June and the first half of the present calendar year. For the six months the out-turn of pig iron slightly exceeded 11,000,000 tons as against 9,018,000 tons in the last six months of 1908, and 6,918,000 tons in the first six months of that year. For June, a month of thirty days, production was 1,920,000 tons against 1,883,000 for May, a month of thirty-one days. The prediction is made by this same authority that for July the Steel Corporation in particular will create a new record in pig iron production.

No engagements of gold in addition to the $1,500,000 taken for Argentina late on Tuesday were reported yesterday, but in spite of a furthur slight decline in foreign exchange rates the belief still prevails that further exports upon a substantial scale will be made.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—A strong advance yesterday carried the list up fully a cent a bushel. Rains caused considerable alarm. Cash wheat in the Southwest was reported to be 2@3c per bushel higher, with millers active buyers, while flood conditions were threatened in the Missouri Valley. The Government crop report is scheduled for this afternoon at 2 o'clock. A decline of ⅛@¼d at Liverpool did not meet Tuesday's big drop on this side. Berlin was ⅞c off, but Budapest closed 1⅛c net higher, and Argentine advices said that it had been dry for the last forty-seven days. Export sales amounted to 16 loads. Cash wheat in New York closed: Old No. 2 red, $1.45, elevator, and free on board, afloat; new No. 2 red, $1.20¼, end August; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.35⅛, and No. 2 hard, Winter, $1.33⅝, nominal, free on board, afloat, for old.

CORN.—After a poor start yesterday prices turned stronger, and followed the wheat advance all day. Liverpool closed ¼d net lower, and export business amounted to 12 loads. Old No. 2 corn was quoted 78c, elevator and free on board, afloat, and new, 64¼c, free on board, afloat, Winter shipment.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Reacts Heavily on Good Crop News—Closes 18 to 23 Points Down.

Cotton met a considerable reaction yesterday from the high point of the previous day, although the decline was interrupted by frequent rallies. The close was barely steady at a net loss of 18@23 points, some 21 to 24 points below the high records of the season.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 points on July, which sold at 12.30—the best price of the season—but generally 2 to 5 points lower. Lowest prices were reached in the late trading. More advices came from the South of an improvement in crop conditions, but the low July condition offsets them in a measure.

Contract prices were as follows:

| | High. | Low. | Close. | Tues. Close. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| July | 12.30 | 12.06 | 12.04@12.06 | 12.26 |

Spot cotton was quiet and 10 points lower, at 12.65 for middling upland and 12.90 for middling Gulf. Sales nil.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Day of Minor Movements, with Some Interest in Gold Stocks, Which Sold Down.

COPPER SHARES WERE DULL

Speculative Issues in Many Cases Close Even with Opening Prices After Minor Fluctuations.

Interest in the mining list on the Curb yesterday centred in some of the gold stocks, which made new low records for the year. Goldfield Consolidated was active on the downward scale, reaching a new low record for the year at 6¼. After transactions reported of 27,600 shares, the close was at 6 5-16. Combination Fraction, which sold down from 56 cents per share to 51 cents, recovered after reported transactions of 12,700 shares to 55 cents. The copper shares were inactive and inclined to sag under the light trading. Many of the speculative issues closed even with opening prices after minor fluctuations.

McCall Ferry Power Plan Extended.

The time for the deposit of stock and bonds of the McCall Ferry Power Company under the plan of reorganization announced to the security holders in May has been extended to July 21. ### New High Records.

Atchison and Southern Pacific made new high records yesterday, the former advancing 1½ per cent., to 117½, and the latter nearly 2 points, to 135⅝, thus selling fractionally higher than it did on the day of the announcement of the proposed retirement of the preferred shares. In both cases gossip chiefly busied itself concerning the possibilities of dividend increases. Reports were again current that at the next dividend periods the Atchison rate would be advanced to 6 per cent. and the Southern Pacific to 7. On that theory there was a good deal of buying of the stocks for the long pull. Considerable purchases was made by persons believing that, even if the dividends should not be advanced at the times specified, it would be only three or six months following the next declarations before the stocks would be established on a higher dividend level. In both cases the earnings of the corporations are known to be sufficiently large to warrant the Directors in enlarging the disbursements to shareholders whenever they see fit.

Scattered Liquidation.

The early drive at Union Pacific and Reading, which forced both stocks down a point, was thought to have provoked some scattered commission house liquidation, but this was offset to a large extent by the subsequent recovery in prices. Aside from selling of this sort, some traders thought that Union Pacific, on general principles, ought to be a good short sale for a quick turn. Following its rise on Tuesday to a new high record, they argued, the stock was in for some reaction, irrespective of outside considerations. A suspicion was also entertained in some quarters that advantage was taken of the pronounced strength in Southern Pacific for the unloading of Union Pacific and some other standard shares. The heaviness displayed by some sections of the market, virtually throughout the day in the face of pronounced strength elsewhere, did not look exactly right to many operators accustomed to base their commitments largely on technical considerations.

Concerning the Crop Report.

For a week everybody has been talking about the brilliant showing which will be made by to-day's Government crop report. Before the holiday recess people were buying stocks on the belief in an excellent Government report. They were doing the same on Tuesday, and again yesterday, but the bulls were predicting a great demonstration for to-day when the figures would actually be made public. This line of reasoning did not appeal very strongly to those of a sceptical turn of mind, who suggested that all this talk about the fine condition of the crops and the buying of stocks on the same theory possibly might have discounted the whole thing. One thing is certain, and that is that Wall Street will be sorely disappointed if the Government indications are not very flattering. Even should they come up to expectations, the bears argue, the stock market would be parting from its usual course if it did not take that factor into consideration before it had obtained the official information on the subject. It was admitted that public participation in the market might be increased if the crop report fulfills the very optimistic anticipations.

B. & O. Puzzles Traders.

Baltimore & Ohio has been a good deal of a puzzle to the traders for some weeks. The common stock receives 6 per cent. dividends, the declaration of the next one at that rate now being imminent, but it sells at around 118. Comparisons with other railroad stocks are naturally suggested. Atchison, paying only 5 per cent., but with expectations of 6, sold yesterday at only about a point under Baltimore & Ohio. But Atchison sold about 7 points higher yesterday than it ever did when it paid 6 per cent., its high record during that period being around 110. New York Central, paying 5 per cent., sells around 133, and Louisville & Nashville, now paying 6, commands a market price of 141. The list might be extended, and would still show a marked discrepancy between the price of Baltimore & Ohio and other railroad shares. Apparently either Baltimore & Ohio is selling too low, or the others are selling too high. For weeks it has been a laggard, and that very fact has been attracting attention to it.

Strength of Interborough-Metropolitan.

The Interborough-Metropolitan issues gave another demonstration of strength yesterday which was rather confusing to those who had concluded that they had had their run a week or so ago and would subside into inactivity. The preferred shares rose 1½ per cent., and the 4½ per cent. bonds were heavily traded in at an advance of about a point, selling up to 80⅞. Of all the stocks on the list, there are few which attract a blind following so readily as the Interborough-Metropolitan shares. When it comes to a question of the intrinsic value of the preferred or common stock, the talk branches out into glittering generalities and wonderful "prospects." That is about as near as any one seems to be able to get at their worth, except possibly a few insiders, and they are not telling everything they know. As a matter of fact, it is suspected in some quarters that even they are taking a good deal on faith, but they appear perfectly willing to back their judgment with real money, traces of which are easily discernible in the market movements of the shares.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

American Securities Close Uncertain on the London Exchange.

LONDON, July 7.—Money was abundant and easy on the market to-day. Discounts were quiet.

Trading on the Stock Exchange generally was dull and uninteresting owing to the approach of the settlement. Home rails, Kaffirs, and foreigners were easy in the absence of support. Consols and other good yielding gilt-edged securities, however, kept firm on investment buying and talk of an early reduction in the discount rate of the Bank of England.

American securities opened about parity and later hardened, making fractional gains. At noon the market was quiet with prices from ⅜ above to ¼ below yesterday's New York closing. Southern Pacific monopolized attention on dividend rumors, but New York offered stock in the afternoon, and prices relapsed sharply, and after a slight recovery from the worst, the market closed uncertain.

Bar silver quiet, 23½d per ounce.

Money ½@⅜ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1¼@1 5-16 per cent.; for three months' bills, 1¼@1 5-16 per cent.

PARIS, July 7.—There was an indecisive tone on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 72½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 18c for checks.

BERLIN, July 7.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was light and prices ruled irregular.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Continued weakness and liquidation of Tonopah Mining shares was, in the absence of more important matters, about the sole feature of the local stock market. In the afternoon Philadelphia Rapid Transit became strong, and on trading that aggregated about 3,000 shares the price was carried above 29. United Gas Improvement weakened during the forenoon, but recovered at 88 again toward the close of the day. The market closed quiet.

Of Interest to the Public
The information in the New York Sun of June 24th, concerning the ownership of the properties in the Province of Esmeraldas Ecuador, fabulously rich in Gold and Platinum has attracted widespread attention. History as well as recent examinations of these properties has established the fact that they were the practically inexhaustible Treasure House of the Incas and that their development of Gold Dredges will bring to all those interested the surest and largest returns of any business in the world to-day.
Five hundred and twenty-five thousand acres are owned in fee simple by Americans.
Before it is too late, inquire of the Ecuadorian Government about these properties, and of reliable people of experience about the wonderful profits in Gold Dredging. If you will investigate, you will realize what this means.
Copies of the article in the Sun of June 24th, will be sent you, on application to LEONARD L. WETMORE, Secretary and Treasurer,

Accountants Draw Up Full Report of Assets and Liabilities and It Is Given Out.

The recommendation made by the Hughes Wall Street Investigating Committee that the books of brokers be viséd periodically for the protection of their clients has been followed unofficially by a Consolidated Stock Exchange house, which has had a firm of public accountants go over their books and make a statement of assets and liabilities as of June 21. The firm, Warren W. Erwin & Co., issued a circular to their customers yesterday containing the accountants' figures and promising to make the auditing a regular practice hereafter. The circular says:

> We have long held the opinion that those who trade in brokers' offices are fairly entitled to something more than bare receipts for their deposits. We believe that a broker is virtually a Trustee or agent, and that he should not only refrain from all speculative transactions for his own account, but should keep his customers informed as to his financial standing.
>
> We have decided to have our books audited regularly (probably quarterly) by certified public accountants, and to give the result of this audit to our customers. Should any three customers, whose deposits aggregate $10,000, request a special accounting, we are ready at any time to meet their request at our expense.
>
> Inclosed is a copy of the report made by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, which shows the condition of our firm on June 21.

It is explained in the statement accompanying the figures of assets and liabilities that the securities held are valued at the bid price at the close of business on the day of the audit in the case of all active stocks and bonds and the price of last sale in other cases.

The assets and liabilities are figured in the following form:

| ASSETS. | |
|---|---|
| Value of securities in box | $137,206.84 |
| Value of securities in bank loans | 221,931.25 |
| Value of securities loaned to brokers | 10,391.25 |
| Cash in banks and on hand | 13,097.48 |
| Accounts receivable (good) | 7,083.61 |
| Contract price of securities borrowed from brokers | 80,732.50 |
| Furniture and fixtures | 1,408.30 |
| Total assets | $471,851.23 |
| LIABILITIES. | |
| Accounts payable to customers | $162,314.98 |
| Loans payable to banks | 170,000.00 |
| Contract price of securities loaned to brokers | 10,645.00 |
| Value of securities borrowed from brokers | 78,891.25 |
| Total liabilities | $421,851.23 |
| Net surplus—assets over and above all liabilities | $50,000.00 |

As far as the memories of old-timers in the Street runs this is the first time that a brokerage house has made public such a statement.

SUSTAINS BOSTON BANKING CO

Court Holds, Against State Commissioner, That Its Capital Isn't Impaired.

BOSTON, July 7.—The contention of State Bank Commissioner A. D. Chapin that the Boston Banking Company, a day and night bank in this city, should be closed, on the ground that the bank's capital was impaired, was not sustained in the Supreme Court to-day. The Commissioner's exception to a Master's report, which favored the reopening of the bank, was overruled.

The bank was closed by a temporary injunction on May 11, the Bank Commissioner declaring that its continuance would be hazardous. A Master investigated and reported last week that the bank was solvent. The Commissioner then moved to recommit the case to the Master. A receiver was also asked for on the ground that the bank's President, Thomas B. Taylor, was in jail in Rhode Island because of his inability to furnish bail in a $350,000 suit.

The court ruled to-day that that fact did not call for a receiver, and denied the motion to recommit.

IRON TRADE BOOMING AGAIN.

Production for First Half of 1909 Double That Same Period in 1908.

The returns of the coke and anthracite pig iron furnaces made to the leading trade authorities, although differing in actual totals, agree in making the first half of 1909 show a big gain over the first six months of 1908, and put production well on the way to rival that of 1907, the record year.

The Iron Age says:

> The returns of the producers of coke and anthracite pig iron show that the production during the first half of the current year was 11,000,000 tons, as compared with 9,018,014 tons during the last half of 1908; 6,918,004 tons during the first half of that year, and a record of 18,478,044 tons during the first half of 1907. We are now running at a rate of 24,000,000 tons a year.
>
> The production in June was 1,929,884 tons, as compared with 1,883,330 tons in May. In all probability the output of the Steel Corporation furnaces during July is likely to establish a new record. The best achievement in its history was 1,008,000 tons in October, 1906.
>
> The most significant feature of the blast furnace returns, however, is that the increase in output is due entirely to the furnaces connected with steel works. Their make jumped from 40,531 tons daily in May to 45,507 tons per day in June. The merchant furnaces on the other hand show a decline from a daily product of 20,222 tons in May to 18,822 tons in June.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Pig iron production for the first half of the present year, not including charcoal iron, amounted to 10,820,059 tons, an increase of 59 per cent. over the first half of 1908 and a decrease of 18 per cent. as compared with the first half of 1907. The average daily production for June was 64,311 tons, compared with 60,218 tons in May.
>
> Heavy buying of pig iron by the leading harvester and radiator interests has been a feature of the market during the past week. The International Harvester Company purchased a large tonnage of both Northern and Southern irons, and the American Radiator Company has puchased about 25,000 tons. Cast iron pipe interests in the East have purchased about 25,000 tons, and throughout the country there is moderate buying of malleable and foundry grades.

CAPITAL INCREASE BY BANKERS' TRUST CO.

From $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 with Rich Bonus for the Present Stockholders.

NEW INTERESTS TO COME IN

They Will Pay $400 Per Share for $1,000,000 of the Additional Stock—Deposits More Than $40,000,000.

The Bankers' Trust Company, the rapid growth of which since its organization in 1903 has been a feature of the development in banking, has completed arrangements to increase its capital from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 and to add largely to its surplus, bringing its combined capital and surplus up to $9,000,000. This news follows closely upon the announcement that the trust company has arranged to construct at 14 to 18 Wall Street a new banking and office building, in which it will occupy several floors for its own use.

The Directors include officers of a number of leading Clearing House banks and of important banks in other cities, as well as representatives of some of the leading private banking houses here. The proposed increase in capital will be followed by additions to the strong financial interests now identified with the company, since part of the new stock is to be taken by other interests than those now identified with the company.

Of the $2,000,000 increase in capital, $1,000,000 is to be offered to the present stockholders at $300 a share, and $1,000,000 is to be taken at $400 a share by bankers, including some already associated with the company and others not now allied with it. The $100 a share which these interests will pay over the price at which the stockholders will get their increased stock will go to the stockholders, and in addition a special dividend of $50 a share will be declared before the increase in capital goes into effect. Thus the stockholders against the $300 a share which they will pay for their $1,000,000 of new stock will be entitled to a total distribution of $150 a share, or one-half of the subscription price of the new stock.

Upon the completion of this increase the Bankers' Trust will have a capital of $3,000,000 and a surplus of $6,000,000. Its deposits now amount to more than $40,000,000, and it has for some years been paying dividends at the rate of 16 per cent.

The interests identified with the Bankers' Trust Company include the First National Bank group, the Morgan interests, Blair & Co., and representatives of other powerful National and State banks and private banking houses. The last sale of the trust company's stock was at $750 a share.

No Rio Grande Board Changes.

President E. T. Jeffery of the Denver & Rio Grande denied yesterday reports in circulation in the financial district that several changes are to be made in the Board of Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande in the near future. Mr. Jeffery said that there was no basis for these reports. A. C. Ridgway, who was General Manager of the Rio Grande, has resigned, but he was not a Director of the road. Mr. Ridgway gave up his position, Mr. Jeffery said, in order to go into private business.

$10,000,000 Five Per Cents. Put Out at 103¼ by Morgan Syndicate.

J. P. Morgan & Co., and Lee, Higginson & Co. are offering at 103¼ and interest the $10,000,000 Interborough Rapid Transit 5 per cent. bonds recently purchased by the bankers. The bonds are part of the authorized issue of $55,000,000 approved last year by the Public Service Commission, of which $11,590,000, including the present offering, are outstanding and $28,108,900 pledged as security for the company's 6 per cent. notes.

It is announced that the company has paid the special tax under Section 14 of the State tax law making these bonds tax exempt. The bonds are secured by the only mortgage on the Interborough's property, subject only to the city's rental. The net income, the company's statement shows, amounted last year to three times the interest on these bonds. The bonds will be offered in London by J. S. Morgan & Co.

NO ELECTRIC LINE NOW.

St. Paul Temporarily Abandons Scheme for Mountain Tunnel Power.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, it was learned yesterday, has temporarily given up its plan to electrify fifty miles of its Pacific Coast extension, including the tunnel through the mountains.

It has been found that one of the water power stations proposed by the road would not be sufficient to supply power the year around, and the management does not care at this time to undertake the construction of two water power plants. Later on, it is expected, the use of electric power will be resorted to in order to increase the efficiency of the mountain section of the line.

Air Line Stockholders to Meet.

Special meetings of the stockholders of the Seaboard Air Line Railway will be held in August, it was announced yesterday, in each of the States through which the Seaboard system runs from Virginia to Alabama. The places of meeting will be Petersburg, Va.; Raleigh, N. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala. The first of the meetings will be held on Aug. 4, and the last on Aug. 10. The purpose in having a stockholders' meeting in each of the States through which the road passes is to cover fully every possible legal requirement regarding ratification of the plan of readjustment by the stockholders.

CURFEW AT 12 IN WASHINGTON

No Piano Playing or Singing After That Hour, Says Police Judge.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Piano playing and singing after midnight are disorderly conduct quite as much as swearing or fighting, declared Judge Ivory G. Kimball in the Police Court to-day in dismissing with a lecture a complaint against Raymond Leman. The court announced that hereafter curfew would ring promptly at 10 o'clock, and all offenders brought before him would receive a fine.

"I want to impress upon you and your friends who were with you," said the Judge to Leman, "that playing the piano after hours will not be tolerated in the city. We can't live in a city like this, all crowled together, unless everybody has some consideration for the rights of his neighbors. No man or woman has the right to play the piano or sing after his or her neighbors are asleep or in bed trying to sleep. Any one who does not recognize the rights of his neighbor is a transgressor."

Jump in Kansas & Colorado Stock.

The small outstanding amounts of the stocks of some of the subsidiary companies of the Missouri Pacific, including the Kansas & Colorado Pacific, have recently advanced sharply owing to the plan for the merger of these roads into the Missouri Pacific itself. Bids as high as 65 were reported yesterday to have been made for Kansas & Colorado Pacific stock, all but a small amount of which is owned by the Missouri Pacific.

The KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY, which extends from Kansas City to Port Arthur, Texas, 777 miles of main track—the shortest line from Kansas City to the Gulf of Mexico—forms a direct connection between the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Systems. A traffic agreement between those railroads and their subsidiary companies and the KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY was made in February, 1909. It was officially estimated at that time that these traffic contracts would result in increasing the gross earnings of the KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN about $1,000,000 in the first year of their operation, while by this arrangement the KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN HAS BECOME A CONNECTING LINK IN A GREAT TRANSCONTINENTAL SYSTEM.

These Bonds are secured by a mortgage on all the property and assets of the KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY subject only to the First Mortgage 3% Bonds. The total mileage owned and controlled by the company is 1,162 miles.

The following statement shows the results of operation of the KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN RAILWAY for the last three fiscal years, one month of the year ended June 30, 1909, being estimated:

| | 1909. (Partly Estimated.) | 1908. | 1907. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gross Earnings | $8,772,000 | $8,758,928 | $9,037,546 |
| Net Earnings | 3,550,000 | 3,138,206 | 3,853,559 |
| Fixed Charges and Taxes, (Interest on 5% Gold Notes called for payment July 1, 1909, not included) | 1,375,000 | 1,275,662 | 1,198,513 |
| Balance applicable to interest on Refunding and Improvement Mortgage 5% Bonds | 2,175,000 | 1,862,544 | 2,655,046 |

The statement above shows that in 1907 the road earned over five times the interest on the $10,000,000 Refunding and Improvement 5% Bonds now outstanding; over three and one-half times the interest in 1908, a year of severe depression; and more than four times the charge in the year ended June 30, 1909.

These bonds are a legal investment for Life Insurance Companies in New York.

Listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Temporary receipts exchangeable for engraved bonds ready for delivery.

We offer, subject to sale, the unsold balance of these bonds amounting to $1,500,000.

INTERBOROUGH RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY.

New York, July 6th, 1909.

Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co.,
Cor. Wall and Broad Streets,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

In connection with your purchase of $10,000,000 Forty-Five Year 5% Gold Mortgage Bonds of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, I submit the following information:

ORGANIZATION.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company was incorporated under the laws of New York in 1902, and operates, under lease the Subway and Manhattan Elevated rapid transit systems in New York City.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of the $10,000,000 bonds now sold to you will be placed in trust to prepay and retire on September 1, 1909, the entire issue ($10,000,000) of the Company's Three-Year Five Per Cent. Gold Notes which mature March 1, 1910. The notes will be called for payment on September 1, 1909, at 101 per cent. and accrued interest, in accordance with the provisions of the Trust Indenture securing them.

SECURITY.

These Forty-Five Year Gold Mortgage Bonds, upon such payment of the five per cent. notes on September 1, 1909, will be the only mortgage debt upon the properties, franchises and leases now owned by the Company, or hereafter acquired with the proceeds of these bonds, except that the City of New York holds a lien upon equipment used in operating the Subway, to insure the faithful performance of the leases thereof. These bonds are secured by:

1. A lien on all real estate, powerhouses, electric equipment and rolling stock owned by the Company and used in the operation of the rapid transit subways. These are subject to a prior lien in favor of the City of New York merely to insure the faithful performance of the terms of the leases of the subway.
2. A first lien on the two leases of the rapid transit subway from the City of New York, the principal lease for fifty years from October, 1904, with privilege of renewal for twenty-five years additional. The lease of the extension under the East River to Brooklyn for thirty-five years, with the privilege of renewal for twenty-five years additional. These leases extend well beyond the due date of the forty-five year bonds and authorize a five-cent fare during the full term.
3. A first lien on the lease of the Manhattan Railway for 999 years from 1875. The franchises of this Company are perpetual. The net income from operation of the Manhattan Railway exceeds the rentals therefor, so that this lease has afforded a considerable profit to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.
4. The pledge under the mortgage of 18,140 shares out of a total of 20,000 shares of the capital stock and $942,022.72 notes of the Subway Realty Company (the owner of the Hotel Belmont), 32,048 shares out of a total of 32,350 shares of the New York & Queens County Railway Company, and one-half of the total outstanding stock and bonds of the New York & Long Island Traction Company and Long Island Electric Company.

The mortgage also provides that, if and when the Company's interest in the New York and Long Island Railroad or "Steinway Tunnel" shall be sold, the proceeds shall be applied to the redemption of the outstanding 6% Gold Notes of the Company, or if no such notes are then outstanding, to the redemption of these Forty-Five Year Bonds.

CALLABLE.

These bonds are callable, on any interest date, in blocks of not less than $1,000,000, at 105 and accrued interest.

SINKING FUND.

A Sinking Fund of $300,000 per annum, cumulative, beginning November 1, 1910, draws bonds at 105 and accrued interest, if not purchasable at a lower price. If compounded at five per cent. per annum, this will be sufficient to acquire at 105, and to retire at maturity about $39,000,000 bonds. This sinking fund may be increased at the option of the Company to an amount not exceeding one per cent. of the total amount of bonds outstanding.

FREE FROM TAXATION.

The Company has paid the special tax under Article XIV. of the Tax Laws of this State, thus making these bonds tax exempt in New York.

WHITRIDGE QUIZZED ON NEW STOCK ISSUE

Public Not Interested, He Says, Because Utilities Board Now Protects It.

OWNERS WANT NEW STOCK

Willcox Expresses the Opinion It Will Never Earn a Dividend—Old Loans Raked Up Again.

Yesterday's hearing before the Public Service Commission on the reorganization plan proposed for the Third Avenue Railroad by the bondholders' committee of that company, brought out that Chairman William R. Willcox and Lorenzo Semple, attorney for the commission in the Third Avenue case, are not thus far particularly impressed with the proposal to issue $20,000,000 new stock to present stockholders on consideration of paying a twenty-five-dollar-a-share assessment, when a deficit of from $900,000 to $1,000,000 a year on the interest on the adjustment bonds proposed to be issued, stands between the stock and any return.

Receiver Whitridge of the Third Avenue Road was on the witness stand yesterday for cross-examination. At the beginning of the hearing, however, John M. Bowers, counsel for the bondholders' committee, made a statement in answer to the question raised by a stockholder at the hearing on Tuesday, as to what became of the difference between the $37,560,000 bonds issued under the existing consolidated mortgage and the $23,000,000 used to pay off floating debts of the Third Avenue and its subsidiaries.

Mr. Whitridge had said earlier that he had been unable to discover that the property received the benefit of this money. In reply Mr. Bowers pointed out to some $18,000,000 of notes held by the Third Avenue against its subsidiaries on which Mr. Bowers is now trying to enforce payment in the Federal courts. Mr. Bowers said that these notes represented sums advanced by the Third Avenue to its subsidiaries, and accounted for the balance of the bonds. This moved Mr. Whitridge to a remark.

"I stand by my judgment that there is no evidence of the expenditure of any such sums of money," he said. "It is true that the accounts show the advances as between the Third Avenue and its subsidiaries, but I have been unable to find evidence of its employment in my examination of the property."

Where Old Loans Went.

Attorney S. R. Levy, who represents some Third Avenue stockholders, asked Mr. Whitridge if he had done anything to find out where the money went.

"No," said Mr. Whitridge. "In the first place it was not my business, and in the second place I have been practicing law too long to institute suits without any definite idea of where I was coming out. It would have cost $200,000 or $300,000 to make the examination, and when it was made there would be a large possibility that you would not have responsible parties to sue."

A little later Mr. Willcox reverted to the subject, asking what the $18,000,000 of notes, or the advances back of them, represented.

"A variety of things—in some cases a deficiency of earnings," replied Mr. Whitridge.

Mr. Bowers interrupted to say that it was another set of notes, those due to the New York City Railway from the Third Avenue's subsidiaries that represented the operating deficits on the subsidiaries. Mr. Whitridge, however, stuck to it that the notes of the subsidiaries to the Third Avenue, which, according to Mr. Bowers, were supposed to account for the untraced proceeds of part of the consolidated bonds, did not, so far as he had been able to observe, represent expenditures on the property.

Meantime F. A. Wishelman of 324 East Eighty-ninth Street, who said that he represented "a few of the common people and myself," sought permission to ask Mr. Whitridge some questions. As he was neither a stockholder nor a bondholder, he was required to submit his questions in writing, and they were asked by Mr. Semple, with the consent of Mr. Whitridge and Mr. Bowers. These questions brought out the broadest discussion of the Third Avenue plan that occurred. The first was:

Values and Bond Issues.

"The issue of bonds or other liabilities ought not to be more than the value of the properties. Do you agree to that?"

"I do not," said Mr. Whitridge.

"Do you think that securities ought to be issued against liabilities rather than assets?" followed. Mr. Whitridge said he did not.

"When the income is only sufficient to pay interest on $30,000,000, why do you propose to have $92,000,000 of capital?" was another.

"Because the owners of the property want it, and because it would be cruel to do anything else," said Mr. Whitridge.

"What is the value of the property?" was still another question.

"What it will sell for in the market. I know of no other standard," Mr. Whitridge responded.

"Don't you think that the public has any interest in the amount of stock to be issued?" asked Chairman Willcox.

"I do not to-day," said Mr. Whitridge. "Formerly the public had an interest because excessive stock issues could be made the basis of excessive charges for service rendered or for poor service, but to-day, with this commission to enforce the rendering of good service, I am unable to see how the public is interested in the amount of stock."

What Brought Receivership.

"Then what do you think was the chief cause of putting the Third Avenue into receivers' hands?"

"The breaking of the lease," replied Mr. Whitridge.

"Yes, but don't you know," said Mr. Willcox, "that the charges involved by the amount of obligations issued wrecked the road?"

"Certainly," replied Mr. Whitridge, "but under this plan the fixed charges will be reduced."

"But one of the old burdens was the dividend on the stock, which was guaranteed under the lease of 1900," said Mr. Willcox.

"Exactly," replied Mr. Whitridge. "The old reorganization involved much greater payments to the security holders than the property could earn. I don't believe that the Third Avenue, by itself, would ever have undertaken to issue $40,000,000 of bonds, or could have sold the bonds. It could do so only because the road was to be leased to what was considered one of the most powerful and richest properties in the world, a company supposed to have wealth unlimited."

"But under this plan, with the reduction of fixed charges, you can't pay a dividend unless you have the money," contributed Mr. Bowers.

"Dividends have been paid out of borrowed money before now," Mr. Willcox suggested.

"But that can't happen here," Mr. Whitridge assured him.

"Oh, as to this stock," rejoined the Chairman, "I don't think it will ever pay a dividend."

Value of Westchester Lines.

Mr. Semple took up the examination along somewhat the same lines before the hearing was over. He asked Mr. Whitridge, apropos of his predictions that the Westchester lines in the Third Avenue system would become good money-makers, whether he knew that the Referee in the litigation started by the bondholders of the Yonkers Railroad had declared in a decision just handed down, that the road was not worth a cent above the mortgage. Mr. Whitridge said he had not and was disposed to differ with the Referee's opinion.

The hearing will be continued this afternoon.

BOMB THREAT IN RED.

Started Out as a Joke, but Became a Wall Street Sensation a Week Later.

The Wall Street sleuths, who have comfortable quarters in the Stock Exchange big marble building in return for the moral effect of their presence in keeping Rogues' Gallery figures out of the financial district, added a tinge or two to their accustomed steeping of mystery yesterday. They refused to say a word about the great Stock Exchange gunpowder plot.

Ever since the Roman Bourse was blown up three years ago by a gas leak there have been alarms about what might happen in New York if a crank such as it turned out didn't try to dynamite the Roman brokers should throw a bomb into the Broad Street building. An unusually large crop of crank letters to the officials of the Stock Exchange after the panic of 1907 led to the rescinding of the old privilege by which the patrons of Seeing New York 'buses were allowed to watch the brokers from the visitors' gallery.

Stories of prospective bomb throwing, which were frequently heard at that time, had been out of currency for many months, when a reporter came down from Park Row last week with a facetious letter, typed in red, which announced that nothing could prevent the blowing up of the Stock Exchange between Friday and Tuesday.

The letter was so obviously a poor attempt at a joke that even the newspaper which received the letter did not print it. But the news of it spread, and yesterday the tale was told with embellishments. One account had it that fifteen detectives had been toled off to guard the building during the three days the threat covered, spurred to high tension by frequent visits from Inspector McCafferty himself, with instructions to admit no one not accompanied by a member. This version of the tale lost force from the fact that the building was closed from Friday afternoon until Tuesday morning, but none of the regular Wall Street detectives could be got to admit yesterday that the three holidays had not been a period of sleepless vigilance.

FINDS HER GARTERS GUILTY.

A Public Nuisance, in Fact, Says the Court, but Lets Mlle. De Leon Go.

Mlle. de Leon, an actress, who has been doing a Salome act in Hurtig & Seamon's vaudeville show, in West 125th Street, for the last few weeks, was found guilty in General Sessions yesterday of conducting an exhibition that was a public nuisance. She was released under a suspended sentence.

Policeman Edward A. Reilly, who had been assigned to watch her performance, testified that, although the dance was within the law, the distribution of souvenir garters, snatched from the ankle of the actress by men in the audience, was not. Announcing the Court's decision, Justice Deuel said:

"The exhibition, as described, was indecent and unfit to place before the public in any civilized community."

In her defence, Miss de Leon said that the garters were distributed as advertisements and that the last one was taken off by a man hired for the purpose.

Joseph Seamon was arraigned immediately after the actress, but was discharged on the previous testimony.

Commissioner John H. O'Brien Sails.

John H. O'Brien, Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, sailed for Europe yesterday on the White Star steamship Oceanic. He expects to remain abroad six weeks.

WITHOUT AN OWNER IS THIS CAR LINE

In Lenox Avenue from 110th to 116th Street, but It Has Never Been Used.

BUILT TO KEEP OTHERS OUT

Old Sixth Avenue Road Put It In—City Plans to Tear It Up—Subway's Troublesome Spring.

At the lower end of Lenox Avenue there is a strip of street car track without an owner. It starts a little north of 110th Street and ends just south of 116th Street. It connects with nothing, and no car so far as the oldest inhabitant can remember, has ever run over it, but whenever the city authorities have had occasion to open the street they have laid it down again religiously in line.

Even how it came to be constructed in the first place is a matter of dispute among local historians. A few years ago the city began suit against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company to force it to tear this track up, but the company repudiated any responsibility for its existence, and so the case was dropped. The best authorities say that some seventeen or eighteen years ago the Sixth Avenue Road, then a separate concern, received information that some other of the street car companies had planned to build tracks along Lenox Avenue, at that time still known as Sixth Avenue, north of 110th Street.

The Sixth Avenue line examined its franchise and found that it granted surface rights on Sixth Avenue, without saying anything about their cessation at Fifty-ninth Street. So the company represented to the Corporation Counsel that it was clear that the franchise held good north of Central Park in the same way that it did to the south. The Corporation Counsel of the day took this view, and so the tracks were laid. But from that day to this no car has ever worn the old-fashioned tracks.

They have, however, been a great nuisance to the neighborhood. Several severe accidents have been directly attributable to their presence, and yesterday it was decided by the property owners of the district to make a determined effort to have them torn up. They met at the office of Albert E. Lowe, 100 West 115th Street and organized the Thirty-first Assembly District Property Owners' Association, with William J. Wright, Tammany district leader, as President and Mr. Lowe as Secretary. Other persons present were Alderman Samuel Marx, Arnold Kohn, Edward Alexander, Joseph Blau, John Gordon, Simon Schiff, and H. J. Rogers.

It was stated at the meeting that Borough President Ahearn intends to pull up a number of derelict pieces of street car track throughout the city, if he can get the funds for the purpose. He has, it was said, made application for the money, but has not yet received it. It was decided that the new association should call on Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission this morning and discuss the matter with him. Then a meeting will be called next week at the Cayuga Club, 200 Lenox Avenue, at which other property owners will be invited to come in and join the association.

Another matter which will be laid before Mr. Willcox is the work which is now going on in the Subway, just below 116th Street and Lenox Avenue, to turn aside the spring which troubles operators there. For some time some of the finest water in the whole city, has been not only running to waste there, but threatening the Interborough tracks.

The ground in the district is low-lying, and after excavating some distance, ground water is reached. It has caused a great deal of trouble to builders in the vicinity, and last year the Subway was compelled to install steam pumps on the sidewalk in Lenox Avenue to pump out the water preparatory to concreting the bed of the tracks.

The steam pumps caused great damage, it is contended, to the tenants of the neighborhood, but a few of them, at any rate, found some consolation in the water which was brought up. While their neighbors complained of the noise of the pumps working day and night and the ashes and smoke which were blown into their houses, a few discovered that the water which was being allowed to run to waste was ice cold and clear as crystal. They had it analyzed, and, finding it pure, drew it by the jug from the pumps for domestic consumption.

The association is not concerning itself with the waste of water which is contemplated again this year by the Interborough, but it is determined that the pumping shall not again be done by steam. The association will take up with Chairman Willcox the permit which the Public Service Commission has granted to the Interborough for the resumption of the pumping work, and will demand that noiseless electric pumps be used instead of the noisy, dirty steam machines.

AUGUST BELMONT SAILS.

Goes Abroad with Two of His Sons, Saying Let the Public Bet.

August Belmont and his sons, Raymond and Morgan, sailed for Europe yesterday on the Cunarder Lucania. Mr. Belmont was willing to discuss the racing situation here, but when asked as to the truth of the persistent rumor that he was to marry Miss Eleanor Robson, the actress, he beat a retreat and joined his sons.

The Belmonts will be abroad several weeks for the benefit of the sons, who need a rest from college work. Mr. Belmont said he would not do any racing abroad. While he does not advocate betting, Mr. Belmont said he placed bets when he could, and thought that on the subject of betting the public should not be unreasonable.

"If the people want to bet, why let them bet," he said.

RAN DOWN THE HAITIAN ARMY.

Tourist's Rig Bowled Over the Commanding General in Port au Prince.

T. R. Wolf, who arrived in this city yesterday on the Atlas Line steamship Sarnia to attend the funeral of his father, had the novel experience of riding down the Haitian Army while breaking the speed limit in the streets of Port au Prince.

With two friends Wolf took a drive about the city when the Sarnia stopped there. On one street they noted a motley collection of about 100 men drilling. At first they thought it a Salvation Army meeting, but on closer approach found the men dressed in uniforms of every description. Unthinkingly they drove on through the crowd, bowling one of the men over. Then they discovered they had interrupted a drill of the Haitian Army, which at once surrounded the carriage and arrested the Americans.

According to Mr. Wolf there was great indignation over the affair, and it was explained that the man they had so unfortunately sent into the gutter was the commanding General. Furthermore, they were told impressively that among the drillers were five Generals and at least forty-five Colonels.

While the confab was going on Wolf touched his horse sharply with the whip, and it sprang forward, leaving the many Generals and other officers indignant in the road.

The men then drove to the palace of President Simon and sent in their cards. It was then 10 o'clock in the morning. The President begged to be excused, as he was then at his bath, but said he would be pleased to see them at 6 o'clock in the evening.

They did not wait, but returned to the vessel after again dodging the indignant army.

MRS. BOLTON SEEKS DIVORCE.

She Is a Brooklyn School Teacher—Husband a Clergyman's Son.

Mrs. Tillie J. Bolton, a teacher in a Brooklyn public school, who lives at 60 Hancock Street in that borough, has begun a suit for divorce from James H. Bolton, an accountant in the Controller's office, and the son of the late Rev. James H. Bolton of Somerville, N. J. She will apply to Supreme Court Justice Erlanger to-day for alimony of $50 a week and a counsel fee of $750 pending the trial.

The Boltons were married at Jersey City on Dec. 22, 1901, and Mrs. Bolton charges her husband with misconduct with Mrs. Emma Zellick, a manicure. He denies the allegation.

In her complaint Mrs. Bolton alleges that she first met Bolton at 107 Park Place in Brooklyn, where they were both boarding. He was unemployed at the time, but subsequently obtained the place he now holds. She says:

> During our engagement, the defendant being without funds, I advanced him money for his living expenses, as he told me that his family had refused to aid him. The money I had saved was from my earnings as a teacher, but out of it I advanced him about $800 from April 1, 1900, to Feb. 1, 1901. Much of this money I gave him in cash, paid his laundry bills, supplied him with money for clothes, doctor's bill, and other things.

After their marriage, says Mrs. Bolton, they continued to live at the boarding house and she paid the bills. Her affidavit continues:

> In October, 1905, his father died, leaving an estate of about $145,000, of which Bolton was entitled to one-third. Thereupon we moved to 193 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, taking an apartment for which we paid $30 a month. He also gave me $70 a month for the expenses of the apartment, and continued to do so until July, 1907.

After this date, she alleges, he ceased to give her any allowance, and in January, 1908, she alleges, she was obliged to leave him on account of his violence.

$250,000 TO CRAWFORD HEIRS.

$60,000 to Each Parent and $50,000 to Her Physician.

While the petition accompanying the will of Mrs. Marion Hortense Crawford, widow of William H. Crawford, filed for probate yesterday, gives the value of the estate at $5,000 in real and "more than $10,000" in personal property, specific bequests of nearly $250,000 are made.

Her mother, Mary Fay Duhain, gets $60,000, and her father, Louis Duhain, a like amount. Mrs. Edith P. Savile and her daughter, Dorothy, receive $5,000 each, and a like amount goes to Dayton Lummis and Charles A. Lummis. Clovis Duhain of Sacramento, Cal., and August Duhain of Brooklyn, her uncles, each receive $5,000. To her sister, Marion Lummis, is given $25,000.

All the real estate Mrs. Crawford owned at Sheffield, Mass., together with a cash bequest of $50,000, goes to Dr. Thomas H. Allen. Mr. R. Livingston Luckey receives $5,000, and Holds von Stuekradt, Mrs. Crawford's nurse, gets $500. Ellen Duffy, a servant, is remembered by a $1,000 bequest, and another servant, Mary O'Brien, receives $200.

The Seton Hospital for Consumptives receives $5,000; a similar sum goes to the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind, and the Society of the Helpers of the Holy Souls receives $5,000. The residue of the estate is to be divided equally between Mrs. Crawford's father and mother.

She appoints her mother executrix, and Reid Langdon Carr and the Knickerbocker Trust Company as executors, and directs that any beneficiary contesting the will shall forfeit his share.

GOVERNMENT SETS POET FREE

Rudnyansky Released from Ellis Island for the Second Time.

Acting under orders from the Department of Commerce and Labor, Commissioner of Immigration Williams yesterday released from custody Gyula Rudnyansky, the Hungarian poet and journalist. He had been detained on Ellis Island since Saturday. His release came through the influence of friends in the Middle West. The order for his release reached the Commissioner early in the morning, and immediately Rudnyansky was notified that he was free.

Some months ago, after a quarrel with another newspaper man of his own nationality, Rudnyansky, who manages a Hungarian newspaper at Cleveland, Ohio, was arrested by the Federal authorities on the charge that he had been convicted of a crime in Hungary twenty-five years ago, and was therefore not a desirable citizen. He was taken to Ellis Island at that time, but investigation showed that the conviction was in a civil case and he was released.

Last week a similar charge was made against the editor, and he was rearrested and sent to Ellis Island. Influential Hungarians appealed to Congressman Cassidy of Cleveland. The result was that the Washington authorities agreed to release him. He left at once for Cleveland.

GIRL TOO YOUNG TO LAND.

Russian on Way to Wealthy Cousin in Louisville Sent Back Home.

It was learned yesterday that Merke Drozinski, a fifteen-year-old Russian girl, who arrived in this country on her way to visit her cousin, Jacob Seidman of Louisville, Ky., had been deported some days after her arrival in this country on June 26 on the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, from Hamburg.

The girl's cousin, who is said to be a man of means, is now inquiring into the reasons for her deportation, supposedly with a view to having the way made smooth so she may be allowed to enter.

According to Commissioner of Immigration Williams, the girl was ordered deported after the usual inquiry. She had no money on arrival, and simply said that she was going to join her cousin in Louisville. Her parents, two brothers, and a sister live in Russia.

THE HUNDRED ASSAIL THE BUILDING CODE

MURPHY'S MAN DEFENDS IT

Alderman Kenneally Declares It Is "Fair, Honest, and Clean"—Acting Mayor McGowan on Guard.

The Committee of One Hundred took another slap at the city administration yesterday in a statement asserting that "the manner in which the Building Code is being revised furnishes evidence of the need for an administration which will eliminate favoritism in city departments." Particular criticism is made of that section of the present Building Code which gives to the Superintendent of Buildings the widest discretion "to vary and modify any existing law or ordinance relating to the construction, alteration, or removal of any building or structure" with the approval of the Borough Presidents.

Attention is called to the fact that one of the early drafts of the proposed new Building Code considered by the revisors contained a clause correcting this abuse by providing that "all such modifications and the Superintendent's decision, with reason, shall be published in full in The City Record within one week after the Superintendent's action, and may be cited as precedents in future cases."

According to the One Hundred this clause was rejected by a committee of five within the Revision Committee, which was declared by the minority members of the full committee to have been appointed in violation of the rules. Of this the One Hundred's statement says:

"It is interesting and perhaps significant that the Chairman of the Committee of Five which emasculated these administrative provisions of the code to the effect of perpetuating favoritism was Edward B. Murphy, the present Superintendent of Buildings for Manhattan."

After pointing out these facts, the statement concludes:

"It is difficult to understand why the Building Superintendent should object to giving the widest publicity to every decision he renders. Is it feared that such publicity might hamper freedom exercised by the Building Superintendent in making decisions for favored buildings?"

Acting Mayor McGowan intimated yesterday that he may be taken into consideration as an important factor in the Building Code revision fight. Asked what he thought of the squabbling over the new code, he replied:

"If this code is passed by the Aldermen at their next meeting, and, consequently, comes to me for consideration, you may rest assured that I will take up all its provisions very carefully, and that I will take advantage of the Corporation Counsel's advice in deciding upon it."

Alderman Kenneally, Chairman of the Aldermanic Buildings Committee, and Charles F. Murphy's personal representative in the board, in reply to the charges that the new code has been framed to favor the Hollow Tile Trust to the disadvantage of the cinder concrete and cement building material interests, issued a statement yesterday in which he said:

"The cinder-concrete provisions of the code are based entirely on the testimony of the experts of the cinder-concrete interests, and still those interests object. They want all. I'll tell you why. One of the requirements of the proposed code is that cinders shall be clean, steam boiler, hard coal cinders. That hurts. They can't use, as they have been doing, dirt, ashes, bottles, and ash-barrel refuse. The requirement for clean cinders is in the interest of safe construction, the protection of the public.

"I venture to say that if we cut out that safeguard there will be no further objection to the passage of this code. Then the dear public can go hang. That dear public gag is an old acquaintance. But let us see who this unselfish, disinterested public is.

"The public quoted is William J. Beach of the Pennsylvania Cement Company. That's the Cement Trust. The other part of the objecting public is William F. McCombs, counsel of record for the Roebling Construction Company, the cinder-concrete monopoly in New York.

"The majority report is fair, honest, and clean."

As to that part of the code relating to the powers of the Superintendent of Buildings, Mr. Kenneally asserts that the very suggestions of the "reformers," as he terms the critics of the code, have been adopted, and that the "reformers" persist in their criticism merely because they "are not making the code."

Widowed Mothers' Fund Incorporated.

The incorporation of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association was approved by Supreme Court Justice Blanchard yesterday, the objects of the organization being to furnish relief and assistance to widowed mothers, deserted wives and their children who may be in need, and to perform other charitable and philanthropic work. There will be seven Directors, and the annual meeting will be held in November. The incorporators are Lizzie M. Levenson, 864 West End Avenue; Matilda Beckhara, 102 West Eighty-seventh Street; Hannah B. Einstein, 121 East Fifty-seventh Street; Carrie Dreyfus, 101 West Fortieth Street; Rae Mack, 125 West 137th Street, and Marie Geisman of 128 Broadway.

Gustav Kissel Sails for Europe.

Among those sailing on the White Star liner Oceanic yesterday for Southampton was Gustav Kissel, the Sugar Trust broker who negotiated the loan which was followed by the closing down of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery Company, and who is now under Federal indictment. Kissel was arraigned yesterday before Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court and allowed to go. With Kissel went his wife and two daughters.

Kings County Lighting Co. Bond Sale.

The Public Service Commission granted yesterday to the Kings County Lighting Company permission to issue $200,000 bonds under its $5,000,000 mortgage to acquire new property and provide for necessary construction. The Kings County Lighting Company serves the Bay Ridge, Fort Hamilton, and New Utrecht sections. The betterments, according to the company's engineers, are needed to meet the growth of this community.

Swiss Charity Benefits by a Will.

By the will of Henry Reinhart, who died on June 27, the Swiss Benevolent Society of 35 West Sixty-Seventh Street receives $3,000. The balance of the estate, which is valued at more than $10,000, goes to relatives in France and Germany.

MORE COUNTERFEITERS.

Three Italians Caught, One Supposed to be Leader of the Gang.

Three more Italians who are believed by the Secret Service men to be engaged in passing spurious five-dollar bills on the east side were arrested late Tuesday night by Capt. William J. Flynn and arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Gilchrist. The prisoners are Giuseppe and Luigi Clementi. They were caught at 130 Cherry Street.

The Federal authorities have been particularly anxious to get Giuseppi Clementi, as they understand that he has been the leader of the gang that has been passing the spurious five-dollar Jackson bills. The Secret Service men have gathered in more than a dozen Italians during this counterfeiting investigation, and they hope now to find the plant where the bad money was printed.

ASKS STRAIGHT NICKEL FARE.

Partial Concession on Coney Trains Not Enough for Complainant.

J. Monheimer of Coney Island, one of the two individuals on whose complaint the Public Service Commission recently passed upon the question of a ten-cent fare to Coney Island on the Coney Island & Brooklyn (Smith Street) Line, gave notice to the commission yesterday that he would press a complaint to have a five-cent fare inaugurated on the Smith Street Line on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.

On the original Monheimer complaint it was sought to have a five-cent fare installed on the Smith Street Line at all times. The commission decided that the company could make money on days other than Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays on a five-cent fare, but that on those days, on account of the density of traffic and resulting congestion a ten-cent fare was required in order to yield a fair return.
